BRITISH PLEAD BUT WILL PAY

GARNER WAVERS ON PLAN TO VOTE WET ON MONDAY

Leaders Hesitate as Drys Protest.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The zeal of certain house leaders to bring a repeal resolution to a vote next Monday suffered a distinct relapse today.

FRED A. BRITTEN.

The weakening of the Democratic leadership sent wet leaders, headed by Representative Fred A. Britten, Illinois Republican, rushing to bolster up the failing spirits of the repeal advocates.

In no one was the waning of enthusiasm more apparent than in Speaker John N. Garner, the Vice President elect, whose idea it was to confound the hesitant Republicans by forcing a vote on the repeal of the 18th amendment on the first day of the session.

Weep Tears of Rage.

Yesterday Mr. Garner was the picture of firmness, asserting that a vote would be had on the first day, even if it took the scourge of party discipline to whip the reluctant into line. But since the issuance of that manifesto an ever increasing string of members, notably from the politically dry south, have come to weep tears of rage and bewilderment on Mr. Garner's and other Democratic leaders' carpets.

Conciliation was the predominating note of the speaker's attitude today. He was ready, he declared, "to back up."

"I am going to do what a majority of the house would like to see done," said Mr. Garner. "If, on Monday morning, I find there is considerable objection to consideration, I'd just as soon back up and say, 'We'll wait.' We'll have plenty of time to consider it.

Garner to Canvass House.

"Personally, I think it ought to be brought up on Monday. Most of the gentlemen who are objecting to this are those who don't want to repeal the 18th amendment. But if I am convinced on Monday morning that immediate consideration is not in the best interests of legislative procedure, I would not hesitate to say 'No,' and would be willing to let the judiciary committee handle the matter.

"I'll try to canvass the situation by Monday and I presume that by the end of the week I shall know pretty well what the setup is. I don't want to foreclose myself on it now."

Learning that the pressure of the drys was having its effect on the Democratic strategy, Representative Britten got in touch with the speaker by phone and assured him that the Republican side would furnish more than 100 votes for the repeal resolution.

Urged to Line Up G. O. P. Votes.

To Mr. Britten and to Representative Carl Bachmann of West Virginia, Republican whip, Mr. Garner declared that it was up to them to line up as many Republican votes as possible.

So far the Democrats are sure of not more than 150 votes for the resolution. With the Republicans' 100 votes this would make a very doubtful 230 votes to carry a proposition on which a majority of two-thirds of those voting is required. Two-thirds of the full membership is 290 votes.

Representative Britten declared:

"Democratic members of the house are morally bound to everything in their legislative power to bring about repeal of the 18th amendment and the immediate modification of the Volstead act. Unless Speaker Garner and his Democratic colleagues proceed along these lines they will lose the support and faith which the voters of the country gave them on election day."

Consider Resolution Friday.

The house judiciary committee is scheduled to consider the repeal resolution next Friday. To the Republican members of the committee, with the exception of the bone dry Representative Richard Yates of Illinois, Mr. Britten sent a telegram urging them to attend the committee meeting.

Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, said that the turn the events had taken had left "the whole thing up in the air." He said he did not know whether the repeal resolution would be brought up Monday or would be delayed, but declared he was certain there would be a vote some time this session.

Miss Talmadge to Mrs. Jessel: $100,000 O K

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Statements that Norma Talmadge, film star, guaranteed the payment of $100,000 which George Jessel, actor agreed to pay his wife, Florence Courtney Jessel, before she divorced him recently in Reno, were disclosed in the Supreme court today. A dispute between the attorneys representing Jessel and Miss Talmadge in the negotiations leading up to the settlement with Mrs. Jessel led to the disclosure.

Miss Talmadge's interest was asserted to have been due to a fact that orally and by letter an alienation suit against her in behalf of Mrs. Jessel had been threatened. The settlement wiped out any claim against Miss Talmadge.

Law Partners Disagree.

The allegations concerning the Jessels and Miss Talmadge became known after Nathan Burkan had been named receiver of the law firm of Lesser and Ippolito in a suit by Frank L. Ippolito for dissolution of the firm.

One allegation by Ippolito is that the firm was entitled to $6,000 for adjusting the Jessel affairs.

In an affidavit telling how the $6,000 fee was earned Mr. Ippolito said that prior to the settlement "Mrs. Jessel was of the opinion that the relations existing between her husband and Miss Talmadge were violating her rights as wife."

Avoids Alienation Suit.

"Among other things," he added, "Mrs. Jessel asserted a claim against Miss Talmadge for a large sum of money for alienating the affections of her husband, George Jessel. At the time the negotiations for a settlement commenced Mr. Jessel was not in a position to pay a sum satisfactory to his wife.

"Finally an arrangement was made whereby Mrs. Jessel agreed to accept from her husband in full settlement of all her rights as his wife the sum of $100,000, and upon Mrs. Jessel releasing any claim she might have against Miss Talmadge for alienating Mr. Jessel's affections Miss Talmadge agreed to guarantee the payments plus $10,000 to the attorneys."

Mr. Ippolito stated that the settlement was carried out by the depositing by Miss Talmadge of a sufficient amount of securities.

Denies $100,000 Guarantee.

Los Angeles, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Norma Talmadge, film actress, in denying tonight she had guaranteed any property settlement, said that with George Jessel's ability to earn $10,000 weekly it "seems ridiculous that anyone should be asked to guarantee a paltry $100,000 property settlement."

"There has been no million dollar alienation of affection suit," the actress continued. "I have no intention of marrying Jessel. I am still married to Joseph Schenck and I have no intention of getting a divorce."

SEIZED BREAKING INTO AUTOS WITH ROLLS OF PAPER

Detectives Thomas Ryan and John Schuten of the Chicago avenue station caught two men using tightly rolled magazines as levers to break door handles off automobiles. They had just broken into a car at Kinzie and Orleans streets and were preparing to drive away with it when they were arrested.

One of the pair, James Novak, 31 years old, 949 West Madison street, protested that there was a mistake and that it was impossible to break a car door with a roll of paper. But the police had seen him do it and he was charged with attempted larceny. So was his companion, Leonard Lindgren, 32 years old, also of 949 West Madison street.

Al Smith Sings 'The Bowery' for Charity

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith assumed the role of baritone soloist for the first time on this or any other stage tonight. He sang the chorus of "The Sidewalks of New York" and a verse of "The Bowery" from the platform of the Town Hall auditorium without missing a note and then, his right arm bobbing tirelessly up and down, led 500 vocalists in the choruses of both songs.

Mr. Smith sang the tunes and led the gathering with the willing assistance of John R. Jones, director of the Town Hall's weekly community sing. At times Al's leading conflicted with the motions of Jones' trained arm, but the audience never was dissatisfied.

Happy Thought Dawns on Him.

In the brief talk that prefaced his singing the former Democratic presidential candidate referred to his part in the program as "a happy thought that dawned on me." When after one false start he swung into the chorus of "The Sidewalks of New York" the happiness became general.

Mr. Jones raced excitedly up and down the stage. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, who arranged the program for the benefit of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, smiled her pleasure.

Caruso of Oliver Street.

The Caruso of Oliver street threw into his singing all he had of voice, spirit, and body—especially this last mentioned. He kept time with his knees and his hands and he called the chorus with his head. When he wanted volume he bent over, stooped down and then jumped like a cheer leader. It was a good idea. He got volume. When he was all through he went off the platform wiping his face, while down in front Mrs. Smith laughed and applauded.

In his address preceding his singing Mr. Smith spoke partly about relief and partly about his own personal vocal activities.

Closing of Perfect Day.

"I might as well call this the closing of a perfect day," he said. "I started out this morning to solicit contributions for the relief fund. After visiting my own neighborhood I went over to Bleecker street. In the afternoon papers you will see me getting a contribution from Joe Caruso. I don't know whether he is any relation of the famous singer, but, believe me, he is a friend of the idle.

"Today we have to care for the people who are in great distress as well as take care of all the other charity enterprises to which the people are committed. We must not let the new relief wipe out the old."

In his earlier experiences as an ace solicitor for the relief fund Al collected about $130 during a brief tour of his old Oliver street district.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Ten o'clock in the morning at the receiving room of the county hospital. Five hundred faces, marked with illness or pain, are turned toward an open doorway. Eyes gleam with hope as white coated physicians summon one, then another. Two out of three of them must be turned away.

A shabbily dressed man, with unquestionable suffering written on his features, hobbles into the examination room. A low whistle comes from the lips of the examining physician as he verifies the man's complaint. He picks up a telephone.

"Can you push another bed in somewhere?" he inquires of the warden's office.

"Is it an emergency case?" comes the query.

Not Emergency? No Room.

The doctor hesitates. He describes an abscessed condition of the patient's body which would make a layman shudder.

"But I can't say it's an emergency case," he finishes, honestly.

"Sorry. No room for him," reports the warden's office. "Do the best you can for him, doctor."

The man is given advice and treatment. He goes away. The examining physician turns with a sigh to the next applicant.

Not many blocks away are the biggest private hospitals in Chicago. Whole floors are empty. Hundreds of beds are unoccupied. Nurses and interns find difficulty in keeping their hands busy.

At the county hospital beds line the corridors. Seventy beds are packed into a ward designed to accomodate forty.

Noted Physicians Start Drive.

This condition yesterday aroused prominent physicians to action. Dr Nathan S. Davis, president of the Cook county school of nursing, Dr. George W. Hall, member of the staffs of St. Luke's and the county hospitals, and Dr. Frederick Tice, chief of the medical staff of the county hospital, announced a campaign to raise funds to relieve crowded conditions at the county hospital by caring for charity patients in the major teaching hospitals of the city, which are half empty.

These physicians emphasized that the doctors, nurses and internes at the county hospital are now doing a remarkable job of caring for the nearly 3,000 patients who are jammed into a hospital with a maximum capacity of 2,500. But they pointed out that no staff could cope successfully with the conditions which have been forced upon the county hospital.

Moreover, thousands of penniless applicants for hospitalization must be turned away from the county hospital for lack of room to house them, it was revealed.

Private Hospitals Half Empty.

Meanwhile, the big private hospitals are less than 50 per cent occupied. Such hospitals as St. Luke's, Mercy, Passavant, Presbyterian, Wesley and Michael Reese have closed entire floors for lack of patients. These hospitals accept all the charity patients they can care for and still maintain operating expenses, it was asserted.

"These hospitals are ready and eager to accomodate the excess flow of patients from the county hospital if they can be paid the bare costs of hospitalization," said Dr. Davis. "The physicians, of course, donate their services free to such patients. The beds are there and the big problem is how to raise the money to pay for the care of these patients in private hospitals."

What method to adopt in raising funds is still being studied by the physicians. The cooperation of James B. Forgan of the American Red Cross was solicited some days ago, but no definite agreement has yet been reached. The doctors also hope to PARIS DEPUTIES REBEL AGAINST PAYMENT TO U. S.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Nov. 29.—A rebellion against the American war debt payment flared up suddenly in the chamber of deputies today and energetic action by Premier Herriot was required to forestall a showdown which would have taken the question out of his hands.

While Herriot was successful in postponing temporarily the inevitable debate on the $19,261,432 installment due the United States on Dec. 15, the government's position was rendered still more delicate by the skirmish.

The premier now stands almost alone in insistance that the government should be free to dicker with Washington according to the turn of events, unhampered by any commitment to pay or not to pay.

Herriot Taken by Surprise.

The offensive on debts caught the government unprepared. The chamber was running through a routine discussion of supplementary appropriations for the month of November. Suddenly up jumped Louis Marin, leader of the extreme nationalist faction and the most implacable opponent of debt payments in the chamber.

On the ground that certain expenditures for which the government was asking an appropriation resulted from suspension of the German reparations payments, he declared that he refused to ratify the item until a debate on the general war debt problem was held. He then recalled the famous reservation voted by the chamber and senate at the ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt accord to the effect that France would not pay America unless she was also paid by Germany—a unilateral reservation not recognized by the United States.

"It was under pressure from America that France signed the Lausanne reparations accord," continued Marin, "but this accord is only valid under conditions set forth in the gentlemen's agreement and the confidence accord."

Recalls War Stock Deal.

Reverting to the familiar argument that France lost out on a deal whereby the United States left behind all its surplus war stocks in return for an engagement to pay $400,000,000, Marin said:

"Since 1918 we have paid $400,000,000 to America. We have relieved the United States of its surplus stocks and paid them $400,000,000 and only realized about $125,000,000 on the resale of them."

Marin concluded by demanding that the chamber place itself on record against a debt payment immediately.

M. Malvy, chairman of the finance committee, chipped in to say that he had engaged the government not to take any decision without consulting the committee.

Minister Gives Pledge.

The only two members of the government present, Maurice Palmade, minister of the budget, and Joseph Paganon, under-secretary of foreign affairs, tried to stem the tide. Palmade promised that Herriot would not act before consulting the chamber.

When Herriot was informed of the situation he hurried over to the weekly session of the steering committee and demanded that the agenda be fixed up so there would be no room for debate in the chamber on the debts before next week. He also flatly refused to discuss debts before a joint meeting of the finance and foreign affairs committees tomorrow "for fear of compromising diplomatic negotiations now in progress."

Work on the new French note to the United States, meanwhile, is at a standstill while awaiting word as to Britain's decision. A cabinet meeting will be devoted to the question tomorrow.

2 SLAIN, 300 HURT IN ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS IN POLAND

LWOW, Poland, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tanks and armored cars equipped with machine guns rolled into action today to stamp out riots involving Jews and anti-Semites in which about 300 persons were injured. The funeral of a Polish student, who was killed in similar disorders yesterday, was attended by 60,000 persons and it turned into a huge anti-Semitic demonstration.

A Polish student returning from the funeral was shot to death by a marksman from a window. This second fatality caused the authorities to fear new disturbances tomorrow, when memorial masses will be said for today's victim in churches at Lwow, Poznan and Krakow. Considerable alarm was expressed in Warsaw and the government suppressed newspapers that were inciting to violence.

The rioting spread to other cities. At Vilna university several students were injured, and at Czenstochowa several Jewish citizens were beaten.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The British cabinet late tonight tentatively approved the terms of a new note to the United States giving reasons why Great Britain thinks America should not insist upon collecting the $95,550,000 installment on the war debt due Dec. 15.

The cabinet will meet again tomorrow, when the note will be gone over again and given final approval. Present indications are that the document will be dispatched to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador at Washington, by cable tomorrow. The contents of the note are being kept secret. However, it was generally agreed here tonight that Britain will pay if congress refuses its new plea. The British note will be published simultaneously in Washington and London probably Thursday or Friday.

Terms Laid Before King.

This new effort to evade payment of the war debt presumably has the approval of King George. Prime Minister MacDonald was closeted with the monarch in the latter's private apartments for more than an hour tonight. It is understood that they discussed the note to America.

This was the second time in two days that the king has been personally informed on the debt question. Yesterday he had a long interview with Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Upon leaving the palace MacDonald immediately called the cabinet to meet at the house of commons. Every member of the cabinet was present at 9 o'clock and the deliberations were extended until 11 o'clock, when the terms of the new note were approved.

Cabinet Split on Terms.

A struggle between the foreign office and the treasury for dominance in fixing the terms of the note came to light today, and it was in this connection that the king was requested to give his advice.

Chamberlain, upholding the treasury, which is concerned for the maintenance of British credit and bank reserves and is dominated by Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is presumed to have presented to the king the proposition that Britain should refuse to pay now or, at the most, pay into a blocked account. This would mean that the money would not immediately be transferred to America.

MacDonald, upholding the foreign office, presumably informed the king of the political view, that payment should be made without further discussion should the new request for postponement be refused, and then the whole question of international debts be taken up when the new American administration takes office.

Expect MacDonald to Win.

Observers are of the opinion that the foreign office view will prevail in the end. The premier today had a long talk with Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador at Paris, who arrived here unheralded last night. It is believed Lord Tyrrell came to London to urge the French thesis that the December payments be not paid. It is also believed that he met with little success.

The British press has dropped its claim that Britain cannot pay the Dec. 15 installment. The Bank of England has $700,000,000 worth of bar gold in its vaults. This is about $100,000,000 more than is needed for currency, and, under the present law, the gold coverage could be replaced by approved securities at the fiat of the treasury.

Fear Attitude of France.

What is troubling the politicians more than anything else is the attitude of France, which is urging a unanimous refusal to pay and trying to make Britain the bellwether of the flock of debtors. If Britain decides to pay, observers here fear, she will be accused by France of being a "bad European," but the British leaders have about made up their minds to risk French displeasure rather than hold up Britain to the world in the rôle of a fraudulent bankrupt.

Amery Warns Against Default.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Speaking at Birmingham, L. S. Amery, former secretary for dominions, declared tonight that default of the war debts "would be a double edged weapon for a country like ours, which is still the greatest creditor nation in the world."

"Apart from the war debts, Britain is owed by the rest of the world four billion pounds, four times as much as we owe the United States," he said. "The consequences of default would strike us in the face from every quarter."

Amery said the only way to pay America would be by denouncing commercial treaties, if necessary, in order to cut down purchases of American goods.

"America must understand she cannot have it both ways—debts can be paid, but trade will have to be cut to do it," he said. "I believe if that is made clear to the United States it will do far more to bring us to a position where satisfactory settlement can be made than any amount of reasoned dispatches saying that our payments would hurt the world at large and incidentally the United States as well."

[In the market section of this paper is a review of the manner in which Great Britain and France have hitherto paid their war debt installments to this country. Britain has made the greater part of its payments in United States bonds bought at a discount and turned in at par.]

MAY PAY WITH ISLANDS

BY ARTHUR SEARS RENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—While Representative Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.] was advocating today cession of British and French possessions off our shores to the United States in part payment of their war debts, President Hoover discussed with his cabinet the next step in dealing with the pleas of the debtors for suspension of payments.

Although decision on the course to be pursued was held in abeyance pending receipt of the forthcoming British note the President and the cabinet, it was learned, are in virtual agreement that the British plea for postponement of its 95 million dollar payment due Dec. 15 should be submitted to congress promptly upon the reassembling of that body next week.

Administration Can Do Little.

All that the administration can do to ease the terms for the British is to waive the 30 day notice requirement and thereby allow Britain to postpone for two years the 30 million dollar payment on the principal.

Congress alone can grant concessions with respect to the 65 million dollar interest payment. Congressional action would be required even to allow the British to place the payment to the credit of the United States abroad in sterling of guaranteed value, as Mr. Hoover has suggested.

While congress continues adamant against reduction of the debts, there is a growing sentiment in favor of alternative forms of payment.

"Payments in kind, in negotiable credits, in service, in marketable securities, or even in definite concessions of any nature," are suggested as such alternatives by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], who will be chairman of the senate finance committee after March 4 next. He said that "we might even consider some modification of debt due from a particular nation as a price for definite trade concessions."

Islands of Military Value.

Representative McFadden asserted that it would be to the advantage of the United States to accept in part payment from Great Britain and France the island possessions of those nations in the western hemisphere.

"Many of them," he said, "are the seats of strongly fortified British naval bases and by their location can be designed for no other purpose than possible hostilities against the United States.

"Bermuda is a case in point. That group of islands has large dockyards and extensive fortifications, barely 30 hours by fast steamer from New York city and hardly four hours by airplane. It is only 5 hours by airplane from Hamilton in Bermuda to the capital of our nation at Washington.

"The Bahama islands are not fortified but provide a splendid base for aerial operations against Florida and our South Atlantic seacoast. Jamaica dominates the Caribbean from the center and is an effectual naval and aerial 'cover' for the Panama canal.

Chain of Strategic Importance.

"The Windward and Leeward islands wall in the Caribbean on the east. British Guiana providing a mainland 'anchor' for the long chain of islands which run north to Porto Rico and Haiti. On the western side of the Caribbean, British Honduras occupies a position of great strategic importance.

"Trinidad, almost touching the South American continent, has a strong naval base; so has Kingston, in Jamaica. I would point out that no possible enemy threatens British interest in our home waters, unless Britain regards the United States as an enemy.

"May I suggest that it would be a welcome gesture of intended friendship if England should offer to transfer to the United States in part payment of her debt to us the colonial possessions which she holds in waters which wash our coasts from Florida to Maine? It would provide a partial settlement of the debt burden which England finds so heavy, and it would give us a feeling of security, besides strengthening the friendship between the two nations.

"It also would be the most effectual step in the direction of real disarmament which could be taken in the present state of the world. I commend this suggestion to all those groups in the United States who are so active at this time in disarmament—in both our army and navy.

"The possessions of France in American waters are less extensive than those of England, but are important. They begin on the north with St. Pierre and Miquelon and include Martinique, the Guadeloupe islands and French Guiana, the latter a mainland colony with some coastal islands. The total area is 33,000 square miles and the population 529,000."

Nurse Dies by Poison at Tuberculosis Sanitarium

Miss Luella Browne, 32 years old, swallowed poison last evening at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, Crawford and Bryn Mawr avenues, where she was employed as a nurse, and died soon afterward. Another nurse, Miss Mabel Deerinse, told the police Miss Browne admitted she had taken the potion with suicidal intent. Miss Browne joined the sanitarium staff in 1929, when she came here from Omaha, Neb.

GROUP CARE FOR AILING ATTACKED BY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

"The difference between incitement to revolution and a desire for gradual evolution," is the way that an editorial written for The Journal of American Medical Association, out Dec. 3, characterizes the difference between the majority and minority reports.

The journal concludes that one must view "the expenditure of almost a million dollars by the committee and its final report with mingled amusement and regret." That publication is issued at the headquarters of the association, in Chicago.

In the course of the editorial is the following comment:

"The recommendations of the majority will not come as a surprise to the thousands of physicians who have followed closely the trend of the studies as indicated by the reports published from time to time since 1927."

The editorial asserts Dr. Harry H. Moore, who directed the committee's investigation published a book "American Medicine and the People's Health," which revealed his personal bias for insurance schemes and, indeed, for governmental practice."

The magazine also charges that "one of the pet schemes" of E. A. Filene, "who probably was chiefly responsible for establishing the committee—and in developing funds for its promotion was the rendering of medical care of groups.

"The American Medical association," the editorial insists, "through its board of trustees, supports the minority report. No doubt the house of delegates, at its session in Milwaukee next June, will urge every physician affiliated with the association to do likewise."

BUNDESEN WARNS OF "RACKETEER INFLUENZA GERM"

More Dangerous than Bomber, He Says.

"The flu germ is a racketeer more dangerous and costly to business than the bomb thrower."

This was the warning given yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen president of the board of health, to the public, and especially to employers.

"Naturally," said Dr. Bundesen, "the individual should be more concerned about the danger of contracting influenza than his employer, but this year individuals who have jobs are likely to be more careless, will go to work regardless of a cold in the head, spread the germs, work under the handicap of lowered efficiency and thus cost employers far more in time and money than is lost usually by victims of bomb attacks, considering those, of course, in which there is no loss of life."

Pneumonia Cases Decrease.

Board of health figures on pneumonia, frequently a complication of flu and as frequently fatal, show no increase in the number of cases in November this year over the same month of 1931. Last year there were 444 cases for this month as compared with 381 cases this year. Deaths, however, showed an increase for November, 1932, over the same month last year, 174 being recorded this year and 152 last.

"No serious flu epidemic exists in Chicago at this time and there are no definite indications that one impends," continued Dr. Bundesen, "but that is no insurance for the future, particularly if employers of office, store, and factory workers fail to recognize the danger of allowing employés suffering from colds to remain on the job. They should be sent home at once, regardless of what they say about their ability to remain at work."

Two Sets of Health Rules.

Dr. Bundesen set down for individuals two sets of rules, the first to aid in preventing colds and flu; the second to aid in curing the diseases. The first set:

1. Keep windows open at night and as much as possible in the daytime.
2. Avoid contact with persons who cough and sneeze.
3. Avoid crowds as much as possible.
4. Don't wear wet clothing. Keep your feet dry.
5. Get a full measure of sleep and don't overexercise.
6. Avoid over eating and excessive use of alcohol or tobacco.
7. Keep home temperature well regulated.

The second set of rules, to help overcome colds and influenza, follows:

1. Drink plenty of fluids.
2. Eat as much as your appetite dictates, but no more.
3. Take alkaline drinks such as fruit juices. Milk may well be the main part of the diet.
4. Stay in bed if you have fever.
5. Prevent intestinal sluggishness.

Influenza, according to Dr. Bundesen, is a cycle disease, being more prevalent some years than others. The last serious epidemic in this country was in 1918.

JAPAN PROPOSES REDUCTION IN SIZE OF CAPITAL SHIPS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Japan's naval disarmament plan, soon to be submitted to the disarmament conference, proposes abolition of aircraft carriers, reduction of capital ships of 25,000 tons, and of their gun caliber to 14 inches, and retention of submarines.

Vice Admiral Osami Nagano disclosed these provisions today. He added that reduction in the size of cruisers and destroyers also is advocated. Japan also will propose prohibition of decks and platforms on capital ships from which aircraft might take off.

"Our plan," he said, "aims to fulfill the principle, to which the disarmament conference is committed, of increasing defensive arms and reducing offensive power. But we must consider the geographical situation of each country.

"We think the submarine is a defensive weapon, and therefore we oppose scrapping it, but we suggest reduction in its size. We do consider the aircraft carrier offensive, and after abolishing that weapon we suggest that it be made impossible for other ships to be used for the same purpose."

GROUP MEDICAL CARE URGED BY SURVEY REPORT

Advocates Basic Change in Methods.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Sweeping changes in the field of American medicine which, if put into effect, would result in the partial socialization of medical treatment, were advocated today in the report of the committee on the costs of medical care.

RAY LYMAN WILBUR.

The committee's report, the result of five years' exhaustive research, was delivered before the National Conference on the Costs of Medical Care at the New York Academy of Medicine.

The committee has been supported by eight foundations and two other organizations, the Carnegie corporation, the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation, Milbank Memorial fund, New York Foundation, Rockefeller Foundation, Julius Rosenwald fund, Russell Sage foundation, Twentieth Century fund, Social Science Research council and the Vermont Commission on Country Life.

The revolutionary document, which advocates extension of the hospital center idea, with the use of insurance and taxation to place costs on a group payment basis, has already stirred the beginnings of a controversy which bids fair to rock the medical world.

Opposed by Association.

From Chicago came word that the Journal of the American Medical Association in its next issue, Dec. 3, would impute bias to the report and urges support of the minority findings, which were signed by members of the American Medical association on the committee. The journal blames a doctor, who has written abroad, and Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant and banker, as leaders in the movement for the survey and report.

The medical costs committee, created in 1927, with Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, former president of the American Medical association, as chairman, made twenty-six fact-finding studies. Its work was supported financially by eight foundations and other organizations. Institutions with special facilities for research, including the Medical association and the American Dental association, assisted in supplementary work.

For Hospital Centers.

The report, calling national health "our greatest asset," urges immediate steps to better conditions by putting its recommendations into effect. Medical service, both preventive and therapeutic, should be furnished largely by organized groups of physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, and other personnel, the report declares, and these groups should preferably be formed around a hospital.

The committee recommends extension of all basic public health services, whether by governmental or nongovernmental agencies, so that they will be available to the whole population. This extension, it is pointed out, requires additional financial support for health departments and their staffs.

Most startling of the changes advocated by the committee is that contained in the recommendation that costs of medical care be placed on a group payment basis through the use of insurance, taxation, or both of these methods.

Fee Method Not Destroyed.

The report makes clear, however, that this is not intended to preclude the continuation of medical service on an individual fee basis for those who prefer that method, and that cash benefits, or compensation for wage loss due to sickness, should be kept separate from medical services.

The report proposes additional coordination of medical services and the creation of state and local organizations to facilitate this. Coördination of urban and rural services should receive special attention, it states.

In the field of professional education the committee advocates added emphasis on the teaching of health and disease prevention, more effective efforts to provide trained health officers, greater attention to the social aspects of practice, restriction and specialization to those specially qualified, and increase in post-graduate opportunities.

Better Prepared Auxiliaries.

It also proposes a broader educational background for dental students, more stress on pharmacists' opportunities and responsibilities in pharmaceutical education, remolding of nurses' education to provide better qualified registered nurses, a provision for less thoroughly trained but competent nursing aids, adequate training for midwives and systematic training of hospital and clinic administrators.

The medical center system, the majority of the committee reported, "would be fairer to practitioners than the present system, because it would provide them with higher average incomes and would give the largest rewards to those with the greatest experience and ability."

The committee found that only 1.4 per cent of the money spent by the public for medical care goes to the prevention of illness, while 78.5 per cent goes for the care of illness, 17.4 per cent for dental care and 2.7 per cent for eye care.

In terms of dollars, the report said, the per capita expense in the United States for medicines is $5.49 and for public health work $1.

The committee said there is need for some system "whereby the unequal and sometimes crushing burden of medical expenses can be distributed."

Minority Recommendations.

Nine members of the committee signed a minority report. The minority recommended:

"That government competition in the practice of medicine be discontinued and that its activities be restricted entirely to certain types of service.

"That government care of the indigent be expanded, with the ultimate object of relieving the medical profession of this burden.

"That coördination of medical service be considered an important function for local communities.

"That united attempts be made to restore the general practitioner to the central place in medical practice.

"That the corporate [i. e., organized] practice of medicine be vigorously and persistently opposed as wasteful, inimical to high quality, or productive of unfair exploitation of the medical profession.

"That careful trial be given methods which can rightly be fitted into our present institutions and agencies without interfering with the fundamentals of medical practice.

"That state or county medical societies develop plans for medical care."

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 29.—The intense heat wave which began Saturday has increased constantly, the mercury rising from 88 Sunday to 90 Monday and 94 today, a record for the summer thus far. Thousands of persons stayed all last night on the riverfront avenue and in Palarmo park.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—With the temperature officially recorded at 16 degrees above zero, the high plateau of Mexico experienced the coldest weather in fifty years last night. The casualty list is expected to be heavy.

Houses in central Mexico are not built to withstand the cold. The Indians, clad only in cotton suits and sarapes and living in exposed huts, suffered severely.

REPORT SHOWS HOW MEDICAL DOLLAR OF U. S. IS DISTRIBUTED

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The committee on the costs of medical care, in its report today, figured the nation's "medical dollar" is distributed as follows:

Physicians in private practice, 29.8 cents.
Hospitals, 23.4 cents.
Dentists, 12.2 cents.
Medicines, 12.2 cents.
Public health, 3.3 cents.
Nurses, 5.5 cents.
Cultists, 2.4 cents.
All others, 9.2 cents.

It made the following comparison between the number of United States soldiers killed during the world war by wounds or in battle and the number who lost their lives in this country in 1930 "through largely preventable causes":

Killed in war, 50,285.
Killed by tuberculosis, 88,088.
Killed by cancer, 119,818.
Infant deaths, 135,845.

PHYSICIANS ASK MONEY FOR FREE HOSPITAL BEDS

Wards Packed, County Rejects Thousands.

obtain the assistance of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission on the ground that unemployment has contributed largely to the great increase in applicants for treatment at the County hospital.

The Emergency Welfare Fund, Inc., composed of local charities, is now arranging to pay for about 100 beds in several of the private hospitals, it was learned. But this arrangement will "only be a drop in the bucket," in the words of Dr. Hall.

"There should be 500 to 1,000 more beds in Chicago hospitals for charity patients," said Dr. Davis. "Our private hospitals can take care of those poor devils just as well as the county and at the same cost."

"Take the situation at St. Luke's hospital," said Dr. Hall. "We have 700 beds there. Fewer than half of them are occupied. Entire floors have been closed. In former days, when our income from donations and endowments was much greater, we had 150 to 200 charity beds. Now we can't afford more than 15 or 20.

Gifts to Hospitals Cut.

"St. Luke's hospital, and I am sure this is the case with the other large, privately endowed hospitals, never operated at a profit. But in former years the wealthy men serving on the board of directors made up the deficits at the end of each year. Now those men cannot make the contributions they formerly made. Just at the time that beds for poor patients are most urgently needed there are no endowments to provide such facilities."

The matter of surgical operations was touched upon by Dr. Davis. He revealed that most of the surgeons at the county hospital, because of their many duties, visit the hospital only twice a week and operate on those days.

"Thus, if a patient in need of an operation arrives on Monday, he must, perhaps, wait until Thursday when the surgeon to whom he is assigned visits the county hospital," he pointed out. "The delay may not only be distressing to the patient, but it costs the county three extra days of hospitalization for the patient.

"In a private hospital this would be avoided. Staff surgeons operate every day. There are other benefits in the private hospitals. Their ratio of nurses is one to three patients. In the county hospital it is one nurse to eight patients. The ratio of internes is one to five patients in the private hospitals, one to twenty at the county hospital."

At the county hospital, members of the staff and the nurses fervently indorsed the move to relieve crowded conditions there. Dr. O. C. Nelson, assistant warden, led a reporter on a tour of inspection.

11,000 Out of 17,000 Rejected.

The county hospital is a small city over which tragedy hovers constantly. More than 500 men and women each day besiege the gates of this city, a suffering, poverty stricken crew. An average of fifteen persons die daily in this city of 3,000.

In October, 17,346 persons applied for admission. Eleven thousand, three hundred and eighty-three were turned away. Among them were hundreds, Dr. Nelson said, who would have been admitted to a bed years ago when the place was not over-crowded.

Yesterday, 2,950 persons were in the hospital. Beds, occupied by listless patients, lined the long corridors which were stuffy and shadowy.

INSISTS HE'S SANE; DEMANDS AND IS GIVEN THE DEATH PENALTY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—It was Dallas Egan's boast he was no coward. He was a product of street gangs—fighting, stealing, and ever at odds with the law.

In Superior court on trial for the murder of W. J. Kirkpatrick, coal merchant of Battle Creek, Mich., during a holdup, Egan made good his boast yesterday.

"I have always said that if I poisoned a well I could drink from it," Egan told Judge Isaac Pacht. "I want the full penalty."

The judge granted his request and sentenced him to be hanged.

Egan's attorney, who had been pleading his client was insane, sought to interrupt. Egan stopped him.

"With all respect to my attorney, Egan said, "I want to say I plead guilty to this murder while in my sound mind. When I committed the crime I was also in my sound mind. None of us is entirely sane. You yourself, your honor, probably are not entirely sane. According to standards by which humans are judged, I am as sane as any man."

Egan made no attempt to involve his two co-defendants, George Turcott and Homer Rogers.

He will be hanged at San Quentin penitentiary.

KEEP HOSPITAL OPEN FOR LONE PENNILESS MAN

Foreclosure Must Wait Until He's Well.

The irony in the plight of the Bellevue hospital at 437 East 60th street—it used to be called the Washington Park—lies in the fact that it has to stay open to take care of one patient who has no money, while if he had funds it would be easy to close.

Last night the Woodlawn police were informed of this queer inversion of the usually accepted laws of economics. There was a call from the hospital office and the clerk there told the desk sergeant that an ambulance was needed to take a patient to the county hospital. Policemen Michael Nolan and Frank Rothman were sent to investigate.

"This hospital has got to close," said the woman clerk who had summoned them. "The Chicago City Bank and Trust company has a mortgage and has foreclosed. All the patients have gone but one. The bank has ordered us out and we want to go.

Want County to Take Him.

"Of course something has to be done about our patient. He is David Fitzgerald of 6540 Ingleside avenue and he's been here five weeks with a fractured hip. He has paid only $20. Pay hospitals won't take him and we want him carried over to the county hospital. Then we can lock up."

Policeman Nolan, who is something of a lawyer, remarked that this simple solution would not work.

"You can't move him without a physician's certificate," he said, "and besides that the county won't take him, once he's been in your hospital more than one day, unless a county commissioner approves."

There were some hasty conferences between the hospital office and the bank officials. At last it was agreed that as the patient couldn't be moved he would have to stay a little longer. Because he has no money the clerk, a day nurse and a night nurse and a man to fire the furnace must stay on the job.

Unpaid Debts Force Closing.

Arthur G. Rathje, vice president of the bank, said the hospital had been conducted by one Carl Bauer under an arrangement with the financial institution, but that the bank was not interested in the management. Bauer, he explained, had been forced to close because his obligations had not been met.

While the disposition to be made of Fitzgerald was being argued, Mr. Bauer appeared at the Woodlawn station to surrender on a charge of giving a noncashable check to an employé. He furnished bonds of $50 and left.

NAVY MAY DRAW ECONOMY FIRE OF ROOSEVELT

Vinson Persuaded to Cut 100 Million from Budget

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—The United States navy will come in for a stiff dose of economy during the Roosevelt regime, it was indicated here today after Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, emerged from an hour's conference with President Elect Roosevelt.

Mr. Vinson did not quote the President elect but his own change of front from the "big navy" man he was a short time ago to the attitude he showed today, proposing drastic cuts in the naval building program and general economies, was most expressive. It was plainly seen that Mr. Roosevelt had convinced him that in the interests of national governmental economy, the navy must get along on very short rations for a while.

100 Million Off Budget.

At least 100 million dollars can be pared from the naval budget, Mr. Vinson said, and he showed every sign that not only the interests of economy would be well served by such a cut, but that the peace of the world will also be strengthened in that other nations will be inspired to trim their own naval outlays.

The naval chairman declared that he now is willing that the naval building operations be reduced far below the maximum set in the treaty of London. The treaty fixed the allowance for the United States naval expenditures for new construction and replacements at 600 million dollars over a five year period, but Mr. Vinson said he would propose the appropriation of no more than about 30 millions a year for the present.

Seeks Increased Efficiency.

President Elect Roosevelt's purpose, as it was reflected in Mr. Vinson's attitude, is to provide the United States with a small navy, which he hopes to make powerfully effective on his knowledge of naval affairs, rating himself an expert of the first calibre. Since he served as assistant secretary of the navy through the world war Mr. Roosevelt has followed a hobby of collecting ship models and prints, and his collection, strewn around all of his homes and offices, is rated high in its class.

It was indicated through Mr. Vinson that the president elect does not favor the consolidation of the army and navy departments under a single unit, a project advanced recently by his friend, Bernard M. Baruch of New York.

To Consolidate Bureaus.

But Mr. Roosevelt does desire, it appeared, that economies be effected not only through curtailment of the building program, but also through more practical control of all purchases.

"We can consolidate a few bureaus and create a center purchasing agency for both military departments," Mr. Vinson said. "Under the present system many of the government departments compete with each other in bidding for supplies and equipment.

"Such a central purchasing department might well serve the entire government."

Central Purchasing Device.

This last statement by Mr. Vinson was considered highly significant, pointing to a possibility that Mr. Roosevelt will establish such a central device for the purchasing of all government needs. While in the navy department he established a purchasing agency there, requiring all bureaus to buy through it.

The naval chairman also said that many economies could be effected in the navy department through the elimination of obsolete flying fields, navy yards, and other posts.

"We must have a real navy and not a paper fleet," he said, "but there is no question in my mind that we can save a great deal of money through careful study and revision of the present inadequate system."

Mr. Vinson said he proposed in a few days, shortly after his arrival at the capital, to summon his committee together to go over the details of what shall be recommended to congress at the coming short session.

Urges Proper Use of All Land.

President Elect Roosevelt today addresses two hundred of Georgia's backwoodsmen, villagers, and forestry folk, telling them that economic conditions in this land would be much more stable if every acre of land in the Union was put to its proper use.

He told the Georgians about the land planning put into effect in his home state of New York, where what he called "marginal lands," scarcely fit for the raising of crops, are being bought up by the state and put to the uses of reforestation.

Then he tied this method up with the depression and asserted that all lands in the nation should be surveyed and those fit for one use devoted to that use alone, so that the most might be gained out of the land.

Deeded a Great Oak.

In a sentimental gesture, Eugene and Sarah Brown, the two grandchildren of A. J. Barnes, a Warm Springs farmer, presented Mr. Roosevelt with a deed to a great oak standing along the road skirting the Barnes farm.

The President elect, responding to the presentation, told of his "being against war" ever since a munitions maker had caused an old black walnut tree standing on the Hudson near his Hyde Park home, a tree 21 feet in diameter, to be cut down to be manufactured into rifle stocks.

Senator Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, who deserted the Republican cause to support Roosevelt in the recent campaign, has been invited by the President elect to visit him on his way to Washington.

HALF MILLION IN 5 LIBERTY BONDS STOLEN AT BANK

Disappear from Cage of N. Y. Teller.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Five $100,000 United States Liberty bonds, delivered at 12:30 p. m. vanished some time before 2 p. m. today from the Continental Band and Trust company's main office at 30 Broad street, as a result of what was believed one of the boldest thefts the financial district has seen.

Operating in the zealously policed area surrounding the New York Stock exchange and the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., the thief was believed to have stood before a teller's grating, and to have fished out the half million dollars in securities. Traces of chewing gum, or some other sticky substances which might has been used on the end of a stick, were found on the lower bar of the grating later.

Nothing Suspicious Seen.

That, however, was the extent of clews announced by the police. Persons in the bank, including a half dozen tellers stationed at neighboring windows and a special officer on duty on the bank floor, reported that they had seen nothing suspicious.

Bank officials absolved Robert W. Drummond, the teller in whose custody the bonds had been, from all suspicion. He has been with the bank for 15 years.

Allen K. Brehm, first vice president, said that he had ordered the purchase of $1,000,000 of the bonds for the bank's own account.

Held for Second Consignment.

The first consignment consisting of the five $100,000 bonds were brought to the bank at 12:30 by a messenger from the stock brokerage firm of C. F. Childs & Co. Mr. Drummond received them, acting in his capacity as teller of the securities department Mr. Brehm said, but did not enter them and place them in the vault immediately because he expected the second $500,000 consignment shortly and wished to handle both in one bookkeeping operation.

The teller placed the bonds on the shelf of his cage.

At 2 p. m. he glanced at the spot and the bonds were not there.

HIRAM JOHNSON TELLS G. O. P. TO RECOGNIZE "THE COMMON MAN"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who bolted his old time enemy, Herbert Hoover, and worked for the election of Gov. Roosevelt, today called for a "new deal" within the Republican party.

The former Bull Mooser, who now lines up on most questions with the senate's radical Republicans, declared the time had come for the Republican party to recognize "the common man."

"The Republican party has got to recognize just that one thing if it is to be in the future, even in small part, the party of the people," the senator said. "The great mass of the people believe that the government has been administered for the special few.

"It wasn't any individual or any special feature of the campaign that brought about Mr. Hoover's defeat; it was the thought deep down in the soul of the rank and file that the government had forsaken them."

"This talk of reading some of us out of the Republican party is all poppycock. It is the other way around. Gov. Roosevelt polle as many Republican votes in California as Mr. Hoover. If those managing, controlling and manipulating the Republican party don't stop their clamor and change their attitude we shall read them out of the Republican party. It has got to be a liberalized party; it has got to recognize the common people."

HENRY FORD IS STILL MAKING "FAST PROGRESS"

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Henry Ford, a source close to his family said, was making "remarkable progress" tonight as he lay in his hospital bed convalescing from the emergency operation Saturday.

A man connected with the Ford organization who visited the patient in his two room suite at Ford hospital said "he looked like a million dollars." Other sources said the after effects of the surgery, in which a strangulated hernia was repaired and the appendix removed, had worn off and the motor magnate is able to joke with attendants and to read newspaper accounts of his illness.

The consensus of physicians, members of the Ford organization and hospital attendants tonight was that Mr. Ford is well past the critical period, with recovery only a matter of rest and quiet.

A bulletin issued by his physicians said at 6:30 p. m. today that "Mr. Ford's condition remains satisfactory. Temperature, 99; pulse, 86 and respiration, 20." In other words, physicians said, his heart, pulse and respiration have returned to normal.

Mr. Ford's immediate family continued their visits to his room today.

JOINS PICKET IN FRONT OF HER HUSBAND'S SHOP

Mrs. Harry Weisel, wife of the owner of the All Adore Cleaners and Dyers, 5542 North Clark street, joined a union picket yesterday in patrolling the street in front of the cleaning shop. The union picket appeared last week after Weisel had cut prices and reduced the salaries of employes. He carried a placard declaring the shop unfair to union labor. Mrs. Weisel joined him in his march yesterday with a placard of her own that said: "We are not against organized labor, but we are against organized racketeers."

R. F. C. APPROVES NEW LOAN FOR ILLINOIS NEEDY

Cermak, Others, Pledge State Sales Tax.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Assured that the Illinois legislature at the coming regular session will pass a state-wide sales tax to provide relief funds, the Reconstruction Finance corporation agreed today to advance $4,935,078. That will carry the state's relief activities through December.

The corporation's decision was announced less than an hour after a delegation headed by Mayor Cermak had been heard by the directors. It was the fifth relief loan Illinois has obtained from the corporation, bringing the total to $25,238,228. Directors of the corporation insisted the new agreement in no way diminishes the responsibility of Illinois to meet its own needs where possible.

Want More State Action.

However, as an indication that Illinois is striving in every way to raise its own funds, the directors pointed to the emergency relief legislation passed last week by the special session. The four measures, they said, while serving to decrease the need for federal aid, still were insufficient to enable the state to meet relief requirements.

"The county option sales tax passed by the legislature last week is an emergency act," Mr. Cermak said, "and we do not think it will raise sufficient money to enable Illinois to do its share in caring for its destitute. The regular session of the legislature meeting in January will act on the statewide sales tax issue."

Foresees Millions from Tax.

"I estimate that in Chicago alone this will raise between 40 and 50 million dollars, and coupled with economies of government to be initiated under Gov. Horner should enable Chicago and the rest of the state to carry its own relief burden."

Others in the delegation besides Cermak were E. L. Ryerson, chairman of the Illinois relief commission; Emmet Whealan, president of the Cook county board; State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, William H. Sexton, Chicago's corporation counsel; De Witt Billman, representing Gov. Emmerson.

HORNER IS 54 TODAY; FEELS 34, HE SAYS; WISHES HE WERE 24

Governor Elect Henry Horner will be 54 years old today and to an inquirer who asked for a few comments from him last night he replied, philosophically, as follows:

"What if it is my birthday? Everybody has a birthday. The more birthdays a man has the luckier he is. Yes, I am 54, and I am as strong physically as I was at 44. I feel as if I were 34 and I wish I were 24.

"If you want to celebrate a real birthday why don't you call the public's attention to the fact that this is the anniversary of Mark Twain's birthday. There's a man who put a lot of blue into the sky and joy into the hearts of many people. His job is done and we ought to be celebrating his birthday. My job is just begun and I am going to celebrate my birthday in getting ready for it, and that means that my birthday will be spent in working just as I expect to do every day for the next many months."

Wilfred S. Reynolds, secretary of the relief commission, and C. B. Goodspeed.

CONFER ON LOAN

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Representatives of four leading New York banks and the four largest Chicago banks met here today and entered into a general discussion of the methods to be employed in making available to the city of Chicago the $23,489,190 needed to meet bond and interest payments due the first of the year.

The banks represented were the Chase National bank, National City bank, Guaranty Trust company, and Bankers' Trust company of New York, and the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Continental Illinois National bank, the First National bank, and the Northern Trust company, all of Chicago.

The methods of operation discussed today included that of an out-and-out banking credit; second, issuance to the public of bond and interest obligations, and third, refunding bonds. In the event that the latter course is taken, it was pointed out that present holders of the maturing bonds of the city would be asked to accept new bonds.

HOTEL OWNERS AGAIN WARNED TO BAR KENO GAMES

If Hyde Park hotel and restaurant owners heed the advice of the police department they need have no fear of the racketeers who are said to have organized a new keno syndicate. Commissioner of Police Allman said yesterday. Recently on the commissioner's order, Capt. Martin E. Mullen, who is in charge of the morals division, visited more than 60 hotels, warning the proprietors of those that have keno games to stop them, and suggesting to those who were contemplating the installation of the game to change their plans.

Capt. Mullen's visits followed an opinion on keno written by Earle R. Downes, assistant corporation counsel, who recently ruled also that checkers is a gambling game when played for prizes. To a hotel operator who inquired about his opinion on keno, Mr. Downes wrote:

"It is assumed that the project proposed to be launched by you involves a risk by the payment of money for a keno card by the player who, if successful in winning the game, is to be rewarded with prizes of something of value.

"As a matter of law, any establishment, building, or enclosure housing games, conducted in the manner that you wish to maintain the game of keno in your buildings, comes under the classification of gambling houses and becomes a public nuisance."

FAIR CONVENTION OFFICIAL SEES BARKER DOOMED

Fairs of the future will do without the midway barkers and circus freaks and give way to modern musical comedy entertainments. That was the prediction yesterday of Ralph Hemphill, secretary of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions, which is holding its annual meeting at Hotel Sherman.

"The public is tired of the bearded lady and the barker, just as it wearied of the medicine man," said Mr. Hemphill.

Mr. Hemphill declared that air shows at the fairs were going out because the big thrill in aviation was a race, which the fair could not produce. He pointed out that the fairs had pioneered this form of entertainment. The association's membership is drawn from state and interstate fairs in this country and Canada.

JACOBS PREDICTS ASSESSMENT CUT OF $611,568,216

Real Estate Valuations Reduced 25%.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs estimated yesterday that the 1931 assessments for taxation purposes in Cook county, which his office will have completed within a few weeks, will total $3,904,917,610. This is $611,568,216 below the 1930 assessment total of $4,516,485,826, a reduction of 13.5 per cent. The assessment figures are 37 per cent of the full value of personal property and real estate as appraised by the assessor.

J. L. JACOBS. [A. P. Photo.]

The reduction was wholly accounted for by the cut in real estate assessments, in line with the declining prices of real estate in the county since the last quadrennial assessment, which was for the year 1928. Real estate assessments dropped an average of 25 per cent. At the same time the total of personal property assessments was boosted 35 per cent through an assessment drive, which increased the total of personalty assessments from 278,000 in the 1930 assessments to 890,000 in the present valuation.

Railroad Assessments Cut.

Railroad assessments, made largely by the state tax commission, also declined 10 per cent. The assessment totals for the two years follow:

Class—	1930.	1931.
Real estate...	$3,489,088,569	$2,869,857,467
Personalty ..	840,656,242	1,100,687,350
Railroads ...	216,741,015	194,972,793
Totals ...	$4,516,485,826	$3,904,917,610

While the figures given out by Assessor Jacobs are an estimate, he stated that the actual assessment totals will vary little from the estimate, since the assessment work is virtually completed. The estimate was made for the convenience of local governments, which are starting to prepare the 1933 budgets, and must know the assessment totals in order to estimate their tax revenue.

Technically, the assessment totals are for the tax year 1931, and will be the basis only for the tax levies of last year, to be placed in collection in January. Actually, the budget makers will be able to use the same assessment totals for their 1933 budget making.

A Quadrennial Reassessment.

The present assessment is a quadrennial reassessment of real estate. The basic values established under it for real estate will be changed in subsequent assessments only to account for improvements, a virtually negligible factor during the present year, at least. Personal property assessments are made anew each year, and the personalty valuations in the 1932 and 1933 assessments may vary considerably from the 1931 total.

The assessment roll is one of the two factors which fix the total tax bill, the other factor being tax rates applied by the various taxing bodies. The reduction in assessments automatically reduces the levies of the various governments, since maximum rates are fixed by statute for most of them. Without regard to reductions in tax rates, the reduced assessments place a limit of about $250,000,000 on the 1931 taxes for which it will be possible to bill taxpayers on the first of the year. This is $40,000,000 below the all-time high set by the 1930 tax bills, more than 45 per cent of which are still unpaid.

Tax Rates Also Cut.

Tax rates have been reduced, however, as well as assessments. When it started operations last spring the citizens' committee on public expenditures demanded of the large taxing bodies of the county that they cut their 1931 levies in a number of respects below the maximum permitted them by law. Mr. Jacobs estimated yesterday that these reduced tax rates, applied to an assessment roll 13.5 per cent lower than in 1930, will result in a decrease of about 25 per cent in 1931 tax bills.

If this estimate is correct 1931 tax bills in Cook county will total in the neighborhood of 217½ million dollars. The citizens' committee last week recommended to the major local governments that they adjust their 1933 budgets to keep the total 1933 tax levy in Cook county below 200 million dollars.

City Total Three Billion.

Mr. Jacobs estimated that 1931 assessment total within the city of Chicago at $3,285,327,557, and that in the country towns of Cook county at $619,590,053.

On the basis of yesterday's estimate the Republican machine which controlled the city hall and school board when the 1931 budgets were made up grossly overestimated its tax revenues, and as a result appropriated millions of dollars which it will be impossible to raise by levies on the lower assessment roll.

In that year both the framers of the city and school budgets estimated tax revenue by applying the maximum rates allowed by statutes to the 1928 assessment total, which was $3,650,351,185, an overestimate of $865,123,875.

The overestimate resulted in appropriations of $5,000,000 beyond legitimate expectancy of revenue in the city corporate fund and similar overappropriations of $5,650,000 in the school educational fund.

Ruth knew very few words when her mother left her in Germany, but the first thing she asked yesterday was, "Is Santa Claus coming?"

SCHOOL BOARD TO GET PLAN TO PAY WITH WARRANTS

A resolution offering teachers and other school employes 1932 tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash as compensation for their back due salaries will be introduced this afternoon at the meeting of the board of education. More than $19,000,000 is owed to the board employes, who have been paid in cash through April.

Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell announced last night that he would make the proposal to pay out in warrants. "Of course any teacher who doesn't want warrants won't have to take them," he added, replying to teachers' opposition to the plan.

"I shall vote against it," asserted Mrs. W. S. Hefferan. "The teachers are opposed and want to be heard by the board. I will demand that they be given a hearing."

Among the teacher leaders who expressed their opposition were Agnes B. Clohesy, president of the Elementary teachers' union; Dorothy Well, president of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, and Charles Stillman, chairman of the joint conference of 29 teacher organizations.

Miss Clohesy said that issuance of 1932 warrants in small denominations would send their market value down and the banks then would not take warrants to finance a pay day in cash.

NEW LINER SAILS TODAY; YOU CAN'T GET SEASICK ON IT

GENOA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The world's first "roll proof" liner, designed to prevent seasickness, will sail tomorrow on its maiden voyage to New York. It is the 48,000 ton Conte di Savoia and it was built to keep an even keel in the roughest seas.

Three 100 ton rotors whirling in its hold at 910 revolutions a minute are counted on to keep the liner's decks straight. When waves start the ship rolling, the gyroscopes begin spinning, and this process develops a stabilizing force which tends to keep the vessel on an even keel.

They are American made gyro-stabilizers, heretofore used only on warships and yachts. The Italian line spent $1,000,000 to install them.

The ship represents Italy's second impressive gesture in the last two months for ocean supremacy. With the 50,000 ton Rex, which started its maiden trip late in September, it will carry on the line's new "super fast" service.

Nine days were required for the trip to New York prior to the advent of these two ships, which are designed to make the trip in six and one-half days.

U. S. COURT WRIT FORBIDS SELLING HOTEL FOR TAXES

Injunction Puts County Treasurer "On Spot"

After County Judge Jarecki refused to halt the collection of $615,000 in 1928, 1929 and 1930 taxes owed by the Chicago Beach hotel property at 1660 Hyde Park boulevard yesterday, attorneys representing B. F. Lindheimer, Democratic politician and federal court receiver for the hotel, served a federal injunction on County Treasurer McDonough restraining him from offering the property for judgment sale.

During the morning hearing in Judge Jarecki's court Attorney George Lennon, representing Lindheimer, informed the judge that the property was in federal receivership. Consequently, the lawyer said, the County court had no jurisdiction to enter an order of sale.

Sees No Conflict of Power.

"There is no conflict of authority here," Judge Jarecki told him. "If anything, the collection of these taxes is an aid to the federal court in determining the obligations against the hotel. In addition to this, tax jurisdiction is solely lodged with the County court."

Attorney Lennon then pleaded that the case be continued until 2 o'clock. This was granted and shortly after noon the lawyer appeared in Treasurer McDonough's office. He served representatives of the treasurer with an injunction issued by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the receivership is pending. The injunction restrains the treasurer from proceeding with Judge Jarecki's order of sale if such an order is given.

Dilemma Put Up to Jarecki.

At 2 o'clock Attorney Thomas Nash, representing the treasurer, and Attorney Lennon appeared before Judge Jarecki. Attorney Nash exhibited the injunction and explained the order served on the treasurer. He asked Judge Jarecki's advice on how to proceed.

"I see no reason to withhold my order of sale," exclaimed the judge. "That injunction or any other injunction cannot apply to me. No court can be enjoined from doing its duty, and I don't believe that Judge Wilkerson would issue such an order if he understood the circumstances here."

Interpretation to Be Asked.

Attorney Nash then asked that Judge Jarecki withhold his judgment until this afternoon. He said he would appear before Judge Wilkerson today and ask the judge to interpret the meaning of his injunction. Afterward, he said, he will report to Judge Jarecki. The judge agreed to do this as a courtesy to the treasurer.

During the morning Judge Jarecki entered another 500 judgments against objections to 1929 and 1930 taxes. The protests involved approximately $150,000 in taxes.

TAX FIXER WINS CONTINUANCE ON PERJURY CHARGE

Herman J. Goldberg, convicted tax fixer, was granted a continuance until Dec. 6 when he appeared yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court on a charge of perjury. Goldberg was indicted by the October grand jury investigating his charges that Albert Swanson, brother of the state's attorney, had shared the profits of a tax fixing racket. Attorney Abraham Marovitz obtained the continuance with the statement that he wanted time to prepare a written motion to quash the indictment against his client.

MERRIAM MAPS SEVEN WAYS FOR SAVING CHICAGO

Presents Plans to Unite Area's Governments.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Interstate compacts between Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin for dealing in the Chicago area with such governmental matters as policing, health, parks and recreation, were advanced by Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago yesterday as one of seven roads out of the "governmental jungle" in the metropolitan region.

[illegible] at the Union League club Prof. Merriam gave an exposition of the survey which the university has made under his direction of the multiplicity of overlapping, duplicating, tax devouring governments in the region.

The regional port commission recently created by the legislatures of Illinois and Indiana was set forth as suggesting what might be done in other lines by interstate cooperation. State boundaries are no interference to population growth, industrial expansion, business and commerce, Prof. Merriam pointed out, and they might be broken down politically if a "regional consciousness" is developed.

Separate statehood for the Chicago region, as the state of Illana, embracing parts of Wisconsin, Indiana, and Illinois, was dealt with by the professor as a suggestion offering "most interesting possibilities."

Multiplicity of Governments.

The Merriam survey, which covers a metropolitan area roughly within a fifty mile radius of the city hall, shows that the region, with a population of five million, has the following taxing agencies, governments, and tax consuming appurtenances:

Three states, 15 counties, 163 townships, 202 municipalities, 67 park districts, more than 1,000 school districts, 72 library districts, 350 public police forces, 556 courts, 167 public water supply agencies, 326 health agencies.

In all the report shows some 1,700 different governments in the region. To run these governments there are 7,700 elective officials and some 75,000 public employes.

"Thirty years ago," said Prof. Merriam, "there were 130 cities in the region. Now there are 204. In three decades 74 have been created. It's an 'Alice in Wonderland' system. The rate of growth of the outlying communities far exceeds that of Chicago corporate. From 1910 to 1930 Chicago's population increased 25 per cent, while the percentage increase was 72 for the remainder of Cook county and 52 for the entire metropolitan region outside of Chicago."

Cites Increase in Costs.

"We may remain indifferent to this situation, but as the pressure of governmental costs grows greater, and perhaps as the scandal of misgovernment grows more notorious and becomes injurious to the city, the truth will be forced home that in unity there is strength."

Seven solutions advanced in the Merriam report are:

1. Consolidation of the governments in Chicago.
2. Annexation of territory to Chicago.
3. Federation of territory with Chicago.
4. Consolidation of Chicago, Cook county and sanitary district.
5. Formation of metropolitan districts, by Illinois statute or by interstate compact.
6. Home rule.
7. Independent statehood for Chicago, or Cook county, or the metropolitan area within Illinois, or the tri-state region entire.

"One interesting possibility," said Prof. Merriam, "is that of the organization of an interstate police district and board, with the cooperation of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. This is an unexplored region in American government. But it is evident that 200 cities, fifteen counties and three states are incapable of [illegible] effectively with [illegible] crime. [illegible] regional police situation, and that changes must be made in the future to insure adequate protection for the public and competent handling of the crime problem.

Favors Regional Solution.

"The park needs of the Chicago area likewise need a regional solution. The simplest beginning would be by way of a concurrent commission appointed by Illinois and Indiana to consider the joint Illana problem in parks and recreation.

"Legally there are fewer obstacles to the interstate treatment of regional problems than there are to intermunicipal coordination.

"In 1931 the Illinois legislature passed an act which may be the occasion for joint action on the sewage problem. This act permits any municipality in an adjacent state to construct a sewage disposal plant in Illinois jointly with any adjoining Illinois municipality.

"Perhaps the most significant set of acts envisaging interstate coordination are those dealing with the Chicago regional port commission."

Prof. Merriam spoke of 60 interstate compacts which have been made since 1789 involving nearly all the states and dwelt upon the compact between New York and New Jersey, establishing the New York Port Authority which controls bridges and tunnels and terminals and works out agreements between shippers and distributors of food sold in Manhattan.

Developments Possible.

"It is a long jump," he said, "from harbor supervision to suburban transit or food marketing agreements, but the interrelationships of metropolitan commerce and government are such that like developments in the Chicago area need not come as a surprise.

"In addition to the possibilities of an expansion of the proposed Chicago regional port authority, interstate agreements may be used further to meet common problems of government. Harbor, water, sewage, health, food supply and recreational problems may be treated in the same way. The possibilities in this direction have been neglected, but they offer wide openings for advance. The formation of state compacts and arrangements of various sorts was contemplated from the beginning of our government."

DRIVE BOOSTS WELFARE FUND TO $2,608,550

Gov. Emmerson Signs 4 Relief Bills.

The total raised in the Emergency Welfare Fund's drive for $7,500,000 to support the established charities in providing relief other than to the idle was boosted yesterday to $2,608,550 when workers reported additional subscriptions. At the same time these new subscriptions were being reported Gov. Emmerson at Springfield was signing four bills passed by the legislature to provide additional relief funds for the idle.

The section of the trades and industrial division, which includes the banks, bonds, insurance, real estate, stock and grain houses, leads all others in the percentage of its quota of the welfare fund raised to date, it was announced. That section has raised 55 per cent, or $669,320, of its $1,375,000 quota.

Heilman Tells Aim of Work.

Dean Ralph Heilman of Northwestern university, addressing the workers at their luncheon in Hotel La Salle, emphasized that the welfare fund was not to be spent for the idle but would be used to care for "the sick, the crippled, the mentally unfit and the 5,000 or more children now under public care without the protection of parents or even foster parents."

"Many of our citizens believe that the seemingly large sums of money advanced by the state and federal government should and do take care of the needy at this time," he said. "This is far from the truth. All citizens must realize that the government funds are advanced to give some measure of relief to the idle, but in no way take care of the man unable to work even though he had the opportunity."

Bills to Provide Relief.

The four bills signed by Gov. Emmerson yesterday include the Meents bill, which gives county boards the right to issue bonds without referendum by a two-thirds vote for six times the amount the counties receive in their share of the 3 cent state gasoline tax. He also signed a companion bill providing for the payment of the bonds from the counties' shares of the state gasoline tax.

The other two bills permit townships and counties with fewer than 500,000 inhabitants to make supplemental tax levies for pauper aid. Gov. Emmerson has under consideration the other two major relief measures passed by the legislature at its last session. They are the Igoe bill, which gives Cook county authority to issue $17,000,000 of relief bonds without a referendum vote, and the Tice bill, providing for an optional county sales tax of 1 per cent.

ALL WHITE HOUSE EMPLOYES GET PAY CUT, EFFECTIVE TODAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Hard times descended today upon the White House and its employes.

All hands received notice that effective tomorrow and continuing to the end of the fiscal year next June, three and one-half days' pay a month will have to be cut off. This affected both the President's secretarial staff and the household ushers and servants.

Congress cut $6,160 off the year's White House appropriation last spring. Other economy means were sought by the White House, but in the end the pay cut had to be imposed to make up the appropriation shortage. The President's pay, fixed by statute, is not affected but he already has taken a cut.

SEABURY SHOWS TEN YEAR JUMP IN FIVE PAY ROLLS

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—In the decade from 1922 to 1932 New York City's pay roll for personal service in five departments only—salary increases to old employes and the hire of new ones—has increased 136 per cent, Samuel Seabury showed today, when the joint legislative committee began its hearings aimed at revision of the charter.

The total increase is $1,427,894 and the departments involved are the mayor's office, the board of assessors, the department of markets, the board of estimate and the board of aldermen.

GIRL'S FATHER TAKES STAND IN $100,000 SUIT

Wright Defends His Acts in Kuhn Case.

William Van Doren Wright, steel company executive and one of the defendants in the $100,000 damage suit of William S. Kuhn Jr. growing out of the latter's arrest in connection with a number of extortion letters, took the witness stand late yesterday before Superior Judge Peter Schwaba and related the story of the letters.

He said the threatening notes had alarmed him, that he had requested aid of the Secret Six, and that he had sent his daughter, Marion, to St. Louis for safety. Miss Wright and three other persons are co-defendants with Mr. Wright. She has remained away from the trial for several days, supposedly because of slight illness, but it was reported that she might appear in court today to testify.

Notifies Secret Six.

"I was truly alarmed when I received the letters," said Mr. Wright. "In fact, I went armed for a while. As the letters continued to come in, I notified the Secret Six and asked for a guard. A guard was provided. The letters still came in, and then—it was about Dec. 1—I sent Marion to St. Louis."

The threatening letters were received during November and December of 1930 and they demanded $25,000. Mr Wright testified. Questioned by Attorney Edward Everett of the defense Mr. Wright said that he feared not only for the safety of his family but of himself.

Discusses Case with Sleuth.

He testified that he discussed the matter with Edgar Dudley, then an operative for the Secret Six and a former dry agent, who had charge of the case. Dudley is one of the defendants in the suit now on trial. Mr Wright told Dudley, he said, that he meant to run the extortionist down and that, if necessary, he and his daughter would appear in court.

Mr. Wright was specific on the point that at no time had he heard the word "arrest" used in connection with young Kuhn. He was also specific in denying that he knew anyone named Lester McKay—the name attached to the threat letters.

"Have you any idea or knowledge as to the identity of the writer?" Mr. Everett asked the witness.

"No, but I have a firm conviction," retorted Mr. Wright.

Spectators Get a Laugh.

Mr. Wright's testimony was brief, as was the direct and cross-examination of the attorneys. The witness stand was occupied most of the day by former Investigator Dudley. Dudley, in his testimony, brought about a ripple of laughter from spectators and others in his reference to a "bottle of decent bourbon."

He was being questioned by Frederic Burnham, attorney for Kuhn, as to his conferences with defense counsel.

"If you mean I was coached, I wasn't," answered Dudley.

"Were you in Attorney Everett's office after court the other night?" persisted Burnham.

"Yes, I was," replied Dudley.

"And you didn't talk about this case?" asked the lawyer.

"If you want to know, I'll tell you," replied Dudley. "I went there to find out where I could get a bottle of decent bourbon."

Dudley, later, discussing the finding of detective stories in young Kuhn's room, denied that such books convinced him that Kuhn had written the extortion letters. The theory had been advanced previously.

FIND 'SKYSCRAPER BURGLAR' GUILTY FOR FIRST TIME

Melville Reeves, 45 years old, known as the "skyscraper burglar" fifteen years ago, was found guilty of burglary by a jury before Judge Rudolph Desort of the Criminal court last night. The verdict automatically provides a sentence of one year to life in prison.

It was said to be the first time that Reeves has been convicted of a criminal offense, although arrested numerous times. A motion for a new trial will be heard by Judge Desort on Saturday.

Reeves was found guilty of looting the office of H. W. Kastor and Sons Advertising company, 360 North Michigan avenue, of $53 in stamps. He was arrested last Memorial day by Policeman Ernest Pieske. Pieske testified that he nabbed Reeves as the latter broke through a window of the Michigan avenue building on the lower level of Wacker drive. In Reeves' pocket, he said, he found the stamps and some burglar tools. Reeves denied the charge, and said that he had picked up the tools.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE IN FRONT OF HOME

Lorraine Bandemier, 5 years old, 1945 West 33d street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile in front of her home last night. She died a few hours later at the county hospital. The driver of the automobile, Nicholas Guardina, 37 years old, 5407 South Francisco avenue, fled after the accident, but surrendered about midnight to the Brighton Park police. He explained that he feared he would be roughly handled by a gathering crowd if he remained in the neighborhood. The death of the child increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 1,024.

Dixon Hayes Gets Himself Out of Economic Balance

Dixon Hayes, 120 Scott avenue, Wheaton, who is part Scotch, got himself into an uneconomic situation yesterday. Some time ago thieves stole a headlight rim and bulb from his automobile, and he put in an insurance claim for 92 cents. The claim was allowed. Yesterday Hayes, who is a mechanic, left his place of employment in Oak Park and rode to the loop on the elevated to collect the 92 cents payment. The fare for the round trip was 20 cents. When he returned to work he found he had been docked $1.50, making a total cost of $1.70 to collect 92 cents.

ALDERMEN ACT TO LEGALIZE 33 CUT RATE CABS

Amendment to City Taxi Ordinance Proposed.

The council subcommittee on taxicabs acted yesterday to give "15 and 5" cabs legal standing on the streets of Chicago. The subcommittee directed the corporation counsel to draft an amendment to the taxicab ordinance, for submission to the council tomorrow, permitting the 24 drivers of the Public Taxi Service company and nine drivers of the Capitol Taxi company to operate without interference by police.

The rates of the Public company, 15 cents for the first third of a mile and 5 cents for each third of a mile thereafter, are not only lower than those charged by the large Chicago cab companies, but also lower than "15 and 5" rates in New York City. The Yellow and Checker companies in Chicago charge 25 cents for the first quarter of a mile and 10 cents a half mile thereafter. An ordinance fixing 15 cents for the first quarter mile and 5 cents for each quarter mile thereafter as the maximum rate will go into effect on Dec. 15 in New York.

Step Proposed by Bowler.

The step toward legal recognition of lower taxicab rates in Chicago was taken by the subcommittee at the suggestion of Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee. The Public company, in operation for several months, ran for a time on an extra-legal basis through the intervention of aldermen. The aldermen requested the police not to enforce provisions of the present taxicab ordinance which have in effect restricted the local taxicab field to companies already in business.

The amendment to be presented to the council tomorrow is intended only as a stopgap measure, to allow the cut rate cabs to operate until the subcommittee accomplishes a complete revision of the taxicab ordinance, aldermen said. That, they estimate, may take months, or even years. The request of the recently organized Century Cab company for licenses for 1,500 cabs was left in abeyance. That concern is headed by Robert McLaughlin, former head of the Checker Taxi company.

Suggests End of Prosecution.

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] followed the proposal of the amendment with the suggestion that the city drop charges against three Capitol drivers and thirteen drivers for the Public company arrested since Nov. 18 for violation of the taxicab ordinance.

Attorney Lee Daniels, representing the Public company, asserted that all except one of his clients were arrested by Policeman William McAvoy, assigned to the police vehicle bureau. McAvoy, who was one of the incorporators of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, which writes casualty insurance on Checker taxicabs, trailed the drivers in his own automobile and arrested them, Daniels charged.

"Is McAvoy still a member of that insurance company?" demanded Ald. O'Grady. "It's an outrage, this fellow following these independent drivers around. Commissioner Allman should be told about it."

"I don't blame McAvoy entirely," said Daniels. "He probably was following orders."

Killackey Stands on Law.

"Did you order him to trail those drivers?" Ald. O'Grady asked Lieut. James Killackey, head of the vehicle bureau.

"While the ordinance is in force I have to enforce it," replied Lieut. Killackey.

"The city shouldn't interfere with these men who, Mr. Daniels said, are making a living," said Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th]. "I understand that on one occasion this McAvoy went to a hospital, called a Public taxicab from there, and then arrested the driver when he arrived. That's plain entrapment."

Chauncey Scandiff, an official of the Public company, told the committee that in Cleveland the Yellow Cab company, which cut its rates there to 5 cents for the flag pull and 5 cents for each third of a mile during a rate war with another company last January, still showed an $8,000 profit for the month. His company can operate at a profit at its higher rate of "15 and 5," Scandiff asserted.

Barrett Reads Statement.

George F. Barrett, counsel for the Yellow Cab company, read a statement that during the period of the rate war the Yellow cab drivers in Cleveland had net earnings of only $1.12 a day. Previously they had been earning an average of $2.25 a day, he said. Attorney Daniels said that after allowances for depreciation of their cabs the Public company drivers are making an average of $7 to $9 per 12 hour shift in Chicago.

"Do you conclude from this that all drivers would make that much if every cab in Chicago charged your rates?" asked Ald. James B. Waller [43d].

"Our drivers were able to make that much in the face of interference with their business by police," replied Daniels.

DR. LOUIS E. SCHMIDT PROPOSED TO HEAD LINCOLN PARK BOARD

Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, veteran Chicago surgeon, has been placed in the running for appointment as president of the Lincoln park board under the incoming state administration.

DR. LOUIS E. SCHMIDT. [A. P. Photo.]

While the governor does not name the president of the board, that office being filled through election by the park commissioners, it has been the custom to follow the wishes of the governor, and the indorsement given Dr. Schmidt proposed his name for the presidency.

This recommendation was voted by the Democratic committeemen of the nine north side wards and will be presented to Judge Henry Horner, governor elect, before his inauguration on Jan. 9.

This indorsement by all of the north side committeemen is the most definite move in the Democratic patronage field since the election. Judge Horner has steadfastly refused to commit himself to any appointments.

But the indications are that there will be an army of jobseekers participating in the inaugural jubilation on Jan. 9. All the railroads running to Springfield have announced they will have several special trains.

With the certainty of a record breaking crowd, all talk of holding the ceremonies in the chamber of the house of representatives has been dropped. Judge Horner and the other state winners in the Nov. 8 election will take their oaths in the old arsenal, which can be made to seat 10,000.

Chicago Democrats intend to take full advantage of the public sentiment registered in their favor this year and tomorrow there will be a meeting of the Cook county central committee, during which all ward committeemen will be urged to keep permanent headquarters open in each ward throughout the 12 months of the year. Many have already planned to do so.

FINDS DOCUMENTS ON DISCOVERY OF AMERICA IN 1452

SEVILLE, Spain, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Documents indicating that the American continent was discovered in 1452 by the Portuguese navigator, Pedro Vasquez de la Frontera, have been discovered, it was announced today by the Portuguese historian, Cortesao, former director of the National library at Lisbon and now a political exile here.

In the archives of Latorre del Tombo, he said, he found documents which may prove that De la Frontera, in company with Diego Detieve, another Portuguese, preceded Columbus by forty years.

One of the documents, he said, is a statement by a sailor that De la Frontera told Columbus himself about finding a new continent far to the west. Apparently, said Cortesao, the Portuguese pioneer, landed at Newfoundland and brought back evidence of his discovery. Cortesao is to lecture on this subject here soon.

2 Panama Canal Workers Drown as Flood Tips Raft

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, C. Z., Nov. 29.—Two workers at Madden dam were drowned today when a raft was caught in the flood waters of the Chagres river and overturned. The flood situation eased sufficiently today to permit the transit of 20 vessels in the Panama canal. The Gatun lake level dropped, permitting the closing of several spillway gates and the locking of culverts. Flood waters forced the closing of the canal yesterday.

INSULL BATTLE NEAR; PAPERS DUE IN ATHENS FRIDAY

Court Hearings May Open Next Week.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 29.—The request for extradition of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, together with the presidential warrant for his arrest and depositions on which are based the charges of larceny and embezzlement made against him in Illinois, will be in the hands of the Greek foreign office for official translation Saturday. The courier bringing the papers is expected to reach Athens Friday.

Once translated, which may take several days if they are bulky, the papers will be sent to Anthony Reganakos, prosecutor of the Appeals court. It appears possible that the first hearing may start the latter part of next week. The actual extradition procedure should require but a few days.

Political Charge Barred.

According to advices tonight, the Appeals court will not enter into the substance of the case against Insull, but will merely assure itself that the offenses of which he is accused are covered by the documentary evidence submitted.

It was said that the court will not allow examination of witnesses or documents that might be brought in by Insull's lawyers and the decision will not be influenced by assertions of the defense that political motives are behind the case.

While it appeared that the extradition proceedings would not be prolonged, the question arose whether Insull's actual transfer to the United States might be delayed on the grounds that he is too ill to travel.

Insull Gives Interview.

Insull today gave an interview for a local Greek paper, Vradini, which supports the new Royalist government. Insull is quoted as saying that he hopes to remain here under the protection of Greece.

"I am one of the creators of Chicago's magnificence," he was quoted as saying. "I directed hundreds of enterprises and handled billions of dollars. I cooperated with Edison, father of electricity. To think that now my enemies accuse me of the embezzlement of $150,000 when I spent $20,000,000 on Chicago opera and for ten years filled gaps in the opera budget."

LEAVES TO BRING YOUNG RUNAWAYS BACK FROM WEST

Mrs. Dora Stout, 6324 South Campbell avenue, mother of William Stout, 17 years old, who with three other boys and two girls drove to Denver on Nov. 18, departed yesterday for Denver to return them all to Chicago. The other children are William Gerth, 18 years old, and his sister, Helen, 16, of 6127 South Seeley avenue; Anna Senese, 15 years old, 1839 West 63d street; Frank Gorley, 16 years old, and William Cullen, 16 years old. The addresses of the latter two were not learned by police.

John B. Gerth, father of the Gerth children, told Lieut. Edward Birmingham of the detective bureau that all had driven to Denver in the Gerth family car. A report that William Gerth had married the Seneca girl and that William Stout had married Helen Gerth was denied yesterday at the Stout home. There it was said that the children had visited a brother of Mr. Cullen, who lives in Denver, and were staying with him when the parents received word of their whereabouts.

BRETONS FORM TERROR SOCIETY; SEEK HOME RULE

France Faces Movement Similar to Sinn Fein.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 29.—French police admitted today that they had obtained no clews to the persons who participated in the recent attempt of alleged Breton autonomists to blow up Premier Herriot's train near Nantes.

The "autonomist" dynamiters are variously suspected as German agents, communists, secret police agents trying to build up sympathy for Herriot and patriotic French of the right trying to create embarrassments for a left government.

But one thing is now known definitely—that there exists a bona fide Breton home rule movement in which the terrorists, if they belong at all, are only a small spoke.

First Cousins to Irish.

It is nothing new, this autonomy for Brittany or Sinn Fein movement, but it has taken a new twist. To get to the bottom of the present stir in Brittany it is necessary not to stretch the Irish parallel too far.

Racially the Bretons, ancient Armoricans, are first cousins to the Irish and throughout many sections of their wild country they still speak an ancient Celtic tongue similar to Gaelic and even closer to Welsh.

For the last four centuries they have been annexed to a country as completely different from their own as is England from Ireland. But they were not annexed by force. It was a voluntary union, sealed by a royal marriage.

Autonomy Move Recent.

It cannot be said that perfect harmony between Bretons and their French rulers has existed all throughout these four centuries. But self-conscious autonomism is the out growth of a regional movement which itself only dates to 1898. At that time a literary and historical association for the defense of Breton costumes, tongue and traditions was founded. It was called the Union Bretonne and was a purely intellectual groupment without any subversive political aims.

Two similar organizations, the Parnasse Breton and the Hermine Breton got under way shortly after. These two were nonpolitical but fostered in a dreamy sort of way the poetic ideal of a Pan-Celtic federation, uniting the populations of Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Cornwall, and Brittany.

It was in 1911 that anti-French feeling began to crystallize among Breton intellectual circles in Rennes and it was a statue which did it—the same statue showing Anne of Brittany submissively offering her realms to Francis I., which was blown up last summer.

Intellectuals Forget Idealism.

The war, with the sudden flaring up of Wilsonian idealism which followed it, really started the home rule movement. A Breton aristocrat and political leader, the Marquis d'Estourbeillon, issued a manifesto demanding the application of the principle of self-determination to Brittany.

Highly significant is the change in the attitude of Breton intellectuals, who have forgotten their poetic visions and become home rule extremists. At the center of the movement is the newspaper, Breiz Atao—Brittany Arise—published in Rennes. Around it has clustered a queer group of fanatical autonomists. One of the animating spirits is a woman, Mlle. Rosek, who bears the lurid sobriquet, the "Red Virgin."

The Breiz Atao group is the legal front of Breton autonomism. The sinister stuff is in the hands of a secret society known as Gwenn Ha Dhu—Black and White. This society sends threatening letters to its enemies and holds trials of treacherous or lukewarm autonomists. Fines are imposed and orders of banishment issued.

Denied Extension

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 29.—(AP)—An extension of Leon Trotzky's visa, which expires Thursday, was refused today. The exiled Russian bolshevik sought an extension so that Mme. Trotzky might remain here for medical attention. Trotzky came here from Turkey to lecture on the Russian revolution.

SLAIN MRS. SAXE LEAVES ESTATE TOTALING $23,750

Mrs. Ellen Saxe of Riverside, who was slain on Nov. 18 by 16 year old Bertrand Arnold, left an estate of $23,750. This was disclosed yesterday when Oscar Caplan, assistant to the probate judge, issued letters of administration to her son, Philip O. Saxe, 1036 Hyde Park boulevard.

Mrs. Saxe left no will. Under the law, therefore, her estate will be divided among her son and three daughters, Mrs. Catherine Loucks and Miss Mary Edward Saxe, both of Gloversville, N. Y., and Mrs. Frances Arnold, stepmother of young Bertrand.

Personal property in the estate is appraised at $17,750, including various stocks and the automobile which Bert asked her to lend him to attend a dance on Nov. 18. He killed her when she refused. The remaining $6,000 of the estate is in real estate.

Assistant state's attorneys spent last evening preparing evidence to be presented at the Arnold trial Saturday.

2 NEW JUDGES INSTALLED IN CRIMINAL COURT

Judges Francis B. Allegretti and James F. Fardy, newly elected to the Superior court bench, were inducted into office as Criminal court judges yesterday afternoon. After a brief ceremony in the flower decked courtroom of Chief Justice John Prystalski, Judge Allegretti took over the call of Judge John J. Sullivan, who will return to the county building to hear cases in common law. Judge Fardy will hear his first case on Monday. He will replace Judge Rudolph F. Desort if the latter is assigned to the county building. If Judge Desort remains in the Criminal court building, Judge Fardy will be given a separate call.

STATE CLAIMS BANK ROBBER'S $30,000 ESTATE

The $30,000 estate of Ned W. Hills, bank robber, was claimed by Halbert O. Crews, public administrator, yesterday, when he obtained letters of administration from Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Hills was killed during a bank robbery in Davenport, Ia., on Oct. 6, and he left no known relatives or heirs. The estate is largely in cash on deposit in a Gary bank. The Bankers' Association of America has started a garnishment suit to obtain the money on the grounds that it was part of the proceeds of bank robberies.

STEAL TRUCKLOAD OF SMOKES.

Two thieves yesterday got into a parked truck, loaded with cigars and cigarets, in front of 403 West Oak street and drove away with it. The driver, Arthur Behrens, 3843 North Lockwood avenue, notified the police. The truck was found later, but the cargo had been stolen.

RED WHO PLOTTED AGAINST STALIN SERIOUSLY ILL

MOSCOW, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Gregory S. Zinovieff, once one of the powers in soviet councils who was expelled from the Communist party for all time about a month ago on charges of conspiring against Josef Stalin, was seriously ill today.

It was reported that a heart attack followed this expulsion and subsequently he was treated at Kremlin hospital. There were apparently authoritative reports early today that he had died. This was denied later by the foreign office. The present whereabouts of Zinovieff was not discovered.

Rumors of Assassination.

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Numerous reports of the death of Gregory S. Zinovieff, former head of the third internationale who has been expelled twice from the inner councils of soviet Russia, were received in Berlin today. Rumors were soon spreading that the 49 year old leader who was alleged to have written the famous "red letter" to British Communists in 1924 that led to a rupture of British-Soviet diplomatic relations, had met an untimely end. It was rumored even that he had been assassinated or poisoned. The soviet embassy denied these rumors.

BELGIAN VICTORS IN PARLIAMENT TO SLASH DOLE

Plan Drastic Reforms in Finance Crisis.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Sunday's general election left the strength of the Catholic Liberal coalition practically undisturbed in the chamber of deputies. The coalition still has 103 votes, against 84 for the opposition.

The Liberals, however, divided on the question of remaining in the coalition and the resignation of Count Charles de Broqueville's cabinet was predicted. The coalition government was formed last month.

Foreign Chief Reëlected.

The reëlection of Foreign Minister Paul Hymans, which was uncertain for a time, was assured with today's count. He will leave tomorrow for Geneva to preside over the league of nations committee of nineteen when it deals with the dispute over Manchuria.

It was the liberal members of the cabinet who forced the election on the argument that the financial crisis had become so acute that dractic reforms were necessary. Receipts from taxation have diminished notably and expenses of government have increased, largely because of costly social legislation including benefits for the idle.

The liberal program for retrenchment contemplates a vigorous slash in the social services and inauguration of a "financial restoration plan" to curb social expenditures, cut out "abuses" in the payment of doles, of pensions, and subsidies to parochial schools; readjustment of taxation aimed at safeguarding commerce and industry; and the use of loans to help industry and check unemployment without endangering the stability of the Belgian franc.

Security Disarm Bases.

Security is the basis of the liberal disarmament policy, and legislation is contemplated to establish free trade, with protective tariffs available for retaliation against countries which discriminate against Belgian commerce.

HONDURAN REBEL ARMY FIGHTS AT DOOR OF CAPITAL

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Gen. Fonseca, head of the rebel army operating around Tegucigalpa, sent an ultimatum to President Carias today demanding surrender of the city. The president refused to surrender and challenged the rebels to take the city.

Heavy fighting has started with the main rebel army near Sauce, 18 miles from Tegucigalpa. The Red Cross is bringing in wounded.

A rebel attack was repelled in the Manto Olancho district with numerous casualties. Fifteen rebels were killed and many wounded in a defeat administered to them near Ocotepeque.

Watch Fire 20 Minutes Before Giving Alarm

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Washington fire department is at a loss to understand why a large gathering watched an apartment house blaze for 20 minutes before any one thought of turning in an alarm.

Hit that COLD a Dempsey Blow!

Knock it out in the first round!

Don't take a cold lightly or treat it casually. A cold may easily lead to something more serious. Treat a cold quickly. Treat it seriously. Treat it decisively.

First of all, take a COLD remedy for a cold. A cold is a specific condition calling for specific treatment. A remedy that is good for half a dozen things can't be equally effective for a cold. Many people actually fool themselves with popular "cure-alls" because they constipate and make the system acid.

Second, take an internal medicine for a cold. A cold is an internal infection and calls for internal treatment. Local, or outside applications can't reach the real seat of the trouble and can't prevent the infection spreading within the system.

Four Effects in One!

Every requirement for quick and decisive relief of a cold is found in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Ask your doctor and he will tell you that no physician in the world can write a better prescription for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It does the several things necessary to thoroughly rout a cold. It opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first requirement in the treatment of a cold. It kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. It relieves that headachy and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system.

Relief—Quick and Complete!

In a word, relief with Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is COMPLETE relief! The cold isn't merely suppressed, but driven completely out of the system and, at the same time, the system fortified against further attack. That's the relief you want for a cold or grippe. Anything less is only fooling yourself.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is non-narcotic and absolutely safe. It produces no bad after-effects—does not upset the stomach, nauseate, or cause ringing in the head. In dainty tablet form, it is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Handy, pocket size boxes cellophane-wrapped, for sale by every drug store in America.

For years Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been regarded as the "stitch in time" in relieving colds. For, a few of the tablets taken immediately when sneezing and headaches begin is usually all that is necessary to expel a cold overnight. Any dealer who offers you a substitute is cheating.

HITLER CALLED TO BERLIN; WAR CHIEF ASKS AID

Von Schleicher in Final Bid to Head Cabinet.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, will make a last effort in the name of President Paul von Hindenburg to enlist the coöperation of Adolf Hitler to form a government at a conference to take place tomorrow.

The conference was scheduled for today but the National Socialist leader failed to show up. Hitler is in Munich despite Von Hindenburg's request for all party leaders to remain in the capital until the cabinet crisis is settled. In a telephone call Von Schleicher urged Hitler to come to Berlin. Hitler at first promised to take an airplane and then changed his mind, announcing he would arrive here tomorrow morning.

Nazis Refuse Aid.

The general made his last minute appeal to the Nazi leader after Hitler sent an emissary to the capital rejecting the plea of the minister of defense for support in the reichstag.

Hitler's attitude was made known by Wilhelm Frick, who informed Von Schleicher that the Nazis intended to continue a vigorous opposition to any government other than one headed by Hitler.

Although it will be impossible for Von Schleicher to form a government with the support of th reichstag without the toleration of the National Socialists, it was hinted in some quarters that the president might instruct him to organize a cabinet and dissolve the reichstag.

Papen May Carry On.

Meanwhile, the affairs of state are resting. The newest plan under consideration by Von Hindenburg provides for a "business cabinet" under Chancellor von Papen to carry on regardless of nation-wide opinion. Authorities nurse the hope that fear of dissolution of the reichstag, which would mean the loss of many votes, may induce the Hitlerites to treat the government leniently for a while at least.

"If the government forcibly adjourns the reichstag this would be considered an illegal act which would evoke an 'illegal answer,'" the Nazis retort.

SUES TO OBTAIN DEBT LIEN ON DA VINCI ART VALUED AT $1,000,000

Cleveland, O., Nov. 29.—(AP)—A canvas purportedly painted by Leonardo da Vinci and valued at $1,000,000, which for the last seven years has reposed in a bank vault here, was the subject of litigation started today.

In a suit filed in Common Pleas court, Gurdon W. Bentley of the Potter Bentley studios sought to obtain lien on the painting for $2,353 in debts he alleges are owing from the Baroness Ally von Magnus Schwartzenberg of Cleveland.

The canvas, according to claims made for it, was painted by Da Vinci between 1490 and 1500. It is known as "Cella Gallerani" or "The Lute Player."

MORTON HIGH'S CHIEF REMOVES PHYSICAL HEAD

Maj. W. P. McLean, director of the physical welfare department of J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero, was removed from that position last night by order of Superintendent Harry V. Church.

He will remain, however, as a member of the physic department faculty. His place will be taken by George Lagerlof, former head of the department, whom Maj. McLean succeeded in 1927.

Superintendent Church said that McLean's removal was ordered "on general principles." Observers recalled that some weeks ago McLean "fired" Fred M. Walker as football coach of the school, and that Superintendent Church subsequently reinstated Walker. McLean, it is said, has the support of several members of the school board. A few days ago Mr. Church announced himself as aligned with the student and teacher forces which are revolting against the board.

MACHADO FREES NEW 'ARMY' OF POLITICAL FOES

66 Leave Prison Amid Cheering Crowds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 29.—President Machado, who yesterday ordered the release of 80 political prisoners, took another step today in his efforts to restore internal peace by liberating 66 other oppositionists from the penitentiary on the Isle of Pines.

GERARDO MACHADO.

Chief among today's liberated prisoners were Col. Mendez Penate, Col. Carlos Mendieta, and Jose Frayle Fresneda, who were imprisoned for participating in the rebellion of August, 1931.

Thus 146 enemies of Machado's régime have been set at liberty within two days. The president announced that he would continue emptying the cells, provided a political truce is maintained.

Prisoners Shout and Sing.

Lawyers, physicians, university professors, teachers, students, politicians, clergymen, business men, and two bankers left their cells today shouting and singing. They were escorted to their homes by relatives and friends, while huge crowds cheered despite efforts of the police to suppress the demonstrations.

Without exception the prisoners, most of whom spent an average of ten months in prison, emerged with beards and goatees over four inches long. The oppositionists had taken pledges not to shave while they were in prison and until Machado is ousted. The beards are recognized as a symbol of loyalty to the A. B. C., the leading opposition organization.

Civil authority was also restored in 33 municipalities today. President Machado ordering military rule discontinued throughout the island except in Havana.

See Pressure from U. S.

Meanwhile opposition leaders insist that the president's sudden kindness is the result of pressure by foreign diplomats interested in the restoration of political equilibrium in Cuba.

"Machado is acting solely because of unofficial but effective pressure from the United States," one opposition leader said tonight.

Machado's enemies deny that the government's magnanimity means that the opposition has relinquished its goal to oust the régime. Former Senator Juan Gualberto Gomez said that future developments depend entirely upon Machado's "far reaching announcements" which the president said he would issue within ten days. Gomez and other prominent oppositionists expect President Machado to accept the terms of a political truce reported to have been offered him by Mario G. Menocal, former president, who is now a political exile in New York.

The government is practically bankrupt, it was revealed today, when the cabinet slashed $2,700,000 from the $51,000,000 budget which was previously reduced by 20 per cent last September. An additional reduction of $6,000,000, the dismissal of 5,000 employés, and a 20 per cent salary cut for the 20,000 left on the pay roll was ordered effective Dec. 1.

Shortage of Money Stops Autos in Greece; No Gas

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, Nov. 29.—As a result of the stringent restrictions on foreign exchange, the supplies of gasoline in Greece have been so radically reduced that since yesterday hundreds of automobiles have been taken off the streets. The government is planning a regulation restricting traffic on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays to automobiles with even license numbers and on Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays to those with odd numbers, with Sunday traffic free to all.

SARGENT HEADS MOUNT RUSHMORE MEMORIAL BODY

Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western railway, was elected chairman of the national commission supervising the carving of the Mount Rushmore memorial in the Black hills in a meeting yesterday at the Union League club. He succeeded Joseph S. Cullinan of Houston, Tex., who resigned. A. K. Thomas of Rapid City, S. D., was named treasurer to fill the place left by the resignation of George F. Schreiber of Rapid City. The commission met with Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, and decided to continue work on the monument this winter. Among those at the meeting were Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, and Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad.

CHICAGO WATER DIVERSION FIGHT GAINS SUPPORT

U. S. Engineer Approves Increasing Flow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Admission that increasing the permitted water diversion at Chicago to 5,000 cubic second feet would have no material effect on the lake states or on Canada as far as navigation was concerned was made before the senate foreign relations subcommittee today by Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury. He is assistant chief of army engineers, a veteran student of great lakes problems.

He made the statement during sharp cross-examination by Senator Otis Glenn [Rep., Ill.] during today's session of the committee's investigation of the treaty providing for joint Canadian-American work on the St. Lawrence waterway increasing the use of that river for navigation and power.

In response to a question from Senator Glenn as to whether any possible damage would be done either to Canada or the lake states by boosting the diversion allowed by the treaty to 5,000 feet, the witness said that increase would be so small as to have no material effect upon navigation.

Would Affect Canadian Power.

Brig. Gen. Pillsbury asserted, however, that the increase in the diversion from the 1,500 feet plus domestic pumpage allowed by the treaty to 5,000 feet, a matter of about 2,000 feet, would cause a loss of potential power to Canada amounting eventually to more than 100,000 horsepower. He said it would lower the river at Montreal something less than an inch. The assistant chief of engineers took the position that as a matter of fact, the importance of the entire water diversion question had been greatly exaggerated in recent years. He asserted, however, that an increase in the 1,500 feet was not necessary as the amount allowed by the treaty was "amply sufficient" to assure a commercially successful lakes to the gulf waterway.

The Pillsbury testimony was the high point of a day during which proponents of the treaty sent five witnesses to the stand in an effort to convince the subcommittee, headed by Chairman William E. Borah [Rad. Rep., Idaho], that the St. Lawrence seaway was a sound proposition which should be constructed at once.

Among today's witnesses was William Nelson Pelouze of Illinois, executive committee member of the Great Lakes Tidewater association. He lauded the treaty highly, asserted it had the support of the state of Illinois, and declared that construction of the seaway would be of the greatest importance.

Before leaving the stand he read a telegram from Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, indorsing the St. Lawrence, but warning against a treaty which failed to provide sufficient water diversion at Chicago to make the lakes to the gulf waterway successful.

"You are familiar with my views and those of the state of Illinois relative to the St. Lawrence," the message said in part. "However, nothing in the treaty should reduce the necessary diversion to a point where damage would result to the Lakes to the Gulf waterway soon to be open to navigation."

The other witnesses were:

Col. Edgar M. Markham, chief of the great lakes division of the army corps of engineers, who said the state department never had asked the war department to make a survey of the St. Lawrence.

Tells of Hoover Survey.

A Lane Cricher, chief of the division of transportation of the department of commerce, told the committee of the department's study of the economic phases of the St. Lawrence project at the time President Hoover was head of the United States-St. Lawrence commission; asked as to whether his study had qualified him to give an opinion as to the economic feasibility of the waterway he answered "No."

Alfred H. Haag, director of research of the shipping board, testified that 90 per cent of the cargo carrying vessels which ply the oceans could enter the lakes if the seaway was built. Those over 27 foot draft would have to hold their loads down to 80 per cent of capacity, he said.

Brig. Gen. Pillsbury spent close to three hours outlining his views on the St. Lawrence project. His opinion was that the waterway would be commercially successful, would attract a large amount of ocean shipping and could be constructed within the army estimates.

Gen. Pillsbury admitted, however, that in figuring the costs of the seaway the carrying charges had not been included. These would add about $30,000,000, he said, to the cost under the treaty, as far as the United States was concerned. He set the American costs at 258 millions, plus the carrying charge of $30,000,000, making a total of 288 million dollars. On the basis of his figures the total cost of the project, counting old and new work, would not exceed 300 millions and would probably run below that. The state department figures were set at 553 million dollars but did not include carrying charges. The witness was of the opinion the seaway could be constructed well below the estimates.

Opens Chicago Discussions.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] opened the discussion of the Chicago diversion with questions to the witnesses' views on its sufficiency.

"I think," Gen. Pillsbury replied, "it would make no real physical difference to the United States what the diversion actually was, and I know that the waterway which we are now completing down the Illinois river can operate on the minimum diversion that is provided for under this treaty."

"You say it make no difference to the United States about the amount of diversion at Chicago, in your opinion?" demanded Senator Glenn.

"My own personal idea," retorted the army officer, "is that that is a great deal of smoke with very little fire."

"A great deal of canal with very little water, you mean," shot back Senator Glenn. "Do you mean to say that you think it is immaterial to the interests of the middle west as to whether there is any diversion at Chicago permitted or not?"

"There is," responded Brig. Gen. Pillsbury, "to be a diversion permitted under the terms of the treaty at 1,500 cubic feet per second direct from the lakes, plus the amount entering from the sewers of the city of Chicago, which will, by that time, amount unquestionably to a somewhat larger amount, giving a diversion of 3,000 cubic feet per second down the Illinois river. That is amply adequate for any purposes of navigation that may be required there."

"Without additional structures in the Illinois river?" asked the Illinois senator.

Brig. Gen. Pillsbury said if the diversion was cut it would mean that two additional locks would have to be built in the Illinois river and locks would have to be rebuilt at two points where they are not operating now.

Senator Glenn took up the question of constructing compensation works to counterbalance the Chicago diversion.

Compensating Works Feasible.

"May I inquire, general," he asked, "whether it would be practicable to construct compensating structures in the Niagara and St. Clair rivers to take care of the diversion at Chicago up to 5,000 feet?"

"Yes, sir," responded the witness.

"The proposed works then," Senator Glenn said, "would provide water far in excess of the demands for navigation?"

"Oh, yes," responded the army officer.

"Then what harm would taking a little water at Chicago do to navigation down the St. Lawrence, if Canada had a large excess of water?" was another question.

"It will reduce by exactly that amount, the amount of water that is available for the production of power in the St. Lawrence river," Gen. Pillsbury replied. Other questions and answers by Senator Glenn and the general follow.

"That is the ultimate and the only damage which could result, is it?"

"No; it would be more than that. It does affect adversely the levels in Montreal harbor."

"How much would 5,000 cubic feet per second at Chicago reduce the level in Montreal harbor?"

"Somewhere about 2½ inches."

"Diversion Means Little."

"Take the difference between 5,000 cubic feet per second and 3,000 cubic feet per second, which you say is now being authorized under the treaty. That would be 2,000 feet approximately per second. How much would that reduce the levels in Montreal harbor?"

"Less than an inch."

"Do you think," Senator Glenn asked, "it is worth while for Canada and the United States to take the chance of destroying or limiting materially the use of this great waterway from the great lakes to the gulf on the chance of reducing the levels in Montreal harbor less than an inch?"

"As I said," Gen. Pillsbury said, "I am convinced that the diversion is not a matter of consequence one way or the other, but certainly that waterway can be successfully operated on the minimum diversion."

CALLS U. S. ARMY BELOW LEVEL OF NATIONAL SAFETY

Chief of Staff Asks for 40,000 More Men.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—An increase of 2,000 officers and 40,000 men in the regular army was recommended today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff. His annual report was presented to Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley.

Gen. MacArthur said the increase should be voted the minute federal finances will permit, as the army has been reduced below the point of "safety."

Gen. MacArthur told the secretary, and through him President Hoover, that the army's ability to furnish a small, well balanced field force in an emergency has been greatly impaired by the practice of economy. The army reduced to 125,000 men, including Philippine scouts, Gen. MacArthur said, views with great concern the tendency to cut its forces still further.

Cites World Conditions.

The present depression made it necessary to practice the most rigid economy, the chief of staff declared, but added that present world conditions are such that the country cannot afford to intrust its ultimate security to anything other than its own readiness to protect itself. He cited a strong sentiment "among important elements of our citizenry in opposition to further weakening of American military strength unless accompanied by sweeping and drastic cuts in the armies of other nations."

Gen. MacArthur stated that the widely heralded Christie fighting tank had developed defects which made further development necessary.

Adds to Air Power.

In the air, he said, an unusually important development had been made in bombing planes. The general said a bomber had been developed capable of carrying 2,000 pounds of bombs and a crew of four men. Its radius of action was given as 500 miles, and its speed 185 miles an hour, compared with the 100 miles an hour credited to bombers now in service.

"This plane," the general asserted, represents the greatest single development of the past decade in performance characteristics of this type of plane."

"The regular army should be ready at all times," Gen. MacArthur said, "to furnish any troops required by internal emergencies and initial defense against attack. The national defense act provided 13,000 officers and 280,000 men. This has been progressively reduced to 12,000 officers and 126,000 enlisted men, including Philippine scouts. On June 30, 1932, the actual figures were 12,180 officers and 119,888 enlisted men.

"This is below the point of safety. The continuing tendency to cut further into this already weakened backbone of our military skeleton has been viewed with great concern by the war department."

ARMY IS FULL OF OLD TIMERS, REPORT SHOWS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—(AP)—The rookie has disappeared from the ranks of the regular army. Even the youngest buck private in the service today is more or less an old timer.

The absence of the "raw recruit" is due chiefly to employment conditions. Those Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bridges in his annual report as adjutant general says have resulted in selecting only men who have seen previous service. Since January, the report points out, many soldiers have reenlisted within three months from the date of discharge.

TWO AMERICAN GIRLS SEIZED BY G. P. U. ON RUSSIAN AUTO TOUR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 29.—Maryl de Give and Alva Christensen of Atlanta, Ga., arrived in Berlin today with the distinction of being the first foreigners in years to enter Turkestan, Bokhara, Armenia, and Georgia, the darkest parts of soviet Russia. The girls, who are in their early twenties, motored through Russia from Niegerielje to Afghanistan in a small automobile. They found vast misery and hunger in all parts of Russia.

They were forcibly expelled from Tashkent by the G. P. U. (secret police) and taken to Moscow. The girls resided in Russia for fourteen weeks and did not spend a single dollar of American money. They paid expenses with rubles, which they had bought at a very low rate before entering Russia. They emerged from the country with a profit of $200 after selling their car and part of their wardrobe at the border. Customs agents overlooked their American money, but confiscated notes taken on the trip.

Miss Christensen defied soviet orders and carried a revolver and ammunition while in Russia.

Slaying of Young Robber by Baker Held Justified

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Joseph Krysztofiak, 20 years old, who was shot on Monday night when he tried to rob a bakery. The youth's father, Frank Krysztofiak, 5112 South Paulina street, testified that his son had left home about six months ago. Michael Kriegler, owner of the bakery at 6710 Wentworth avenue, testified he shot the youth as the latter threatened Mrs. Margaret Burgess, a clerk in the shop.

SENATE PERILS APPOINTMENT OF JUDGE JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson and Federal District Attorney Dwight H. Green, all of Chicago, are prominent among the presidential appointees who will be affected if the senate Democrats carry out the policy announced yesterday at Warm Springs, Ga., by Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, senate Democratic leader.

Senator Robinson declared that confirmation would be withheld from all nominations which failed of confirmation at the last session, all recess appointments and any appointments which President Hoover submits.

Judge Wilkerson was nominated during the last session for promotion to the Circuit Court of Appeals, chiefly because of his record in the Al Capone case, but his confirmation was held up by senate radicals who objected to his record in labor injunction cases. Judge Johnson, former district attorney, and District Attorney Green, formerly assistant, were given recess appointments on Aug. 3.

According to the tradition of senatorial courtesy the ban on confirmations prior to a change of administration is lifted in the case of senators. It is thought possible that the President might consider it a fitting reward for his political activities to offer Senator Otis Glenn [Rep., Ill.] the judicial post which would be opened if Judge Johnson's appointment were rejected.

"If we could just get the Hindu to add a foot to his shirt tail," Holmes said, "half the mills in England could go back to work again."

BRITISH REVEAL SCHEME TO KEEP CONTROL OF INDIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Stronger evidence than has yet appeared was emphasized at today's session of the third round table conference that Great Britain plans to keep a tight hold on the central authority of India.

Under the British plan for political safeguards, the governor general, besides controlling the defense and external relations, would be given power to "prevent grave menace to the peace and tranquillity of India," power to protect minorities, power to protect the rights of prince ruled states, power to prevent commercial discrimination (including Mahatma Gandhi's boycott of British goods) and guardianship of India's interimperial relationships. He also would be given the right to dissolve the legislature.

Hindu Liberals oppose the idea of giving the governor general a strong arm. They want his control restrained from questions intrusted to a popular legislature. The princes, however, want the governor general equipped with sufficient powers to guarantee them against encroachment on their authority by the federal government.

PROSECUTOR RIPS STONE OFFICIALS IN CLOSING PLEA

Calls Them Worse than Pirates of Old.

Assistant United States Attorney Dodd Healy charged yesterday that pirates of old were amateurs in comparison with Henry F. Norcott, president of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, and eight associates. Norcott and the others are on trial on charges of using the mails to defraud. Healy spoke for the government in the closing arguments before a jury in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward.

Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, started the arguments for the defense at the conclusion of Healy's statement. He will be followed by a battery of attorneys for the defendants. The case is expected to go to the jury late Thursday afternoon.

Healy Assails Defendants.

"The defense lawyers will argue that these men are not criminals—that they are not 'Al Capones'," Prosecutor Healy said. "You will be told that the defendants are business men—substantial business men. Well, if they are typical of this country's business leaders, then I say that it is better for the people of this land that a speedy end be brought to all such business. But I don't think these men are true representatives of American business men in general.

"Their methods were those of the blackest scoundrels. Why, the highwayman of old never robbed the poor and the aged and the infirm the way this pack did. You will be asked by their lawyers to think of the lives and the freedom of these men, young and old, and of their families, and of their hopes and ambitions in life. But, while you are doing so, think, too, of the poor suffering souls who invested their insurance, their legacies and their life savings in these worthless investments.

"Pirates Were Amateurs."

"Pirates of old were amateurs compared with this high pressured crew, with their high salaried manager and executives. They employed all the salesmen they could squeeze into their organization. They devised contests, bulletins, bonuses, pep meetings—anything to stir the salesmen to sell more.

"People bought the circular, the picture, the salesman's word, the story of the House of Stone, the dividends, the profits, and the earnings which never existed. Widows, children, old men, young men, poor men, rich men—a hundred, a thousand, ten thousand, anything, everything, all they had, a part of what they had, go back for the rest later—sales had to be made."

Prosecutor Healy termed absurd the statements of various defendants that they did not know what was going on in the company.

All in It, He Says.

"They were all in it," Healy told the jury, "and all essential to the scheme—Norcott and Niles, the crooked promoters and executives, who stayed in the background; Packer, the crooked financial man; Carroll, the crooked auditor; Needham, the thieving lawyer; Bennett, Coleman, George, Richardson, the dishonest high pressured sales executives—and when they all got together—how they did function!"

Besides Norcott, the defendants are: Claude Niles, a vice president of H. O. Stone & Co.; Charles D. Packer Jr., treasurer; W. Scott Carroll, controller; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; Marshall W. George, secretary; Leslie A. Needham, attorney, and Francis Richardson and David A. Coleman, officials of a subsidiary company.

MR. COUGHLIN'S $2,800 REMAINS IN MONEY BELT

One Mr. Davis and a stranger from New Jersey struck up an acquaintance in the world's fair grounds yesterday. In no time at all Mr. Davis was showing the visitor the sights. Then they were joined by a Mr. Coughlin.

Before long the three were matching pennies with the man holding the odd faced coin to win. Mr. Coughlin said he had $2,800 in his money belt. Thereupon Mr. Davis found an opportunity to suggest to the Jerseyite that they separate Mr. Coughlin from his money.

The penny tossing started with $1 bets. Somehow or other, either Mr. Davis or Mr. Coughlin won, and this went on until the gentleman from New Jersey had lost $4 or $5.

A seedy looking fourth man joined the group, revealed a star and introduced himself as Sergt. Arthur Judson of the south park police. Then the Jerseyite identified himself as Policeman Alexander Levenson. They were out to clean up a pre-exposition gang of con men.

Joseph Davis and John Coughlin were booked at the detective bureau on charges of confidence game.

KILLS HIS WIFE, 8 YEAR OLD SON AND HIMSELF

Confesses the Theft of $16,000 in Letter.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Archibald MacCullum, 48, a cashier in the office of the P. Lorillard Tobacco company, shot and killed his wife, Elizabeth, 42, and their eight year old son, William, and then put a bullet through his own head early today in Elizabeth, N. J.

MacCullum left a note addressed to Sidney Kelly, auditor of the Lorillard firm, in which he confessed that he was an embezzler to the extent of $16,000 and feared discovery and imprisonment.

Roy Martin, chief of detectives of Union county, N. J., opened the letter.

"The letter said he drew $14,050 from the New York Trust company account and $2,750 from a contingency fund," Chief Martin said. "The checks were made out to the Lorillard company by MacCullum, who got the required official signatures. Then he wrote in his own name as payee and cashed them. When they came back he destroyed them, thus destroying the record."

MacCullum had been employed in the New York office of the Lorillard company for 30 years.

The three MacCullums were found dead on one bed, the body of the husband and father lying across those of his wife and son. There were two bullet wounds in Mrs. MacCullum's head and two in the head of the boy. MacCullum had a bullet wound in his right temple and the pistol lay on the floor alongside the bed.

DAGO MANGANO'S SON IDENTIFIED AS HOLDUP MAN

Paul Mangano, 17 years old, 3509 Flournoy street, a son of Dago Lawrence Mangano, veteran Capone gangster and operator of gambling clubs on the west side, was identified as a robber last night at a showup of prisoners at the detective bureau.

The witness who picked young Mangano as a holdup man was Clyde Saxton, 5322 Winthrop avenue, a driver for the Wieland Dairy company. He asserted that the youth took $40 from him on Sept. 24 near 3217 Belle Plaine avenue. Mangano was arrested Monday in company with two youths who were at liberty on bonds pending trial for robbery.

Another identified at the showup was Arne Anderson, 26 years old, 522 South Smith street, Aurora, who was arrested yesterday afternoon after he made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Roth restaurant at 312 South Wabash avenue. Three men told of being his victims in previous stickups, in which the loot totaled $300.

Robber Apologizes When He Fires Accidental Shot

Four gunmen took $1,500 yesterday in a robbery of the Charles Levy Circulating company, 1632 West Lake street, after threatening the office manager, Joseph Levy, and four young women employés. One of the robbers accidentally discharged his revolver during the robbery. He apologized as he and his companions fled with the money.

EUROPE RETURNS TO BARTER; PIGS ARE THE MEDIUM

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A return to barter, with swine the medium of exchange, has been inaugurated and may be extended in the Balkans.

At Kragujevac, Jugo-Slavia, the authorities have contracted with an Austrian firm for 100 carloads of brass parts needed in the arsenal there. These will be paid for by delivery in Austria by 10,000 Jugo-Slavian hogs.

Meantime, negotiations are under way between the national railways of Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Under the present arrangement each line receives payment for mileage on its tracks sold by the other line. The monthly balance due Czechoslovakia from Hungary is running about 1,000,000 Czech crowns [$29,600] a month. Hungary cannot conveniently cover the amount in cash and has offered to settle monthly with Hungarian pigs.

GUNMEN ROB 27 AGENTS IN OFFICE OF INSURANCE CO.

Four gunmen yesterday intercepted and robbed 27 agents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company as they entered an office of the company on the second floor at 6752 Stony Island avenue and escaped with $2,900. The bandits, two of them armed with sawed off shotguns and the others with revolvers, forced Charles Weiss, the first agent to arrive, to let them into the office.

The gunmen then took up positions inside the door. As each agent arrived to turn in his Monday collections he was robbed and forced into a rear room. Miss Genevieve McEvilly, assistant cashier, was threatened by the bandits but convinced them she did not know the combination of the safe. After spending 45 minutes in the office the bandits fled to the street and escaped in an automobile.

CHARGES EAGLES LOTTERY PROFIT OF HALF MILLION

Charity Misses It All, Prosecutor Says.

New York, Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Conrad H. Mann of Kansas City and Bernard C. McGuire, New York promoter, split net profits of $500,000 realized in 1931 through the sale of lottery tickets by members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, and, though the enterprise was staged in the name of charity, not one penny went for that purpose, Louis Mead Treadwell, assistant United States attorney, in federal court charged today.

Mann, McGuire, and Frank E. Herring, editor of the Eagle magazine, and Raymond Walsh, McGuire's assistant, are being prosecuted for alleged violation of the federal lottery law. It is charged that though $1,750,000 was taken in from the sale of tickets, only $440,000 found its way into the treasury of the Eagles.

Members Aided in Sale.

Mr. Treadwell said this meant that members of 879 aeries of the Eagle order had attempted to dispose of 4,600,000 tickets at 50 cents each and that each aerie realized a final average profit of $500. Members, he said, received a book containing 32 tickets and each was rewarded for selling these with a gift of merchandise valued at $18 in addition to ten free tickets which entitled him to drawings for cash prizes, the highest of which was for $25,000.

Mr. Hering, a trustee of Notre Dame university, received one-third of Mann's share of the profits, Mr. Treadwell charged, having entered into a contract with the latter to aid in the sale of tickets. While the promotion scheme was in progress, McGuire, according to Mr. Treadwell, drew a salary of $300 a week.

Crossed State Line.

Mr. Treadwell, who made these charges during the formal opening of his case following the selection of a jury, prefaced his remarks with the explanation that the government merely charged that the defendants had caused "lottery tickets to be received across the state line."

"The statute," he said, "does not make it criminal to use fraud in the sale of lottery tickets or to make personal profits."

ALBERT DREAMS HIMSELF INTO A BRIDEWELL CELL

Albert Hassen, 44 years old, 51 East 18th street, an Arabian rug peddler, was fined $200 yesterday to discourage his appetite for ears. Summoned to the lockup of the Chicago avenue station early yesterday by screams of pain, policemen found Hassen, who weighs 275 pounds, gnawing at the ear of his cellmate, Robert McMurray, 49 years old, 316 North Clark street. Both had been jailed on charges of intoxication. A force of three policemen succeeded in dragging Hassen from his fare.

"I saw a moving picture," he explained. "I dreamed that I was having a battle with an alligator. I was convinced that McMurray was an alligator."

In court Hassen announced his inability to pay the $200 fine.

"Then," ruled Judge John F. Haas, "I'll send you out to the Bridewell. There are more ears there, but they are tougher."

DEMANDS EINSTEIN BE BARRED FROM U. S. AS "RED AGITATOR"

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.—A demand that Prof. Albert Einstein be denied entrance to the United States as an "anarcho-communist agitator" was filed with the state department today by Mrs. Harriet A. Frothingham, president of the Woman Patriot corporation, a nationalistic organization with headquarters in Washington.

The author of the theory of relativity, who has been invited to come to America to head a school of advanced study at Princeton university, should be denied a visa by consular officers abroad, or, if he arrives with a visa, should be stopped at the port of entry, Mrs. Frothingham declared.

"Not even Stalin himself," she said, "is affiliated with so many anarcho-communist international groups to promote this 'preliminary condition' of world revolution and anarchy as Albert Einstein."

A brief presented to the state department claimed that Prof. Einstein was an active leader of the world congress against imperialist war, the world congress of the Anti-Imperialist league, and the war resisters' international—all of which were described as communistic or anarchistic.

G. O. P. CAPTAIN'S SON SLAIN; NAMED IN FREIGHT THEFT

Louis Sacks, 35 years old, son of a Republican precinct captain, was found shot to death yesterday in the rear of Holy Rosary Catholic church, 612 North Western avenue. Through the fact that one of his shoes was missing, Sacks was identified as one of two thieves fired on by a railroad detective Monday in the freight yards at State street and Roosevelt road.

The shooting occurred when E. R. Jones, special railroad agent, discovered the men taking merchandise from a freight car. Jones fired at the men and one of them stumbled as if hit by a bullet. He was dragged into an automobile by his companion, who drove away. The wounded man lost his right shoe in the flight. The right shoe missing from the body of Sacks led to his identification as the man shot in the attempted theft.

Police yesterday started a search for Irving Conn, 1362 West Austin avenue, to whom the automobile in which the men fled the freight yard was traced by license plates. The car had not been reported stolen. Sacks, whose police record dates back to 1925, is the son of Pasquale Sacks, Republican precinct captain in the 19th precinct of the 28th ward and an employé of the sanitary district. The elder Sacks lives at 4049 Sheridan road and gives as his political address 2205 West Erie street. He said that he had not seen his son since primary day.

Attorney Seized in $40,000 Fraud Is Freed on Bond

Attorney William Brace, 38 years old, 901 Maple avenue, Evanston, who was arrested Monday on a fugitive warrant from St. Louis charging him with obtaining $40,000 under false pretenses, was released on bond yesterday pending a hearing on the charge before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter on Friday. The bonds were fixed at $100,000. Brace declared that he had had no dealings in St. Louis and the authorities there did not furnish any explanation of the charges.

HANNAH & HOGG CHARTERED; HOPE TO USE OLD BAR

Hannah & Hogg, Inc., famous loop liquor house from the early '70s until the advent of prohibition, will go back into business—with the old round bar and the same old pictures on the wall—when the dry laws are erased.

A certificate of reincorporation was filed yesterday by Alexander D. Hannah, son of one of the partners of the original concern. Mr. Hannah is president of the Brevoort Hotel company.

"We still have the old round bar," he said. "It's here in the hotel. We've even got the six foot cut glass bowl that stood on the bar. It was cracked when firemen carried it out as the old hotel burned in 1907, but it's been mended. Many of the pictures that hung on the walls of the Hannah & Hogg place in Madison street opposite the McVickers theater are also in the hotel."

Oldtime Chicagoans recalled that the partners were Scots who emigrated to America and that they placed two stone statues of Scotsmen in front of each place they conducted.

HELD FOR FATAL CRASH.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Charles C. Marker, 56, Columbia City, was arrested today following death of Mrs. F. A. Gamble, 64, Vanwert, O., when the car in which she was riding was wrecked when Marker allegedly drove in front of it on U. S. highway 30.

INDIANA POLICE JOIN HUNT FOR KIDNAPED CHILD

Family Feud Precedes Gunman's Visit.

Rensselaer, Ind., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—State police joined local authorities today in a search for the kidnaper of Patricia Pearl Tripp, 4, seized by a gunman yesterday. She was taken from the farm home of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin Smith, six miles southwest of here.

The kidnaper, described as a red faced man weighing 225 pounds, appeared at the home, driving an automobile without a license plate. He gained entrance to the kitchen on the pretense that he wanted to buy eggs. As Mrs. Smith got the eggs, the stranger held the child on his lap.

When Mrs. Smith returned to the kitchen with the eggs, he arose, paid for them, drew a revolver, picked up the child and left the house by the front door.

"Get back or I'll blow your head off," he told Mrs. Smith, who, screaming, followed him to the road. As he drove away with the child, Mrs. Smith went to a field to notify her husband and sons of the kidnaping.

The child has been the object of a bitter fight waged from Porter Circuit court to the State Appellate and Supreme courts. She was made an orphan two years ago when her parents died of influenza in the same week.

Shortly after that Mr. and Mrs. August Johnson, granduncle and aunt, filed adoption papers in the Porter county Circuit court. They were given custody of the child. The Smiths filed an appeal and were successful in the Appellate court. The grandparents, then filed habeas corpus proceedings to get Patricia from the Johnsons' to their home, winning in the State Supreme court.

Police went to the Johnson home, 15 miles south of Valparaiso, after the kidnaping. Johnson expressed surprise and offered to aid the search.

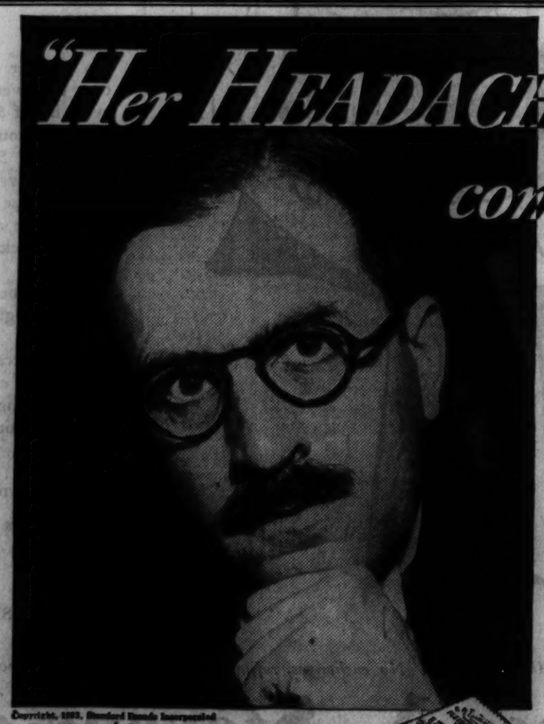
"Her HEADACHES completely stopped"



When she kept her intestines clean, her headaches disappeared!

A famous French doctor, DR. ANDRÉ CAIN, describes a very typical 'CASE HISTORY'

"THE patient was the mother of two children. She had become subject to constipation, which grew worse . . . after the exaggerated use of laxatives.

"This constipation stopped after the patient had used yeast. And as her intestines became more regular, her persistent and very severe sick headaches completely disappeared!"

That is a case . . . typical of literally thousands . . . as described by the noted French hospital authority, Dr. André Cain!

Headaches, doctors have found, more often than not are simply the way in which intestinal poisons make themselves known.

Bowels grow sluggish. Wastes collect—putrefy. Then, as the poisons seep through your system, you feel "no good," listless. Your head throbs. You are suffering the unpleasant effects of constipation!

How Yeast Helps!

Now, fresh yeast won't cure a headache. But, eaten regularly, it will eliminate headaches' most frequent cause. It will "tone" your intestines—strengthen sluggish bowel action—soften and help you remove the poisonous accumulations that are keeping you from the health you deserve.

So start now to eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day, regularly, just following the directions on the label. It's very rich, you know, in health-giving vitamins B, G and D. Get a supply at your grocer's, or at a restaurant or soda fountain today.

A GOOD FELLOW FAMILY ASKS FOR CHRISTMAS JOB

Wants to Share Holiday Joys with Needy.

Good Fellows, in the second day of enlistment for their campaign to provide Christmas cheer for the needy, continued yesterday to exceed last year's enrollment. Pledges have been received to provide baskets for almost twice as many families as were received during the first 48 hours of the 1931 drive.

The public for two and a half years has heard constant appeals for worthy charities and there were some misgivings about the success of the 1932 Good Fellows. But the first responses indicate that the public, after months and months of economic gloom, welcomes this opportunity to brighten its Christmas by a kindness to a worthy stranger on Christmas eve.

Eager to Share Christmas.

Read this letter, typical of many opened yesterday at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at Dearborn and Madison streets:

"My small sons, my husband and I are eager to have the opportunity to share our own Christmas with some other family. We would like you to choose for us a family that has small children, at least some of whom are little girls.

"I can't think of any better way to insure a real Christmas spirit in one's home than by letting each member of the family have a vital interest in planning a real Christmas for some little 'adopted' brothers and sisters.

"Thank you for making it possible for us to do this so easily. Yours truly, Mrs. R. L."

Worthy Families Chosen.

By return mail, Mrs. L. will receive the name, address and brief description of a worthy family. All names issued from the Good Fellow headquarters have been investigated and recommended by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court or some other associate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

On Christmas Eve Mr. L. and his family will take the basket of toys and food to the poverty stricken home assigned to them. The visit will last but a minute, just long enough to exchange blessings and to see the poor children made happy by this personal contact with kindness.

A woman from the west side, in volunteering for Good Fellow service yesterday, requested a family within walking distance, saying she would have to carry her gift basket on Christmas eve. There's a real Good Fellow.

A Good Fellow Club.

A Good Fellow club of the Insurance Company of North America requested 25 families. Employés, including executives and office boys, have been putting aside a penny a day to buy Christmas baskets. They'll make their own deliveries.

A woman from Berwyn wrote a letter asking for a family and forgot to include her name and address.

Girl Scout troop No. 229 will give a bridge party on Saturday night at the Copeland hotel, 5100 Sheridan road. Half of the proceeds will be donated to Good Fellow service.

Good Fellows are urged to make their own deliveries of baskets, but from those who are not able to do this the headquarters will accept cash donations. All administrative expenses are paid by THE TRIBUNE.

SIGNS UP AS A GOOD FELLOW

EX-PAL NAMES WATKINS AS ONE OF MAIL ROBBERS

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Edwards, larceny of automobile, sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Andrew Gallant, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Harold [Fat] Watkins was identified yesterday in the court of Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle as an accomplice in the $388,000 mail robbery at the Dearborn street station more than eleven years ago. The identification was made by George W. Hecker, one of those once involved in the robbery plot, who was called from his home in Burlingame, Cal., to testify for the government in Watkins' trial.

HAROLD WATKINS.

The holdup was performed on April 6, 1921, by a gang under the command of the late "Big Tim" Murphy, who served a prison term for it. Five others were tried and convicted of the crime, including "West Side" Jack Barry and Peter Guesenberg. Watkins, the seventh member of the gang to be indicted, was not captured until last September after an eleven year search.

Hecker in his testimony yesterday said that he did not see the money pouches taken in the robbery, but he identified Watkins as having been with Murphy, Barry, Guesenberg and others when the plans for the holdup were laid. Another witness, Ralph Teter of Aurora, who was also involved in the plot, said he could not positively identify Watkins. Teter, a mail clerk before he joined Murphy's robbery gang, is now conducting a gospel mission.

HELD AS SLAYER OF DRY AGENT.

Beatrice, Neb., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Ted Wells pleaded not guilty in County court today to a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of Chester Mason of Omaha, a federal prohibition enforcement officer, near here on Nov. 12. Judge Leslie Noble remanded Wells to jail and bound the case over to District court for trial.

Kansas Farmers Sow More Barley for Beer Making

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 29. — Farmers, keeping a sharp watch on the prospects for the legalization of beer, this year planted their largest barley acreage since 1917. The 1932 crop, estimated by state agricultural authorities at 10,248,000 bushels, was harvested from 732,000 acres. Some of it was sold in Minneapolis for brewing purposes. More was fed to live stock.

Earl Nahmmacher, representative in China for the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, passed through Chicago last night on United Air Lines enroute from San Francisco to New York. He landed at Oakland, Cal., on a vessel from the orient on Monday and boarded the United plane at midnight the same day. He will be in New York at 7 a. m. today, will have the full day to conduct business and plans to board another United plane at midnight tonight which will carry him back to San Francisco, arriving there at 6:30 a. m. Friday. His boat for Shanghai, the President Coolidge, sails that afternoon.

Effective tomorrow the 10:30 a. m. departure over American Airways to St. Louis will be discontinued and a 4 p. m. daily schedule substituted, it was announced last night. The change is intended to meet the demand for more afternoon service.

Son of Late Belgian Banker Beaten in Coast Night Club

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Robert Loewenstein, 22, playboy son of the late Alfred Loewenstein, Belgian financier, got socked in a little difference of opinion at the Cotton club, night club, early today.

"Not only did I get punched, but I got punched hard," Loewenstein said.

As to who hit him there is a difference of opinion. One version is that it was a waiter. Another is that it was some one who talked to a mysterious young woman from Hollywood boulevard. Loewenstein suffered a cut forehead and a blackened right eye.

Sol Feldman, 26 years old, of 2125 Pierce avenue, was taken to the Mother Cabrini hospital last night suffering from a bullet wound in the right side. He first appeared for aid at the office of Dr. Eugene J. Chesrow, 1001 South Ashland boulevard. The doctor notified police. Feldman, police said, told several stories of how he received his wound. One story was that he had resisted robbers at Ashland boulevard and Roosevelt road.

MOTHER IN 100TH YEAR GIVES FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

It's in Memory of a Day 60 Years Ago.

Every once in a while a gift for the Hungry School Children's fund brings with it an especially poignant note. Yesterday there arrived in the mail such a letter. It said:

"Messrs.: Inclosed find $5 for the Hungry School Children's fund, in memory of the morning some sixty years ago, when my own two little laddies had to go to school without breakfast. Thank God, it was only once, and I started out and raised money so I gave them a nice hot vegetable soup for their dinner.

"And then Providence smiled again on us, but I shall never forget how they looked when they started out that morning. My nine year old with his head high, with a don't care air, as much as to say, 'I'll be a man some day'; the six year old with drooping head and lagging step. But the eldest is gone long ago, and the six year old is my dear caretaker.

"It makes me wish it were $5 times ten, but there are many calls on my pension, and Christmas is almost here. And I am in my 100th year.

"I do not want you to put my name in, so just to let me know you received the money, acknowledge it to D. S. L., not my real initials."

The $5 will purchase fifty meals for the school children of the city whose parents cannot provide enough food to assure their eating three times daily.

Contributions for the Hungry School Children's fund received yesterday and the day before are:

WAYLAND BROOKS RESIGNS AS AID TO PROSECUTOR

C. Wayland Brooks yesterday resigned his position as an assistant state's attorney to enter the private law practice with Frederick C. Chetlain, former secretary of Northwestern university and now an attorney at 160 North La Salle street. Brooks, a decorated war hero, was held over in the prosecutor's office from the staff of former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe on the request of the Illinois and American Bankers' associations.

In the last two years Brooks has gained convictions against seven kidnapers and has prosecuted successfully several murder cases. When bombing became epidemic in Cook county, he was assigned to the prosecution and obtained nine convictions, the only successful prosecution of bombers in the history of the county.

Aaron Moshick, known as the master penman, was jailed through the efforts of Brooks. The prosecutor also won a prison sentence of 14 years for Mrs. Margaret Summers, who was charged with the murder of her nephew by poison in an insurance plot. Brooks saved the state case from collapse when he discovered that the poison used was obtained from fly paper. Detectives had established a motive for the murder and all other necessary evidence for conviction, but were unable to determine where the poison had come from until the discovery by Brooks.

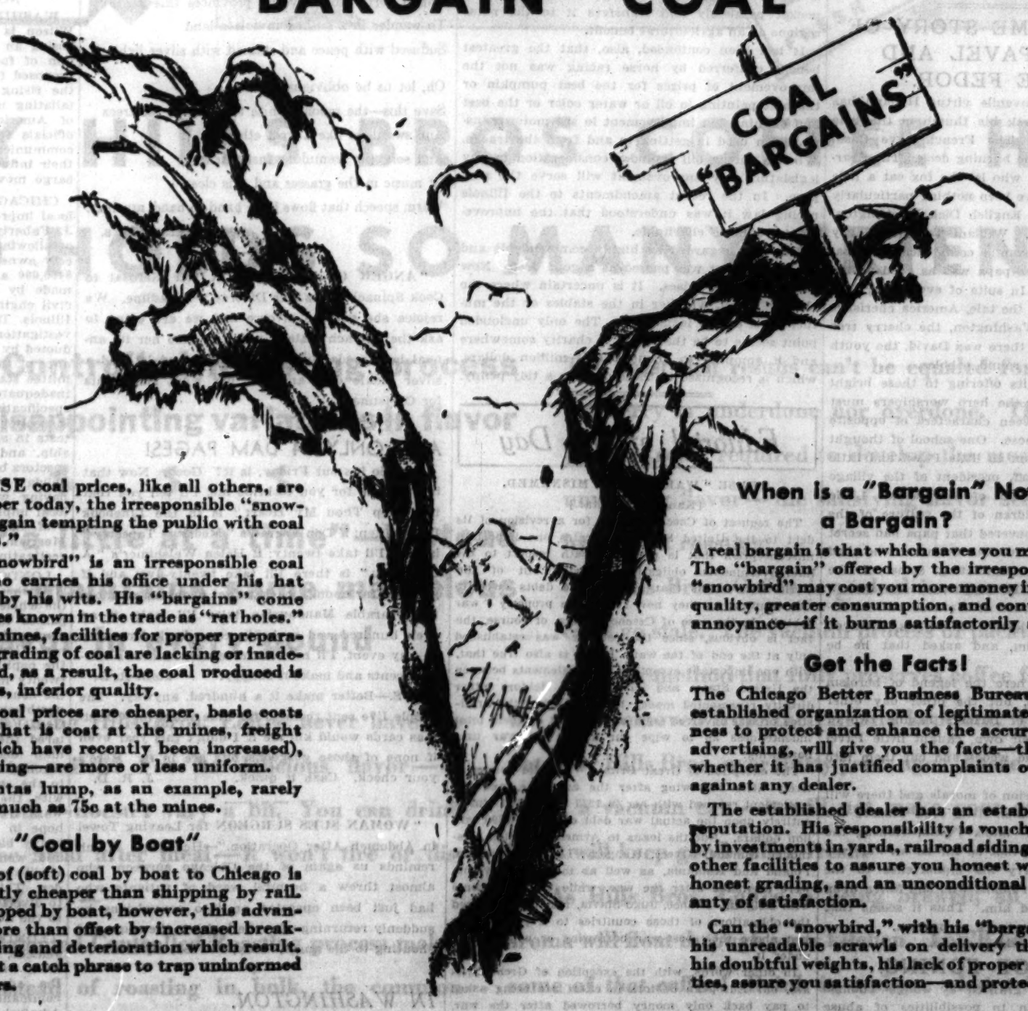
"BARGAIN" COAL



BECAUSE coal prices, like all others, are cheaper today, the irresponsible "snowbird" is again tempting the public with coal "bargains."

The "snowbird" is an irresponsible coal dealer who carries his office under his hat and lives by his wits. His "bargains" come from mines known in the trade as "rat holes." At such mines, facilities for proper preparation and grading of coal are lacking or inadequate, and, as a result, the coal produced is of dubious, inferior quality.

While coal prices are cheaper, basic costs of coal—that is cost at the mines, freight rates (which have recently been increased), and trucking—are more or less uniform.

Pocahontas lump, as an example, rarely varies as much as 75c at the mines.

"Coal by Boat"

Shipping of (soft) coal by boat to Chicago is only slightly cheaper than shipping by rail. When shipped by boat, however, this advantage is more than offset by increased breakage, slacking and deterioration which result. This is just a catch phrase to trap uninformed coal dollars.

When Is a "Bargain" Not a Bargain?

A real bargain is that which saves you money. The "bargain" offered by the irresponsible "snowbird" may cost you more money in poor quality, greater consumption, and continual annoyance—if it burns satisfactorily at all.

Get the Facts!

The Chicago Better Business Bureau, the established organization of legitimate business to protect and enhance the accuracy of advertising, will give you the facts—that is, whether it has justified complaints on file, against any dealer.

The established dealer has an established reputation. His responsibility is vouched for by investments in yards, railroad sidings, and other facilities to assure you honest weight, honest grading, and an unconditional guaranty of satisfaction.

Can the "snowbird," with his "bargains," his unreadable scrawls on delivery tickets, his doubtful weights, his lack of proper facilities, assure you satisfaction—and protection?

BEFORE YOU INVEST . . . INVESTIGATE!

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE CONSTITUTION AS A TREASURY GUARD.

In the recent election the proposed amendment to the Illinois constitution, to permit more freedom of amendment, failed to get the necessary vote. Two years ago a revenue amendment was submitted and was defeated by 150,000 votes in a poll of 880,000. These rejections and other rejections of proposed changes before them indicate the conservative tendency of the people of Illinois when the legislature asks for authority for new legislation requiring constitutional amendment.

The votes on such question constitute more than advice to the assembly. They disclose a decision not to have the safeguards of the organic law modified or weakened at this time. There is a good reason for this attitude. The people are now engaged in an effort to get excessive costs out of government and to reduce taxation to endurable proportions. Conditions are favorable to the effort because money cannot be raised in the amounts in which public bodies have demanded it. The tax spenders are running into the solid wall of unconciliating facts. They cannot get the money and they must come to reason.

If they could get around the facts by discovering what they thought were new sources of revenue they would take such means of avoiding reductions in the amounts spent. Without bypasses they must face the conditions, and that is the thing desired. The legislature, when it is in session, should understand that it is the popular decision that there shall not be a search for new holes through constitutional limitations. The present restrictions on tax levying bodies are the restrictions required at this time by public security.

THE BEDTIME STORY OF LITTLE PAVEL AND LITTLE FEDOR.

In the legends of juvenile virtue Holland has the little boy who stuck his thumb in the hole and saved the dike. The French have Casabianca who stood on the burning deck. The Spartans had the little boy who let the fox eat a hole in him. There may have been nothing particularly chivalrous in the little English Dick Whittington, but he did turn back. William Tell's little boy had the customary juvenile confidence in papa, and fortunately for him papa was as good as the boy thought he was. In spite of everything that can be done to destroy the tale, America cherishes the story of George Washington, the cherry tree and the hatchet. And there was David, the youth with his slingshot and round pebbles.

Russia now makes its offering to these bright legends of youth, but the hero worshipers must take their choice between characters of opposite temperament and purpose. One school of thought will build the monument to little Pavel and little Fedor, sons of Morosoff, president of the village soviet in the Ural district of Sverdlovsk. Little Pavel and Fedor, children of the culture of the Marxian dialectics, discovered that papa had secret correspondence with kulaks, farmers who had been successful in accumulating some of the worldly goods which are supposed to go with a farm. These little heroes of Marxian culture denounced papa to the soviet authorities, betrayed all they knew of him, and asked that he be given the works.

If the story rested here the legend of heroism would be unconfused, but the other day other little boys, the sons of farmers having two or more cows to call their own, caught little Pavel and little Fedor in the woods and cut them into small bits.

So we have a confusion of morals and there will be argument as to which little boys deserve the stained glass window. Mark Twain, viewing the tomb of Abelard, said that so far as he was concerned he would carry his immortelles to the tomb of the nameless ruffians who had fallen upon Abelard and mutilated him. Thus it seems that there are always differences of opinion.

ABUSE OF ZONING.

A mandamus just granted by Judge Thomas Taylor calls attention to possibilities of abuse which the zoning power offers. A piece of property in the village of Winnetka had been restricted by ordinance to residences, although it is unsuitable, not to say worthless, for residence. Its owners sought a permit to build a filling station upon their property and were refused on the ground that it was in the "residential zone." The practical consequence of this ordinance in the special conditions of the property was to make it virtually worthless. The commission on zoning had, in fact, declared that the property should be rezoned, as "it is highly unjust and improper" to continue it as a residential district, and should be rezoned as commercial property. Nevertheless it was proposed to condemn the property, a city planning expert called by the village board testifying that commercial use would be unreasonable and that residential zoning was reasonable. He thought a piece of property may be entirely confiscated under the zoning law. He seems to have the disregard of private right and justice to the individual which zealots for alleged public interests and one-ideaed reformers frequently show.

Fortunately Judge Taylor is not afflicted with that fallacy. He recognised that condemnation of property restricted by the zoning power to a use for which it is unsuited would or might result in a recovery at the market value of residential property unfit for residence—that is, an award below its value if not so restricted. He held that the zoning for residence of property unfit for residence is an unreasonable and arbitrary exercise of power and therefore unconstitutional.

The case is a striking illustration of the abuse of official power and of a perverted conception of public benefit. If the property in this case ought not to be put to commercial use in consideration of public interest, proper compensation should be paid for it and the zoning power should not be abused to cover confiscation. This is a more important consideration ethically and from the viewpoint of eventual public welfare than any benefit derivable from zoning.

NEWS FOR AMERICA.

A vivid description of the recent rioting in London, sent to the American press by an able correspondent of the Associated Press, has offended British officialdom and was occasion for protest in a public address by no less a personage than Lord Hailsham, secretary of state for war, who charged that the description was highly exaggerated and gave a false impression of conditions. Our own reports from London support that of the Associated Press, and inasmuch as the observation of witnesses to a confused and violent movement, like a riotous disturbance, invariably differs with the experience of the individual, we doubt that the official view is any less accurate or faithful than that of a trained and disinterested observer on the scene.

The protest we are inclined to interpret as an expression of official supersensitiveness rather than a fair challenge of a reputable and responsible professional observer's accuracy or good faith, and it is to be hoped that the management of the Associated Press will not be unduly impressed by it or by the pressure of Americans always susceptible to the British viewpoint and more anxious to please foreign opinion than to do justice to any American interest.

It has been made especially evident ever since the beginning of the late war that foreign influences affect a certain public opinion in the eastern communities, notably New York, while in Europe there has been a sharp increase in the censorship and official coloring of news. The result is that as the importance to American opinion of accurate and uncolored information has increased so has the difficulty of obtaining it.

This situation should be frankly faced and all American news agencies should recognize its significance and their imperative duty to keep the channels of American information free. The suppression and perversion of news by official and semi-official influence are now a major policy in Europe and American opinion should be guarded against it as effectually as possible.

CHARITABLE HORSE RACING.

Horse racing, intended originally to improve the breed of cavalry horses in order that English schoolboys could win the battles of empire on the playing fields of Eton and later to improve the judgment of small time betters so that they would not clutter up the bull market, has been going ahead these days on a theory that it improves the qualities of prizes offered as premiums in the county fairs. This is a bit of the stuff from which the domestic allotment wheat subsidy is made. It takes something out of the urban pocket painlessly and transfers it to the rural regions as an agricultural benefit.

It has been contended, also, that the greatest benefit conferred by horse racing was not the improvement of prizes for the best pumpkin or the best painting in oil or water color or the best buff Cochins, but improvement in the motor transportation used in getting to and from the tracks. When a racing bill is under consideration in any legislature any improvement will serve the purpose. In the recent amendments to the Illinois racing law it was understood that the improvement would be charitable.

This was regarded as highly commendable and the amendment was passed as a good deed. Now some confusion arises. It is uncertain where the charity began, whether in the stables or the mutuel pools or the legislature. The only unclouded point seems to be that there is charity somewhere and it amounts to about a half million dollars, which is recognized in these days as a tidy penny.

Editorial of the Day

THESE "WAR DEBTS" MISNAMED.

[Kansas City Star.]

The request of Czechoslovakia for a revision of its debt to the United States illustrates one important misconception that is prevalent with respect to the intergovernmental obligations growing out of the world war. It is that most of the debts owed to this country, as they now stand, are properly "war debts." In the case of Czechoslovakia, of course, the fact is obvious, since the country was established only at the end of the war. But it is also true that, with one important exception, the settlements between the United States and its European debtors either directly represented money borrowed after the armistice or else involved such a reduction of their total indebtedness as to wipe out almost all war time borrowing.

The exception is Great Britain. She did comparatively little borrowing after the armistice, and the settlement reached with her in 1923 was based almost entirely upon the actual war debt of about 3,700 million dollars. But the loans to Armenia, Austria, Esthonia, Finland, Greece, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania, as well as to Czechoslovakia, were all made after the war, while the settlements with Belgium, France, Jugo-Slavia, and Italy reduced the obligations of those countries to a point either just above their post-war borrowing or considerably under it.

In other words, with the exception of Great Britain, our European debtors in effect are being asked to pay back only money borrowed after the war, particularly for reconstruction and relief purposes, although some of it was used to liquidate war accounts. The argument, therefore, that the money involved in these settlements was used in the prosecution of the war and should be considered an American contribution to the common cause is not supported by facts. Aside from Great Britain, we lent European nations about 2,300 million dollars after the war and the total "present value" of the various debt settlements [exclusive of the British] was about 3 billion dollars. But most of our debtors do not talk about reconstruction and relief loans; "war debts" sounds better.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

RAH! RAH! RAH! OR THE FUTURE OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

("Decline in football revenue will compel a drastic curtailment if not complete suspension of minor sports, perhaps even of football itself, and the colleges will have to adopt games not attended by expense and of a quieter nature."—News item.)

New Haven, June 4, 1935.—Yale and Harvard met today in their great annual croquet match. Jimmy Mallet, the demon wicketer of Harvard, again proved his wonderful skill and staying powers, while Toodles Turnip, Yale's marvel, of whom so much was expected, fainted away after the strain of making five wickets in succession, and was carried off the field in the ambulance. The score: Harvard, 129; Yale, 64 and 3 to go.

New York, June 17, 1935.—The famous Army team from the United States Military academy played the greatest ping pong game of the year in beating their old enemy, the Navy. Just as has been feared, the Navy players suffered from overtraining and were unable to keep up to the tremendous pace set by the Army. Two of Navy's players were put out of the game because of injuries suffered by being obliged to dodge the ping pong balls, and Starboard Bluffum, the husky Navy teahound, was put out of the game for slapping two of the Army players on the wrist. Score: Army, 316; Navy, —73.

Princeton, N. J., June 1, 1935.—The Princeton Tigers went down in ignominious defeat today in their annual game of Ring Around the Rosie against the Vassar team. This is Princeton's greatest athletic contest of the year and the team has trained hard for victory, eating spinach at every meal for three weeks and roller skating on the sidewalks every day except when it rained. The Vassar girls, however, their muscles hardened by grueling practice in carrying the daisy chain, outclassed the Tigers all around and won easily, 62 up and mercy knows how many to play.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 6, 1935.—The University of Illinois is certain to win the Big Ten Blackman's league if the form and grit they displayed today against Michigan goes for anything. It was a thrilling moment to the spectators after the rival teams took their positions at opposite ends. of the great playing field when Big Joe Tojokalski, the 275 pound captain of the Illini and standing six feet three inches high, advanced towards the Michigan team and in his great booming voice chanted the regulation words, "What will you do when the Blackman comes?" And without fear or trembling the clarion tones of the stalwart Michigan team answered, "Go right through, as we always do." Illinois won, 6-5, 29-4, 38-37.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 24, 1935.—The great game of parcheesi between Notre Dame and the University of Southern California was played in the famous Rose Bowl here yesterday afternoon and ended in a complete triumph for California, 185 to 143. The game attracted even more spectators than last year, there being a gallery of at least sixty-five spectators who watched the game with breathless interest.

MOONLIT HOUR.

Let us leave reckoning, for this moonlit hour,
With any problem of the human heart,
With work and dreams, with questionings that tower
Above our certainties, and walk apart
Like two enchanted exiles, hand in hand,
Thrust forth from fevered provinces this night
To wander in a hushed inviolate land
Suffused with peace and stained with silver light.

Oh, let us be oblivious of all
Save this—the moon's white touch upon the trees
And sward, so like a frost ethereal
And soft, the tremulous insistencies
Of music in the grasses and this clear
Warm speech that flows from hand to hand, my dear.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

"ANGER OF HUSBAND at Her Refusal to Cook Spinach Gives Her Divorce."—Headline. We rejoice she got the divorce and we are going to ask the Spinach Haters' union to give her its annual hero medal for 1932, a house and lot and a silver pickle dish and ask her what she wants for Christmas.

AND ONLY 64 DAM PAGES!

Sir: So it's out Friday, is it? Good. Now that it's too late for you to bribe me, I'll tell you that if "Keep Thou My Heart" is in the Linebook I'll take ten; if Don Farran's "Medieval Tapestry" is in it I'll take twenty; if Helen Welshimer's "A Quandary" is there I'll take twenty-five; and if you dug far enough back to get even one of those incomparable Manchurian tales I'll make it an even hundred and probably come back for more. In any event, I'll have to have one, so here's thirteen cents and make it snappy. JOHN R. D.

P. S.—Better make it a hundred, anyway. The people I've sent them to for nine years for Christmas cards would kill me if I didn't this year even if none of those gorgeous bits are in it. Here's your check. Cash it quick. J. R. D.

"WOMAN SUES SURGEON for Leaving Towel in Abdomen After Operation."—Headline. Which reminds us again of the Chicago surgeon who almost threw a hospital ward of patients who had just been operated on into convulsions by suddenly returning after he had left the room and shouting to the nurse, "Say, I've lost my hat."

IN WASHINGTON.

Quack, quack, quack! The lame ducks are back.
They look sad and rueful, slack and slack;
Hey! lame ducks, aren't you feeling well?

IRON FOR BABIES.

THERE is a common understanding that children may grow too fast for their own good. There is scientific basis for this commonly accepted opinion. In periods of rapid growth things are happening day and night and the machine may go wrong in more ways than one. This article deals particularly with some of the plans that may go wrong when nature is trying to make bricks without straw; when the frame is put up so rapidly that the stock of raw material is overdrawn.

Infancy is a period of very rapid growth. There is no other time in life when the percentage increase in length, breadth, and weight is so great as in the first twelve months. To take care of the anticipated demand the baby comes into the world with considerable stores of raw material. In addition the amount of food consumed daily is enormous in comparison with body weight. It is good food, rich in calories, fats, proteins, minerals, and vitamins, and easily digested. But there is one mineral in which the food is deficient and that is iron. Children of older age and larger size require about one-half a grain of metallic iron a day and baby needs a considerable fraction of that amount. Since the good food on which babies are fed principally—milk—is poor in iron, they presently show evidence of lack of that mineral.

The mother does her part as well as she can. Before she launches the little body on its life journey she stocks the lockers full of reserve iron. The newly born baby is as red as a pale beet and if he were assayed by a chemist the report would read: Too much iron. Then come months of subsistence on no food except iron-poor milk. Presently the baby begins to fade. The red turns to a pink, then to a pale pink, then to a dead white, then to a flabby, chalky appearance. A medical man would say the baby has a nutritional anemia. When this is the case the baby has used daily more iron than his food supplied and the lockers have been drawn on steadily to make up the deficit. At last the store has been used up and the soft, flabby, white appearance is the consequence.

Fortunately by this time many babies are ready to eat eggs, soups, cereals, and thus restock themselves with iron. Many are brought to the doctors for help. The physician may do nothing more than have the baby given less milk and more eggs, cereals, and soups. If something further is required he probably will advise an iron tonic and daily exposure to sunlight or to ultraviolet. If he gives iron he probably will prescribe some old fashioned iron tonic, for these are now recognized as being the best, and he will add a minute trace of copper to the combination.

In some instances the baby will not pick up as fast as he was expected to do on this tonic and diet and the medicine will be changed to some preparation for liver or stomach. There are some places where the need for red blood cells to carry iron is greater than that of iron itself.

In addition to infancy there are later periods of rapid growth in which the child becomes pale and flabby. Then, too, iron and copper and iron-rich foods are given. Some cases need liver and stomach preparations instead.

VINEGAR AND SALT.

Mrs. T. T. writes:

1. Is drinking a glass of vinegar with salt and pepper a day injurious to the system?

2. Has it any reducing properties?

REPLY:

1. I think it is. It would strain the chemical balance of the body to dispose of six ounces of dilute acetic acid and some salt daily. While we handle some pepper daily it does us no good and in certain circumstances does harm.

2. No.

WILL GROW NO MORE.

S. E. M. writes: My mother and father are both shorter than I.

1. Have I a chance to grow any more? I am 19 years old and 5 feet 4 inches tall. If so, about how much?

2. Is there any way to encourage growth?

REPLY:

1. In height—no.
2. Not after 19 years of age.

NOT IF YOU ARE CAREFUL.

M. M. C. writes: Is it harmful to use some of the manufactured products on sale to check perspiration under the arms?

REPLY:

Not if you are reasonably careful.

PROOF OF CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Friend of the People.]—If a woman (now a widow) who had been married to an American citizen and thus attained citizenship went back to Canada for a visit, would she need any official credentials to come back into the United States? L. L.

The writer may be advised that a United States citizen does not require documents of any kind to enter the United States. Of course, the claimed citizenship of any person seeking to enter the United States may be questioned, and it is suggested, therefore, that said person carry with her such evidence of citizenship as may be available. In the case of the woman inquired about, it would probably be desirable for her to have her marriage certificate and the naturalization certificate of her deceased husband in her presence at the time she applies for readmission to the United States.

DIVORCE NECESSARY.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have neither seen nor heard from my husband in seven years. 1. Am I automatically divorced and [2] could I remarry at once? 3. Can I find out if I am divorced at the city hall and what department should I consult for information? 4. How long must I be in this state before I can file a suit for divorce? I was married in Chicago. 5. How can I locate a person outside of employing a lawyer or detective? P. M.

1. No.
2. You should first secure a divorce.
3. It would be necessary to inquire at the office of the clerk of the court of the divorce jurisdiction of the county where the supposed complainant resided.
4. One year.
5. Depends on the clews in your possession. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 30, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson is opposed to legislation imposing an embargo upon the exportation of foodstuffs, such as has been proposed for the purpose of checking the rising cost of living and of retaliating upon England for disregard of American rights. Administration officials to whom the President has communicated his opinion are using their influences to discourage the embargo movement in congress.

CHICAGO.—The mayor's board of local improvements, of which Michael J. Faherty is president, was accused of allowing contractors to cheat property owners to the extent of at least $400,000 a year. The accusation was made by Ira O. Baker, professor of civil engineering at the University of Illinois. It was based on a detailed investigation of Chicago pavements conducted by Prof. Baker with the assistance of the city council's finance committee staff. "Skimping on materials, inadequate and in many cases faulty specifications, inferior materials, poor inspection, absolute disregard of many tests in specifications, poor workmanship, and even payment to city inspectors by contractors for overtime or holiday work, seem to be the rule in paving work done by the board of local improvements," says a digest of Prof. Baker's report prepared for Ald. Merriam's committee, which is investigating the matter.

LONDON.—The Rumanian retreat is unchecked. Driving forward along the whole front from the Transylvania passes to the Danube, the invading armies tightened their grip on Bucharest. Gen. Mackensen, moving against the capital from the south, is within twenty miles of Bucharest. Piteschti, the converging point of four railways northwest of Bucharest, fell today. Gen. Falkenhayn's troops, who battered their path through the Rumanian defense at Campulung, have reached the railway leading directly to the capital and have joined forces with the troops which pushed eastward from Craiova. There is belated hope in the Russians, who struck a heavy blow in the Carpathian passes and won a series of ridges around Kirlibaba, and on the Hungarian border. This attempt, it seems, is certain to divert some of Falkenhayn's forces to the northern line.

LONDON.—Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, commander of the British fleet, was appointed first sea lord of the admiralty, being succeeded in command of the grand fleet by Vice Admiral Sir David Beatty, who commanded the British battle cruiser squadron in the Jutland naval battle. Admiral Sir Henry B. Jackson, the present first sea lord, has been appointed president of the royal naval college at Greenwich.

CHICAGO.—The International Harvester company officials announced a series of wage increases affecting approximately 28,000 employés. While the boost, which is to take effect tomorrow, is not a blanket increase, it will average 10 per cent throughout the plants and offices of the company that are scattered through Illinois, Ohio, Minnesota, New York, and Wisconsin, it was said.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary Daniels awarded contracts for more than $65,000,000 worth of new fighting ships for the navy, including four battleships at $11,000,000 each, two fleet submarines at approximately $1,190,000 each, and twenty-seven coast submarines at from $694,000 to $698,000 each.

NEW YORK.—Maurice du Pont of the Delaware du Ponts married Miss Geraldine Shaw, daughter of Eugene Shaw, millionaire Wisconsin lumberman, in the municipal license bureau. A deputy clerk performed the ceremony. The marriage of Miss Shaw recalls the tragic death of her former fiancé, Carson Long, son of Ald. Theodore K. Long of Chicago, in March, 1912, whose body, after a long search, was found in the Niaches river, near North Yakima.

TOTAL RESOURCES.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—In your issue of Nov. 24 you published the condition of closed banks as reported by State Auditor Oscar Nelson. The way those reports are compiled it is impossible for a depositor to analyze the statements in order to see what possible equity he may have. My reference is made to the item "total resources." There is nothing in any of the statements to indicate what that asset may consist of. It might include fixtures and furniture, overdrafts, doubtful loans, good loans, good and bad stocks, etc. The state auditor should publish a statement, similar to what is done by bankers or merchants, that gives the reader some idea of what percentage of his deposit there is a probability of recovering. CHICK.

RAYMOND ROBINS' CAREER.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 21.—In the newspaper reports of the disappearance of Raymond Robins an account of his picturesque career has included two items which, as a remote relative of his, I should like to see corrected. The first point is that at least a third of his time has for years been devoted to religious work and it is quite likely that he would wish to have his achievements judged by his splendid effectiveness as a liberal preacher quite as much as on the basis of his efforts in the fields of political and social work.

The second point was the statement that he appeared as a defender of bolshevism. As a matter of fact, I never heard a more effective line of argument against socialism than that delivered in one of Robins' speeches. If he defended the soviet régime it was only in the sense of defending it from such misrepresentation and untruthful attack as it was subjected to at that time; it was not a defense of the fundamental philosophy or policy of bolshevism. His campaigning for Hughes and Hoover should be evidence on this point.

THOMAS D. ELIOT,
Professor of Sociology, Northwestern university.

ISLANDS FOR THE DEBTS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Why should not the United States offer to buy from France the Marquesas islands, the Society islands, including Tahiti, and some or all of the French West Indies, and apply the price on the French war debt to the United States? The Tahitians, at least, would be glad of the change. In the same way why should not United States of America offer to buy the Bahamas and perhaps other British West Indian possessions and also apply the price on the war debt? All of these eventually should be ours. The French and British probably will not sell, but their refusal of the offer will at least show their hand. In most of these territories it is not a question of turning over English people and soil, or sacred France, to an alien government. There are many of their possessions, such as Tahiti, that are really as much American as French or British. The proposal by THE TRIBUNE of such a purchase, even though the purchase itself might never be effected, would tend to refute and to silence the clamor against America abroad. British Honduras and British Guiana, for example, might well be sources of rubber, mahogany, etc. If the debtors are going to default, at least show that they need not default. B. B.

THE FINANCES OF MILWAUKEE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 22.—Referrring to the editorial appearing in today's edition of THE TRIBUNE, entitled: "Milwaukee Takes a Warning," permit me to state that the statement attributed to me therein, to the effect that I announced that Milwaukee had a four million dollar surplus in its treasury, is a misstatement. I have never made any such claim at any time, and the fact that newspapers have carried same is beyond my control.

At the close of 1931 the books of the city showed a cash balance of $2,574,469, and the surplus from operations for the year 1931, after setting aside reserves for all obligations incurred, amounted to $2,324,778. In a letter appearing in your column as of June 10 we stated that it appeared possible that we might be able to maintain our favorable position through the year 1932; that we were aware of changing conditions, and that many things had been done to avoid situations such as occurred in other cities, and that we were concerned more about the year 1933.

We find today that the 1931 assessed valuation of city property has been reduced $54,000,000; that the net outstanding debt is $47,420,000; that the net bonded debt for 1933 will be $43,480,200; that the city tax levy is $20,587,000, compared to $25,280,000 in 1931, and that while our cash balance is not as favorable as it was last year, that is due largely to the fact that we have some $15,000,000 in the nature of accounts receivable due from the taxpayers, all of which represent first liens on the taxable property of the city of Milwaukee and must be paid eventually, with interest at ten per cent per annum.

If you can obtain any satisfaction for your articles from the above figures you are welcome to it. For my part I am proud of the fine record this office has enjoyed during the twenty years of my administration and I am proud of the fine work that has been done to relieve the taxpayers to the fullest extent. I predict that this community will rue the day when it listened to the advice of the self-constituted taxpayers' advisory council and disregarded my plans to retain the sound financial plans under which the city has been operating during my administration. Bankers and auditors generally have commended me for my stand in insisting on safe and conservative estimates of revenue and have agreed with me that a terrible mistake has been made in abandoning the levy of funds as reserves for delinquent taxes and the reduction of items which would have placed the city on a cash basis and simplified its entire finances. Time alone will tell whether or not the so-called restrictive charter ordinance tax levy has been destructive or constructive.

City Controller.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

TEXAS HEREFORD CHOSEN AS GRAND CHAMPION STEER

Title Goes to Lone Star State for First Time.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A white faced Hereford steer from the vast range country of Texas, the largest cattle producing state in the Union, was named the grand champion steer of the world at the International Live Stock exposition at the Chicago stockyards yesterday. It was the first time in the 33 years of the stock show that the grand championship had been awarded to a Texas entry.

The newly crowned lord of cattle dom is Texas Special. He weighs 1,241 pounds, and his selection from among the 750 best fat steers at the exposition fulfills a lifetime ambition of his owner, Will Largent of Merkel, Tex.

Crowd Cheers with Owner.

Thousands were assembled about the arena where Judge Walter Biggar of Dalbeattie, Scotland, moved about examining the five best fat animals of all breeds exhibited. When he finally patter the Hereford, young Largent gave a loud Texas whoop and threw his hat high into the air as the crowds cheered.

Biggar declared the champion to be an outstanding animal and supreme not only in his breed type, but the nearest to perfection in modern beef conformation he had ever seen. He remarked that this steer was much smoother than the Herefords of England from which he descends, a tribute to the improvements made by American cattle breeders.

The white faced range cattle continued their supremacy yesterday over the best that the corn belt or eastern breeders had produced. Another Hereford steer was placed second to Texas Special in the finals for fat cattle. He is Aster Domino, raised by the Wyoming Hereford ranch of Cheyenne. The Hereford herd of three animals shown by the Oklahoma Agricultural college of Stillwater was placed above the herds of all other breeds.

Herefords in the Lead.

Yesterday's judging brought this breed into promience at the international for the first time in five years and for the sixth time in the show's history. The Angus and Shorthorn breeders have previously held the limelight.

Two farm boys whose steers went into the final competition for the grand championship were happy, even though they were defeated by young Largent, who has been learning cattle breeding since early boyhood. They are Kenneth Zink of Dane county, Wisconsin, and Elliott Brown of Rose Hill, Ia.

The Texas champion will be sold at auction at the stockyards tomorrow and, at a special price, will grace the Christmas tables of some hotel or railroad dining car. He was born on May 6, 1931. His selection marks a change from extremely small steers as the ideal type to one of slightly greater maturity and weight.

Purdue Carries Off Honors.

Purdue university ran off with sweeping honors in the final contests in fat sheep and swine yesterday. A fat barrow called Purdue Model and three barrows in a pen each brought sweepstakes. Coupled with the highest awards in fat sheep earned Monday by Purdue, the Hoosier school now has more 1932 purple ribbons than any other exhibitor in the exposition.

Canadians continued to take world titles in field crops yesterday as G. Gordon Findlay of Northwood, Ont., was named "soy bean king." His sample won over the best beans from the corn belt. Carl E. Funk of Earl Park, Ind., took second honors with beans of a similar hue.

Gets Prize Given by King.

Climaxing two days of judging among the finest draft horses on the continent, an Indiana horseman yesterday was awarded a silver cup offered by King Albert of Belgium to the best Belgian horse shown which had not won the award previously. James L. Scott of Greentown, Ind., owner of the reserve grand champion Belgian stallion, Dexter D., was the recipient.

The cup was presented by J. D. Connor Jr., who for 45 years has been in charge of Belgian horse competition in America. Connor was made a knight of the Order of Belgium in order to represent the king at yesterday's ceremonies. The grand champion stallion, Gerphant Ophain, owned by Boulder Bridge Farms of Excelsior, Miss., had won a King Albert cup before.

Today the attention of the crowds, which continue to establish records at the stock and grain show, will be centered upon the three judges who will name the new "corn king" and end for another year the annual battle between Illinois and Indiana corn growers. Complete programs of horse shows and other novelties will be held both this afternoon and evening. The exposition will close Saturday night.

Telegraph Company Plans to Help the Forgetful

An advance date gift and message service, effective tomorrow, was announced yesterday by the Postal Telegraph Cable company. It is designed principally for those who desire to remember the anniversaries of relatives and friends but are fearful of not doing so. Mrs. Katharine Bleecker Meigs, director of the company's personal service bureau, explained the new service as being a sort of "perpetual string around the fingers of the forgetful." Arrangements may be made with the company for delivery of messages or gifts on any desired date—weeks, months, or even years in advance.

4-H CHAMPIONS TELL HOW THEY KEEP THAT WAY

Boy and Girl Win National Health Titles.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Ninety-nine and four-tenths per cent healthy, Ross Allen, 20 year old college senior of Salem, W. Va., who was declared national 4-H club boy health champion yesterday, has a difficult time keeping down his waistline, he says.

Not so for Miss Dorothy Eller, slender 16 year old high school junior of Hill City, Minn., national 4-H girl health champion. She and Ross were interviewed in the Auditorium hotel, headquarters for the eleventh national 4-H club congress in session this week.

Dorothy is a perfect 34, scored 98.6 in competition with four other leading contestants, has pink cheeks without using rouge, never uses lipstick except when she goes to dances, and drinks no coffee or tea.

Numerous questions put to Dorothy failed to reveal any human weakness which might be detrimental to health or to the stated precepts of the 4-H club.

Allen weighs 184½ pounds, is 69.7 inches in height, and has a smile as flawless as that of a character in a tooth paste advertisement. He has blue eyes, long lashes, a dimple in his cheek, and brown waving hair.

Neither of the champions lives on a real farm. Miss Eller is one of five children, the daughter of Peter Eller, who has two acres on the edge of Hill City, a town of 500 inhabitants. She has never milked a cow, but bakes good bread, she said. She was one of a team of two girls who won the Minnesota state championship for breadmaking last year.

"Of course, I have dates and go to parties just as all high school girls do," she said. "But I'm always in at 10:30 on school nights, and I always arise between 6 and 7 o'clock. What I like even better than dancing are skating, swimming, and skiing."

He Goes to Dances, Too.

"Sure, I dance and date, too," said the boy health champion, "but there's no use in emphasizing that."

Asked if he ever drank, the young man smiled and said:

"No. Not that I'd admit it if I did. A national health champion couldn't be expected to say, 'Beer made me what I am.'"

Allen has played varsity basketball and tennis at Salem college in his home town. His father, J. D. Allen, has a general store in Salem and owns and operates a dairy farm. The family lives not on the farm, however, but on an 8 acre track of land "at the edge of town." Ross rides to school in a car.

Every evening, however, he milks several cows. His special projects in 4-H club work have been on potatoes, on insects and forestry. In addition to his athletic activities he has been on the college glee club four years and in the school quartet three years.

The girl health champion wants to be a nurse, the champion youth intends to study medicine at the University of Cincinnati.

More than 1,000 boys and girls banqueted in the Hotel Sherman last night as the climax of the week's festivities in connection with the 4-H club congress.

The national winner in the dress revue contest was announced. She is Miss Mildred Startup, 19 years old, of Silver Lake, Shawnee county, Kas. A blue eyed, fair haired girl, she wore her prize winning costume, a light blue woolen tailored suit with dark blue, high heeled slippers, bag, and felt hat. Her outfit cost $19.45, and also won in the tailored wool dress class.

CUT PRICE DAIRY CALLED RACKET BLOW AT UNION

Head of Local Answers Complaint to U. S.

Charges that racketeers control the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., sellers of milk at 9 cents a quart, and that these racketeers are seeking to wreck the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local No. 753, for the benefit of racketeer controlled teamsters' unions, were made yesterday by Robert G. Fitchie, president of the local.

R. G. FITCHIE.

Mr. Fitchie made his charges in answer to complaints filed by the Meadowmoor Dairies with the department of justice in Washington, charging a conspiracy in restraint of trade on the part of the Pure Milk association, the old line milk dealers, and the milk wagon drivers.

Sees No Aim to Benefit Public.

"The Meadowmoor Dairies didn't start in on a 9 cent basis for the benefit of the public," said Mr. Fitchie. "They're trying to break into our organization and to use the public as the means of building up a business.

"When they found out that our drivers were compelled to take a reduction in pay to compete with their trick of selling cheap milk to the public, they started a suit to enjoin the producers, the distributors, and the drivers, for they knew their scheme would be wrecked if the general price of milk came down to 9 cents. If that racketeer element seeking to interfere with legitimate business is not stopped there's no telling what the outcome will be. Those gentlemen don't work on cheap profits. I know from an experience I had with them a year ago, when they took me for a ride."

Price Deadlock Continues.

A conference between representatives of the Chicago milk distributors and the Pure Milk association, the producers, in Hotel La Salle yesterday was adjourned until 8 o'clock tonight when the conferees failed to reach an agreement on a milk price cut. Don Geyer, manager of the producers' association, announced that before the conference tonight he would confer with the officers of the various locals of the association to ascertain whether they will accept the final offer of the distributors.

The dealers are seeking to effect a cut in the price paid to farmers—now $1.85 a hundredweight for base milk—so they can reduce the price to consumers from 11 to 9 cents a quart and compete with the Meadowmoor Dairies. It was understood that the final offer to the farmers was a compromise of their original offer and the price demanded by the producers, but no figures were announced.

HUGE FILM EARNINGS OF GLORIA SWANSON REVEALED BY SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Large earnings of Gloria Swanson, film actress, through her share of gross receipts of her pictures, were mentioned today at the start of the trial of Maurice Cleary's suit to collect $45,000 from the star as her theatrical agent.

In some instances, it was stated in arguments of opposing attorneys, Miss Swanson, now in England, sold her interest in pictures before the receipts had been received and computed.

The sum of $1,241,091 was mentioned as her share of receipts of "The Trespasser." Under her contract with the producers of "Love of Sonia," it was stipulated, she would have received $630,370 and from "Sadie Thompson," $776,539.

SCOUT LEADERS OF FOUR STATES OPEN MEETING

The twelfth annual regional meeting of non-professional leaders of the Boy Scouts in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin was opened yesterday at the Drake hotel. Nearly 500 persons attended.

One of the announced goals is the training of one out of every four citizens in scoutcraft and ideals. This goal, it is hoped, will be reached by 1943, and at present it calls for doubling the present membership of 650,000, and increasing the staff of adult volunteer leaders from 230,000 to 400,000.

During the day, the meeting was addressed by Judge John P. McGoorty and Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive. Dr. Allen D. Albert, assistant to the president of the 1933 fair, will speak at the annual banquet tonight.

TWO TRAINMEN END 48 YEARS' SERVICE TODAY

Brigham H. Harrington, engineer, and William Horn, conductor, will retire from service with the Chicago and North Western railway today, completing a combined total of 97 years. Harrington, who operates between Chicago and Freeport, will end 49 years of service when he pulls into the North Western station at 7:55 tonight on train 706. Horn, known to commuters between Chicago and Barrington, will finish 48 years of work at Crystal Lake at 6:28. His last run will leave the station at 5:10. William P. Jones, a machinist, will also retire today, completing 35 years of work.

Cold ABORTION

(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

WHY HILLS BROS COFFEE HAS AND HOLDS SO MANY FRIENDS

Patented Controlled Roasting process prevents disappointing variations in flavor

Roasting "a little at a time"—instead of in bulk—maintains same marvelous flavor in every pound

People who start using Hills Bros. Coffee never have the slightest desire to switch! For its delicious flavor—so mellow and smooth—doesn't vary a bit. You can drink Hills Bros. Coffee meal after meal—it won't tire or disappoint your taste!

Hills Bros.' patented Controlled Roasting process makes that possible. Instead of roasting in bulk, the common practice, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . as the coffee flows evenly, continuously through the roasters.

The roast that results can't be equaled for accuracy! No berry is underdone nor overdone. They receive just the roast required to develop the most delicious, unvarying flavor—the satisfying flavor achieved only by perfect roasting.

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

As Hills Bros. Coffee is being brewed, an entrancing aroma will float through your kitchen. You'll be hungry for some of that coffee! Drink it, and see what a finer flavor comes from Controlled Roasting. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

PORTER CONVEYS HIS PROPERTY TO CORPORATION

Title Taken by Lakeside Galleries.

BY AL CHASE.

Washington Porter, second, capitalist and globe trotter, and son of the late Washington Porter, one of Chicago's wealthiest real estate owners, yesterday conveyed the old Porter residence at 4043 Lake Park avenue to the Lakeside Galleries, Inc., by quitclaim deed. Simultaneously with the filing for record of the deed of conveyance a certificate of incorporation for the Lakeside Galleries, Inc., was also filed for record.

The incorporators are Donald N. Clausen, Norman A. Miller and Richard R. Isaacs, all of the law firm of Silber, Isaacs, Silber & Wolev. The incorporation papers make this declaration regarding the new Lakeside Galleries: "Its object is to buy, sell and otherwise deal in antiques, paintings, statuary, silverware, glassware, furniture and objects of art and to buy, sell, and deal in merchandise in general."

Museum Under Construction.

Mr. Porter could not be reached. At his home his housekeeper said he intended to move his large collection of art objects from the residence into a museum building now under construction in the rear, overlooking the Illinois Central right of way.

Workmen are still busy on this museum, though it is nearly completed. The building was designed by Mr. Porter, and he has done much work on the structure. The attorneys said they knew nothing about the purpose of the corporation of which they are the incorporators.

Weds in Denmark.

Mr. Porter has had a rather spectacular career so far as newspaper publicity goes. While secretary of the American legation at Copenhagen in 1918 he first met Signe Dorothea Berg-Hansen, a member of one of the first families of Denmark. A year later he surprised his family by cabling them that he had married her. In 1920 it was cabled from Paris that Mrs. Porter was to file a divorce suit, charging cruelty. Mr. Porter was in South America at the time.

In April of this year Mrs. Frances Lee Porter, his 72 year old mother, testified in the Superior court that her son had tricked her into assigning almost $1,000,000 worth of securities and property to him.

REP. M'LAUGHLIN OF MICHIGAN DIES IN VIRGINIA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Representative James C. McLaughlin [Rep., Mich], member of the house from the 9th Michigan district and dean of the state delegation, died today at Marion, Va., while on a tour of the Old Dominion.

JAMES C. McLAUGHLIN.

His death, according to word received here by Representative John C. Ketcham [Rep., Mich.] was apparently due to heart disease.

"Mr. McLaughlin was called at his hotel this morning," said Mr. Ketcham, "and said he would be down to breakfast immediately. When he did not appear for some time hotel attachés again knocked at his door. Receiving no response, they entered and found Mr. McLaughlin dead in the shower."

Mr. McLaughlin was a member of the ways and means committee of the house. He was defeated in the recent elections by Harry W. Musselwhite, a Democrat. Born in Beardstown, Ill., 74 years ago, he moved to Muskegon, Mich., when he was six years old. He was a graduate of the University of Michigan. The death of Representative McLaughlin brings the party lineup in the house at the "lame duck" session to 208 Republicans, 220 Democrats, one Farmer-Labor, and six vacancies.

Woman Freed in Gun Case; Says Owner of Pistol Fled

Mrs. Marie Conlon, 38 years old, 10052 Peoria street, was discharged yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. She was arrested Monday after several pistol shots had come from a cab in which she was riding with her husband, Peter, at 22d street and Wentworth avenue. Mrs. Conlon said the shooting was done by another member of the party, who fled after she had taken the revolver from him. Conlon also was discharged on a charge of disorderly conduct.

A. F. OF L. HEARS JOB INSURANCE URGED, ATTACKED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Compulsory idleness insurance, along the lines set forth in the report of the executive council, for employers' contribution of at least 3 per cent of the pay roll toward such a fund, was reported to the American Federation of Labor convention late today. Only three speakers were able to give their views before the day's session closed, and there will be debate tomorrow.

Green Favors Proposal.

President William Green made a speech today before the resolutions committee, telling why he believed the proposal should be approved. Opponents of the innovation urged the danger of the departure from precedent and advised caution.

A compromise proposal was shelved in the committee following an attack on it by John L. Lewis of the miners' delegation.

At this afternoon's convention session Andrew Furuseth of the International Seamen's union argued such a plan would put into the hands of the employers power to curb trade union organization and thus would hamper the freedom of the individual workman. From his study of such insurance in Germany, Great Britain, and the Scandinavian countries Mr. Furuseth said he was convinced that no unemployment insurance law that could be enacted would assure the workingman his independence. Society, he maintained, had other methods of providing aid.

Recalls Previous Fears.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, and Philip Ickler of the Pensacola Central Labor union spoke for the report. Mr. Kennedy said the fear that animated those who opposed such insurance was similar to the fear by some trade unionists when workmen's compensation laws first were proposed. Instead of weakening the trade unions, workmen's compensation legislation had strengthened them, Mr. Kennedy declared.

Other features of a program as adopted by the executive council were adopted by the convention. They included legislation to curb corporations which deny labor the right of organization. Industrial management was criticized for failing to avoid wholesale idleness. A national economic conference was proposed to consider national economic planning to a limited degree.

Adequate relief funds were demanded. It was emphasized that an increasing proportion of relief funds must come from governmental appropriations.

Delegates criticized the operation of workmen's compensation insurance by private companies and favored the exclusive state fund plan. Its cost of administration in Ohio was set at one per cent, compared with an administrative cost as high as 33 per cent for private companies.

Quake Hits Chile; Houses Damaged in Mountains

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 29.—(AP)—A number of persons were injured and there was considerable damage early today when an earthquake struck the province of Coquimbo. The town of Illapel apparently was in the center of the disturbance. The shock was felt here and in the mountains, especially in the towns of Rio Blanco and Los Andes, where many houses were damaged. There were landslides along the Transandean railway.

New York, Old and Modern, Told by Four

Frederick Van Wyck Gives His Memories.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Recollections of an Old New Yorker," by Frederick Van Wyck. [Liveright.] Published today.

"Glamorous Sinners," by Frederick L. Collins. [Long-Smith.]

"Manhattan Oases," by Al Hirschfeld. [Dutton.]

"The Real New York," by Helen Worden. [Bobbs-Merrill.] To be published Dec. 5.

NEW YORK past and present is vivid in these four books, the past pictured in fancy as well as fact, and the present, as befits an age of reality opposed to romance, drawn in the lineage of [illegible]ity rather than glowing through memory's rosy haze.

F. L. COLLINS

"Recollections of an Old New Yorker" is exactly what its title declares it to be. It is a volume of delightfully intimate memories of a mind that remembers 1860 as a boy and that has met and in many cases known intimately the pillars of the vast social and political structure which is now the second largest city of the world.

Whatever else one says about the "new world," its newness is in most obvious contrast to the civilizations of other parts of the world, and nowhere is that more obvious than in the changes which have taken place literally "within the memory of man," the memory of living man. Frederick Van Wyck is 79 years of age and he has lived, as men's lives go, an unusually long time, but in relation to the history of man, or even the history of his own country, 79 years is not an eon.

And yet the country and the city which he remembers are not the United States and the New York of today, but something almost wholly different both spiritually and physically. Streets, buildings, the whole contour of the island of Manhattan, has changed, and you watch it changing in Mr. Van Wyck's book. And the book itself has an inherent quaintness. The author makes no attempt at a detailed and integrated narrative of the city or of his own life. He sets down anecdotes, vignettes of events and people, and the result is an unusual, an unconventional, but somehow a charming volume. No little part of that charm is in the illustrations, which are by Matilda Browne, who is the wife of the author.

A glamorous picture of a period and a place is "Glamorous Sinners, Stanford White and His Era," by Frederick L. Collins. Mr. Van Wyck's memoirs end with the building of the Madison Square Garden in 1890. "Glamorous Sinners" begins its record of a romantic period a few years later, but the man who designed the garden and his story is the link between the two books.

The author feels that New York in the days of Stanford White was at its peak romantically, that then it was the most picturesque city in the world, and, fired with his theme song, he has made a scenario of a city of glamour inhabited by sinners likewise glamorous.

Naturally the murder of White is a focal point of the book, but it is by no means a history of a half-remembered, half-forgotten murder case, but a record of the most spectacular life of a period when New York was probably the only city in America whose name was known to every intelligent foreigner, and before Chicago, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Detroit, and other cities became familiar to every one who could read in Europe, even if the readers had extremely vague ideas about their geographical relationships and were wont to think that they could lunch in the city of the stock yards and dine on a veranda overlooking the Golden Gate, after having looked into an automobile factory and stopped in for a glass of beer two other towns. "Glamorous Sinners" is an excellent piece of journalistic record of the period.

How far New York has come from the days of "Glamorous Sinners" is evidenced by the fact that two guide books are published this year to the intricacies of the metropolis. "The Real New York" is subtitled "A guide for the adventurous shopper, the exploratory eater, and the know-it-all sightseer who ain't seen nothin' yet." The author says in a foreword: "I have written of a less known New York, which to me is the real city. You will find here an account of intimate and romantic spots, such as perhaps you thought existed only in the cities of the Old World." And she delivers them to the reader.

"Manhattan Oases" is a guide to New York's 1932 speakeasies—written and amusingly illustrated by Al Hirschfohl, "with a gentleman's guide to bars and beverages," by Gordon Kahn.

Junior League Visits Site of Enchanted Isle

Out of the hundred members of the Junior league and the half dozen newspaper women who assembled yesterday morning at the Administration building of A Century of Progress for a tour of the exposition grounds and buildings only one was wise enough to wear galoshies, and long before the tour had ended every one was envying Mrs. William K. Meyers, for, although it wasn't such a cold day, it didn't take long for the cold from the frozen ground to penetrate the thin shoes worn by most of us and, O, how miserable we were!

But no amount of cold could lessen the enthusiasm with which the group saw the wonders of what has been and is being done at the exposition, although a vivid imagination was necessary in some places—the Enchanted Island, for instance— to picture what the finished product will be.

The Enchanted Island, of course, was the main objective of yesterday's band of sightseers, for it is in that project the league members are vitally interested, and, even though there was nothing to see there yesterday but steam shovels at work and long rows of scaffolding, the members were thrilled when they realized what that five acres of barren land would be like by the first of next May when the Children's theater which the league will run on the Enchanted Island will open.

A Paradise for Children.

The Enchanted Island is to be a paradise for children, with everything imaginable on it that would interest and enthrall a child. A marble shop where children may learn how marbles are made; a giant coaster wagon in which coaster wagons will be assembled; a toy shop; a restaurant decorated by Tony Sarg; a model nursery and kindergarten; playgrounds; a tropical garden with real orange trees —some one suggested yesterday that something would have to be done to prevent the little ones from testing their reality by picking the oranges, however; ponies to ride; a model farm with baby animals; a zoo in which only babies will be exhibited; a magic mountain surrounded by water and reached by bridge or boats (the water will be only thirty inches in depth), on the top of which will be a fairy castle.

And when one enters the castle he will shoot down a mysterious spiral slide, kerplunk! What child won't adore that? Also a monkey island, a miniature railroad, and the Children's theater, in which the league will present three plays a week. There also will be movies, puppet shows, etc., in the theater.

The Junior league has a twofold job with A Century of Progress to produce the plays and to publicize through lectures in schools of all sorts, clubs, and similar organizations the Enchanted Island. Yesterday's tour was for the purpose of acquainting the members from whom the fifty speakers necessary for this publicity work will be selected with the "why, what, and when" of A Century of Progress, and if they all carried away as enthusiastic an idea of the whole project as this reporter did I'm sure they are ready to start out on their new job with a real liking for it.

First Speakers Are Selected.

Mrs. Meyers, Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, Mrs. Willard Boyden, Miss Beatrice Borland, Mrs. Richard Gambrill, Mrs. J. Waller Marshall, Mrs. Stanley Morrill, Mrs. Carleton Scribner, Mrs. Gordon Lang, who is a transfer to the league from the east, and Miss Marjorie Kimball, also a transfer (she is a former president of the Pittsburgh league) are the first ten chosen by the speakers' bureau chairman, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, to start the work.

They are to meet again tomorrow morning to start their short training course, and next week they will go into ten schools of the city to talk to the pupils and make them anxious to visit the Enchanted Island when it opens next spring.

Mrs. John J. Finlay, Mrs. Norman Pritchard, and Mrs. Boyden are assisting Mrs. Dixon in the work of selecting the speakers.

After the tour yesterday the tourists had luncheon in that stunning trustees' room at the Administration building with Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, and some of the men interested in the development of the Enchanted Island. Nathaniel Owings, development supervisor for the fair and husband of the former Emily Otis, who is publicity chairman of the Junior League's A Century of Progress committee, introduced the speakers, who were Mr. Dawes, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, chairman of the general committee; Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of the Chicago public schools, and Arthur G. Deaver, district superintendent of schools and in charge of the fair tours for school children. Mrs. J. Beach Clow is vice chairman of the league committee; Miss Jane Rowe, secretary, and Miss Frances Weary, assistant to Mrs. Owings.

Some of the others present yesterday were Miss Margot Atkin, president of the league; Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr., Miss Elaine Blackman, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., and many of the younger members of the league.

Junior League to Boost World's Fair

Mrs. J. Waller Marshall, Mrs. William K. Meyers, Mrs. Willard Boyden, and Mrs. Stanley Morrell (left to right) are among the first ten speakers of the Junior league chosen to lecture in schools and before clubs and similar organizations to acquaint children and their parents and teachers with the Enchanted island, the children's development at A Century of Progress. This picture was taken yesterday on the steps of the Administration building just after a tour of the exposition grounds and buildings.

New Handbags Can Go on Any Shopping List

Leather Gadabouts Return to Style Favor.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Handbag collectors are notably fickle . . . every day of the week they swing around the various alluring display cases filled with knockout creations for the purpose of holding shopping shekels, shopping lists, complexion aids and extras.

New things absolutely hypnotize them . . . even though they may possess a goodly assortment of daytime, street, and evening bags, the newest bags are hard to resist. With gift lists clutched in their hands they can now swoop down on some eye-filling collections of newly arrived models and have a grand time buying bags with the lowest price tags in years fluttering from the frames.

First, the best news of the season . . . the leather gadabouts are in . . . those wide flat affairs that go in for efficiency and space . . . with large compartments, zippered cavities, and separate outside-under-the-flap divisions for notepad, pencil, and a package of cigarets.

You bought these good looking things in all street shades of felt, now you can have them in fine leather, the only difference is the size, the leather gadabouts are a trifle shorter in length and width than the popular felt numbers.

If you are looking for brown bags the shops are full of them . . . look for the stunning pin seals with glittering marcasite clasps and ornaments. Some breath-taking lovely, spicy, brown suedes have flaps made entirely of petit point and printed words simply can't describe this stunning combination . . . new brown suedes can be initialed in silver, chromium, gold, copper, and even rhinestones, depending upon the model, but you can label every size and shape and styled bag you own or give away with initials or monograms, ranging in size from wee winking letters made of rhinestones to the huge swanky letters that are 3 inches high. Other bags have ovals, oblongs, squares, and circles of metal already attached for the engraver to work on.

The very newest and most brilliant bags are the ones made of chromium . . . they are flat and thin and the slickest things in town . . . you can find them in street styles only, flat, oblong affairs with both sides covered with very thin pieces of chromium.

You can buy the modernistic numbers with the chromium divided in triangles in bright gleaming metal and contrasted with a triangle of frosty metal . . . some of them have very flat straps and you can find an envelope style occasionally. Some of them are combined with leather, but whether you select the all metal designs or the leathered combinations you will be buying the smartest winter handbag of the season.

Lots of colored bags, usually in either velvet or soft supple leather, can be matched to difficult dress shades . . . lovely, pale ruby reds, coral tints and lipstick vermilions, as well as the new deep garnet shades and some very unusual tones of green.

It's a great year for ensemble enthusiasts. You will not have any trouble in matching exactly the color of practically any coat or dress in your wardrobe.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By News Syndicate Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

A REVENGEFUL ATTEMPT.

Prof. Fordney and Sergt. Reynolds had just arrived from headquarters in response to a telephone call from the house of the eccentric bachelor, Robert Duval.

Duval's sister, greatly agitated, met them at the door. "I'm afraid something terrible has happened," she said. "I stopped in to see Robert ten minutes ago. As soon as I opened the front door I noticed a strong odor of gas. Receiving no answer to my shouts, I thought I'd better get help. Since phoning you I discovered the gas seems to be coming from the study, but I haven't been able to summon courage enough to go in."

Unlocking the door Reynolds met some slight resistance in pushing it open. Pillow stuffing had been jammed along the bottom and the same stuffing had been used on the cracks of the windows which were securely locked.

Duval lay dead upon the couch; a knotted scarf around his throat. The room was heavy with gas issuing from the fireplace log.

A search revealed a note left by Duval which read, IF MY DEATH OCCURS UNDER SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES ARREST OLSON.

"Say," exclaimed Reynolds. "This begins to look bad for Olson! I'd better be hunting up that bird!"

"You might talk with him, Sergeant, but you'll see he can't be arrested for this."

WHY?

Bishop Tells Role of Church in Democracy

Kill Evil by Encouraging Good, His Plan.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The place of the church in a democracy was defined by Bishop Francis J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church last night at the La Salle hotel before representatives of twenty-eight denominations assembled at a banquet in connection with the opening of a four day meeting of the National Home Missions council. Bishop McConnell is president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and makes his residence in New York.

The principal work of the church in connection with social, industrial, economic, and political problems, said Bishop McConnell, is that of creating a spirit in which right things can be done. He declared the full force of right public opinion—which is within the admitted right of the church to create—has never yet been utilized.

"It is not our business to create laws, although sometimes a law is a great help," Bishop McConnell asserted. "Rather it is the church's function to make a social climate favorable to right social action. The dinosaur and other hideous prehistoric monsters were not killed by anybody. The climate changed and they died. Modern social monstrosities will not have to be killed by anybody if the social climate can be changed."

Bishop McConnell referred to the investigation of abuses in affairs of certain insurance companies some years ago by Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice of the Supreme court. The result of that investigation, the bishop pointed out, was "about the best recent example of the power of public opinion." He said the cleaning up of those insurance companies resulted without the enactment of a single law or resort to legal procedure of any sort.

The force of "corporate utterance" of the church, the bishop contended, should not be underestimated. He asserted that no longer are ministers scoffed at when they protest against some social injustice. This is true, said Bishop McConnell, because the church has taken the trouble to secure expert knowledge, which is disseminated.

"In my four years as president of the Federal council it has amused me to sit in my office and receive protests of textile manufacturers, coal operators, and railroad men to resolutions passed by church bodies," the bishop said.

Dr. John McDowell of Philadelphia, president of the home missions council, presided at the dinner.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Again "Sherlock Holmes" is with us. "By permission of the executors of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle," a preliminary title informs us, with unconscious facetiousness.

Again he is with us. Again he is uncannily adept at solving the apparently unsolvable. Again he is pitted against that ol' devil Prof. Moriarty who contrarily eludes the electric chair just when the sleuth of Baker street thought he had him all set and could take time off to get married and settle down. Again Watson provides the key dialogue to Holmes' characteristic "Elementary, my dear Watson! Purely elementary." Again Scotland Yard sits at the super-detective's feet and learns. Again Clive Brook impersonates the hero. BUT——

This trip Sherlock is minus the needle and plus a girl friend. Which facts lend a touch of the unusual to his latest venture.

The picture is an interesting and suspenseful one of its kind, and is well acted. Mr. Brook plays, I thought, with tongue in cheek, but, even so, gives a far better performance than he did in his previous portrayal of Holmes. Ernest Torrence is a truly terrible Moriarty and Miriam Jordan, as Holmes' fiancée, is a charming creature. Howard Leeds is splendid as Little Billy, the hero's young and adoring pupil. Herbert Mundin does a Cockney saloon owner amusingly. Racketeers, imported by Moriarty, are tellingly portrayed.

I was displeased by the constant slighting mention of America and "American methods" in the dialogue. I quote one: "We are not used to American methods. Machine guns turned on little children in the streets."

In war time that would have been considered alien propaganda.

See you tomorrow!

Virginia Vilas Sets Dec. 10th for Wedding to David Norton

Invitations to Reception Are Sent Out; Only Families Will Attend Chapel Ceremony.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS VIRGINIA VILAS has decided to be married on Saturday, Dec. 10, and invitations to her wedding reception went out yesterday. She is to be married to David W. Norton of Peoria at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon in St. James' chapel, the Rev. Duncan Browne reading the service in the presence of only the families, but more relatives and friends have been invited to the reception which will follow at the residence of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNally of 1041 Judson avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Richard Hill Fleming [Betty Marshall] will be the bride's matron of honor and Miss Eleanor McNally will be her cousin's other attendant. William Hardin of Peoria will serve as Mr. Norton's best man, and ushering will be the bride's brother, Royal C. Vilas Jr., whose engagement to Miss Roberta Harvey was announced last week, and Charles Mead. Mr. and Mrs. Norton will live in or near Chicago but they haven't decided just where yet.

A wedding of great interest to Chicago society is taking place away from here today, in far away Biarritz. It is that of Ines de Soriano, daughter of the Marquis and Marquise de Ivanrey, and Gonzalo de la Gandara, son of the Marquis and Marquise de la Gandara, which will be solemnized at 11:30 o'clock this morning at St. Martin's church in Biarritz.

Only the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom will be present at the ceremony and at a wedding luncheon to follow at the De Ivanrey residence.

There is a possibility that Chicago friends and relatives of the bride may see them within the next few months, for they are to travel around the world on their honeymoon and they may come to the city where the Marquise de Ivanrey [Italia Blair] was born and lived until her marriage and where Miss de Soriano made her debut four seasons ago.

The bride has two uncles living here, Chauncey B. Blair and William M. Blair, as well as numerous more distant relatives. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, has been living in Chambesy, Switzerland, for several years.

Phyllis Pratt Bride Friday.

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Pratt to Paul H. Nitze, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Nitze of Chicago on Friday afternoon will be a small ceremony at the New York residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ruth Sears Baker Pratt.

The bride's cousin, Miss Barbara Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Irving Pratt, will be her only attendant and Walter Maynard will be best man. There will be no ushers. The Rev. William Greenough Thayer, headmaster of St. Mark's school, will perform the ceremony in the presence of members of the families. A small reception, to which a few intimate friends have been invited, will follow the service.

Mrs. Potter Palmer is to give a small luncheon today for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Potter Palmer III., who was Miss Rose Saltonstall Movius of Boston before her marriage last winter. The senior Palmers are expecting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne of Millbrook, N. Y., and their infant son to spend Christmas with them.

A lot of youngsters will whisper into the ear of Mrs. Santa Claus at the Woman's Exchange sale at the Blackstone hotel today and I'm sure

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

How about installing one of the modern conversion burners or gas burning units in your existing coal burning heating plant. The widespread development of natural gas is steadily making for economical fuel consumption and the cleanliness of gas heat, its completely automatic and effortless feature, make it a grand and glorious way of heating your house. Worth considering, this subject. You can take up this matter with your local gas company and ask to have an estimate made regarding monthly cost of heating your house with gas. Your house has its own individual problems; only investigation can reveal its weather tightness and comparative costs of gas heating.

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White plans to sail his four master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Eden, an unemployed engineer; Roberta Millbank, and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employe. Henry Shepard, backer of the venture, plans to fill the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate.

INSTALLMENT IX.

A FLOATING EXPERIMENT.

"Right now," Henery observed, "lots of people have got 'bout everything but money. You can buy all sorts of pretty good stuff for mighty few dollars, cash. There's a stack of pleasure l'anches, cost, some of 'em, a thousand, fifteen hundred dollars to build three or four years ago, that I'm buyin' for not over a hundred dollars apiece. Some of 'em were confiscated rum runners sold at auction for whatever they'd bring. That wasn't much."

"What about the market for them where we're going, sir?" Peter asked. "Money's none too loose down there."

Henery nodded. "I ain't after their money—though, of course I'd take it at a pinch. I'm after what they got most of they can't ship and sell at a profit and that represents a certain standard value somewhere else."

"In other words, you're going 'way back to early trade principles."

"Yes, sir. The sort that founded family fortunes all along this coast from Fundy to Key West. If it don't work, it ain't goin' to cost me much.

He did not haggle or bargain.

I'd hesitated to charter and load this schooner like I aim to load her. But since Cap'n Hiram and the rest of you want to go and are short in funds, I'll tackle it."

Then Ladybird said sharply: "I say, where's Arlette?"

Nobody answered immediately. Then Henery said, a bit sheepishly: "Mademoiselle is off executin' a little c'mission for me. Sort of a side line. Talkin' to her last evenin' made me think she was well qualified to handle it."

"Where?" Ladybird asked.

"Over to a mill town not so far away. I sent her in a fine big car, with a swell chauffeur all rigged out in liv'ry. It was sent in by some rich folks that live nearby that heard I was buyin' cars. Least they were rich until jes' shortly. This gentleman phoned me I could have the car at my own price, chauffeur and all."

"Chauffeurs," Adam observed, "are amongst the goods we have most of and no market for."

Henery chuckled: "This feller's French, not on the quota, and his leave run out. The family cal'lated to go to Europe this summer and take him back. But their plans were changed on them."

Ladybird laughed. "Has Arlette gone to buy up a job lot of mill girls, to peddle 'round the pampas?"

Henery shook his head. "No, Mister Mate; that might get us into trouble. B'sides, Hiram's a God fearin' man. I know a man owns a big mill that makes cheap ladies' dresses."

"Does he make 'em for expensive ladies, too?"

"No, jes' prints and slips and the like female gear. He's been shut down some time, and told me not long ago his warehouse was cram' full of the last style beach and sleepin' pajamas and step-intos and other things—I forget the name."

"My Unsainted Aunt! And you've sent Arlette to bid on the goods?"

Henery nodded. He looked still more sheepish. "Mademoiselle told me she understood buyin'. Had some little experience. I figgered she could buy about ten gross of pajamas for what she said her own cost, right in Parse. This fellow will take my note."

They were finishing a cold lunch in the cabin. The captain leaned forward on one elbow, and his very clear blue eyes, that looked bright and boyish for his weathered face, seemed to check and tally the others. He said, in his concise way: "This scheme is getting better. Henery's cargo will be more help than hindrance. I wouldn't count'nance his venture if I didn't think it might work. His people are going to make a fuss, but the whole darned town is strong for Henery. Everybody likes the idea of goin' back to old tradin' days——"

"When ships sailed out o' here with a gen'ral cargo of trade goods," Henery said, "and everybody owned a little in her. And two, three years later she sailed in again with a load that made everybody pros'prous."

"We're shippin' a cook," Henery said. "He's coming for his keep. But principally to get away from his daughter-in-law's Name's Benny."

"That seems to let me out," Roberta said.

"Not one bit," Henery protested. "Only your duties won't be so heavy." He pushed back his chair. "Now, let's start loadin' this floating experiment in old time treasure huntin' and trade. At least she ain't going to drown us with Cap'n Hiram aboard. No more can she starve us with sev'ral hundred tons of frozen fish and flour and other mixed rations."

Arlette arrived in the automobile de luxe. It was swung aboard and the French chauffeur, in maroon livery and gaiters, turned to of his own accord, though no one had signed him on. His name was Raoul.

Not for nothing was Arlette a descendant of early Phœnician traders. Barter was in her blood, and her share of beguiling. She knew trade lingo and trade lingerie. No lies were necessary. French herself, in a big French car driven by a French chauffeur, she looked like Jeanne d'Arc to a manufacturer whose remaining collateral was a warehouse full of cheap but tasty pajamas of which the taste in another season's change of fashion must be bitter in his mouth.

He did not haggle nor bargain.

"Help yourself, madamwarscelle," said in effect this harassed weaver. "Henery Shepard's note is good enough for me."

Arlette was driven back purring contentedly and wondering why his stupid fellow townsfolk considered Henery a nut. She leaned forward and asked her chauffeur, Raoul, what he thought about it.

"Ah, mam'selle, that is because here in America all the people are taught to look and think and act alike. They are standardised, like automobiles, and they are proud of it. To be different, individual, is to be considered toque—crazy. Perhaps if there were more people who are crazy like Monsieur Shepard there would not be the present commercial distress."

"What do you think he is planning?" she asked.

"How can I tell, mam'selle. But since he appears to be buying a great many serviceable things, like this car, for cash prices that are absurdly small, and loading them aboard a vessel, it looks as if he had reason to expect a market for them somewhere. Why not?"

"But where can he hope to sell thousands of cheap summer garments for women and girls?"

Raoul laughed. "I am no merchant, but I would say that the best place must be where it is always summer and where there are thousands of women and girls. That last is—everywhere."

Air Interests Oppose Crash Scenes in Film

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 29.—Due to feeling which has arisen among professional aviators about the Warner picture, "Grand Central Airport," Col. Roscoe Turner, transcontinental flyer, has been relieved of his obligation to act as aeronautical adviser for the film, and the studio has been forced off three of the major airports in Los Angeles.

The aviators became resentful because the script of the story showed what they consider a grewsome side of professional aviation, with shots of wrecked airliners, forced landings, and injuries.

The studio's viewpoint was that it had already expended $125,000 on this nearly finished film, which features Dick Barthelmess, Sally Eilers, Dorothy Peterson, and Tom Brown, before the aviators made their attitude known and the studio now expresses a natural unwillingness to abandon the story with such tremendous loss.

Warner executives asked to have leaders in aviation hold a round table conference with them and Dudley Steele, chairman of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, was invoked to see if an agreement could not be reached.

Bill Wellman, director of the film, has been too ill with flu to take part in the discussions which reached a high pitch, after the film company was forbidden to use Grand Central airport—which gave the film its name—for any further shots. The movie troupe had already moved off Alhambra and United Airports because cooperation was being withheld by the air people.

Ralph "Tex" Madsen, 8 foot movie giant, took out a three day notice of intention to wed yesterday. The bride to be is Verna Marie Rice, and they will be married at a cowboy ceremony in Ramona Indian village next Sunday.

BY MARY MEADE.

Many a woman is finding that the need for less expensive meals is, surprisingly enough, producing better meals. That is, ingenuity pays returns in the kitchen just as it does every place else.

One of the most interesting new by-paths leads to the cracker shelf. Gone are the days when a lone box of graham or soda crackers filled the family's needs. The "cracker department" of today's well regulated home is notable for its variety.

But it's the things you can do with crackers and cookies that are really exciting! Nowadays people actually cook with them and turn out the most delightful new concoctions at greatly reduced cost.

To begin with, crackers stretch dishes! They dress up leftovers, they make two eggs do the work of three, they extend a meat loaf or a creamed dish till an unexpected guest or two is a treat and not a calamity.

Then, too, if your hand sometimes seems to have lost its cunning with pie crust, turn to cracker crusts and you needn't fear failure. They are always tender. Moreover, you can have flavored pie crusts—chocolate, ginger, and graham. If your soufflés have a tendency to fall, count on crackers to buoy them up. And if certain dishes seem a little spineless and anemic as to flavor, maybe all they need is a dash of spicy crackers . . . or sweet crackers . . . or salty crackers, to give them personality. Probably you've discovered what a pleasant change it is sometimes to substitute cracker crumbs where bread crumbs are called for.

Crackers have no meal preferences. They used to be excluded from breakfast, but it was unjustified slander, as any eater of honey graham cracker muffins, zwieback milk toast, or poached eggs on rusk can testify.

Cookies are stepping out for breakfast, too.

But cracker cooks really come into their own at lunch and dinner time.

When it comes to desserts, cracker cookery strikes out for infinity. There are the pie crusts already mentioned. [Right now graham cracker pie seems to be the rage.] There are puddings galore, combining ginger snaps with apricots and lemon snaps with cherries, and chocolate snaps with custard and the cherished graham cracker with dates.

Another branch of the cracker dessert family is the ice box tribe. Here we find the ice box cakes that call for vanilla wafers, chocolate wafers, lady fingers, and all the little fancy shortbreads that are always so popular. Turn your imagination loose on cracker cookery. You'll have fun—and so will the family.

GINGER SNAP WAFFLES.
48 ginger snaps, rolled fine
¼ tsp. salt
4 tsps. baking powder
3 egg yolks
1 cup milk
½ cup melted butter
3 egg whites

Roll the ginger snaps fine and add the salt and baking powder. Beat the egg yolks and add the milk and melted butter. Combine with the first mixture and mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake on a hot waffle iron.

APRICOT ICE BOX CAKE.
3 eggs
1¼ cups apricot pulp
½ cup brown sugar
4 tbsps. butter
½ cup whipped cream
1 box thin vanilla cookies.

Beat the eggs, add the fruit pulp and stir over hot water until thick. Add the creamed butter and sugar, and cool. Fold in whipped cream. Line a loaf pan with wax paper and a layer of the cookies. Pour in mixture and top with cookies. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

CRACKERED SALMON CUTLETS.
16 salted soda crackers
Salt and pepper
1 tsp. baking powder
1½ cups canned salmon
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. parsley
1 egg

Crumble the crackers, then add the salt, pepper, baking powder, and moisten with salmon liquor. Add the flaked salmon, lemon juice, parsley, and beaten egg. Shape into six cutlets and fry in butter or a small amount of fat.

Old Maxwell Street Center Continues Aid

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, who has seen the new Chicago Lying-in hospital evolve from the old Maxwell street dispensary he founded 38 years ago, recently outlined plans for the continued service of the dispensary, as an independent organization known as the Chicago Maternity center. He spoke before the Mothers' Service club at the Standard club.

This center, he explained, took over a part of the work of the Chicago Lying-in hospital and dispensary last July, and will be operated independently with its own board of managers and medical staff. It will aim to benefit the poor mothers of the city by delivering their babies in their homes, and to train students and nurses particularly from the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, University of Iowa, and the University of Wisconsin.

"Twenty-five thousand women die in the United States every year due to child birth," Dr. De Lee said. "It is safe to say that since the great war we have lost twice as many mothers in child birth as we lost men during the war. Over half of these deaths can be prevented. Instead of spending millions on veterans, wouldn't it be a good idea to spend it on mothers and babies?

"There are 2,100,000 babies born every year in the United States, and of that number 1,500,000 are delivered in their own homes. It is therefore necessary to teach doctors and nurses how to take care of women in their own homes. There are three causes of death—diseases and accidents of pregnancy, diseases and labor at birth, and infections. We can prevent these deaths if we can get to the patient in time—and this is reached through proper prenatal care."

The Chicago Maternity center has lost only one case since the new régime last July, Dr. Henry Buxbaum, president of the board, said. The center averages 300 deliveries a month.

"In addition to the delivery of babies in the home, we hope to establish a woman's clinic and also a cancer prevention clinic. We want to educate women in these poor districts to come in for routine health examinations once every six months. We believe that if they do that we can detect the early stages of cancer, which may be curable."

The center will continue the work of teaching the doctors and nurses to do good obstetrics in both home and hospital, and will hold classes for the expectant mother and young mothers to teach them the care of the young infant. The center cares for 2,600 mothers a year at a cost of $30,000 a year.

Dr. De Lee is chairman of the board of directors. There is a consulting staff and advisory staff as well as the staff of attending and adjunct obstetricians. Mrs. Harry Kunin is president of the Mothers' Service club, a new auxiliary group. The South Shore Service league headed by Mrs. Milton Otte is also an auxiliary and another group is now being organized in Evanston.

Cornell Play Has Premiere in Cleveland

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Katherine Cornell gave her latest production, "Lucrece," its first performance last night in Cleveland, O., the city that also witnessed the première of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." This is a drama on the classic theme of the rape of Lucretia, a Roman matron, by Tarquin and her subsequent suicide. It is the work of André Obey, a French author, translated into rhythmic prose by Thornton Wilder, the American novelist.

But although a story of ancient Rome, with the characters bearing Roman names, the stage settings and costumes of "Lucrece" are in the atmosphere of the French Renaissance. Thus Cleveland first-nighters who expected to see Miss Cornell in the flowing robes of a Roman matron found her wearing instead the stiff brocaded gowns of a Parisienne of the sixteenth century. Some of the stage direction was tricky enough to confuse the Clevelanders, as, for example, an invisible door that opened and closed for the imagination only, and an invisible spinning wheel which hummed away in the void. These touches, no doubt, are relics of the French production, for "Lucrece" was first acted by Jacques Coupeau's disciples of the Vieux Colombier theater in Paris, who are hyper-esthetes of the footlights.

Here are excerpts from the verdicts of the Cleveland dramatic critics, as sent by the Associated Press:

"One of the finest productions ever made in America. . . Off the usual routine. . . lacks dramatic momentum."—William F. McDermott of the Plain Dealer.

"A magnificent production and a gesture in the right direction. . . Will not be as popular as 'The Barretts.'"—Archie Bell of the News.

The Theater Guild's staging of "The Good Earth," a dramatization of Pearl Buck's novel of Chinese peasant life, will come to the Erlanger theater Dec. 26 for a three weeks' engagement under the auspices of the American Theater society. The playrights who adapted the best selling story into stage form are Owen Davis, author of more than 300 pieces, and his son Donald.

The Guild's company includes Mme. Alla Nazimova in the rôle of Wang Lung, Henry Travers, Sydney Greenstreet, Clyde Franklin, Ann Sutherland, Marjorie Wood, Gertrude Flynn, Kate Morgan, Philip Woods and fifty others. The scenery was designed by Lee Simonson, and Philip Moeller was in charge of the stage direction.

Sokoloff Made Conductor of New York Orchestra

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra, has accepted an invitation to become the permanent conductor of the New York orchestra. The executive committee, in making the announcement, said the inaugural concert under Sokoloff's direction would be in January. Sokoloff founded the Cleveland orchestra.

Perfume Serves to Enhance a Woman's Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

You tell me! What is the word you use when you want to say something is the final touch to beauty and charm? I'm thinking about perfume's place in the scheme of the alluring woman. Could you say "the last devastating touch?" No, that wouldn't do, for perfumes aren't always devastating.

Well, anyway, whatever the word is—that's it. That's what perfume ought to be.

Notice how the recent readjustments in our economic lives still leave us a neat little margin for perfume? Rather, how the perfume manufacturers show a heart in the way they offer fine perfumes at a not prohibitive cost? You can buy as lovely a scent as you'll need to stir memories, inspire new ones, in quarter ounce bottles. You can still indulge the most beloved woman fancy without fear of incurring disfavor for your extravagance.

How best to judge a perfume? By sniffing it at the counter? By getting a whiff of it as some one else passes by?

All good perfumers, artists these men, advise against this manner of choosing. They say that not by a bottle nor yet by its use by another woman may you know what a perfume will do for the individual you. It's how a perfume reacts on you alone that should elect or reject it. And not until it comes in contact with the warmth of your body is its true essence released.

Applying it to the skin, not to the clothing, is the only recognized right way; unless one is using perfume, say, to offset a fur odor, which is commonly done. I suppose it is a very minor percentage of our women who have perfumes on their dressing tables chosen to complement the personality of the wearer. We are given to buy ing scents casually, or using scents that have been casually chosen for us as gifts.

But since the emotional appeal is so strongly allied to perfume use, why not try a little more for the appeal you most wish to make—mystery, frankness, sophistication, sweetness, outdoorsiness, naïveté, glamour, or what have you in your hope chest?

Letters Show Two Sides to Every Shield

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Sometimes the letters from my readers make me feel as though these articles were talks with friends—or "visits," as one mother wrote me. Consequently, I have to restrain myself sometimes in order not to sound too personal. But today I'll relax a little so that I can tell you one or two things that will amuse you.

One correspondent, who does not live in the United States, writes me reams on the subject of spanking and declares that I and some of my colleagues who do not believe in it are filling the reformatories and prisons of this country. He goes on to rail because all these columns are based on pure theory! Any one could tell that none of us ever had anything to do with children, says he. Which makes me mildly wonder just what he would call some of the occupants of my home and my past experience!

In contrast to this rabid gentleman, whose perspective on parenthood and the fascination of unfolding childhood is blurred by a fog of spanking, is the correspondence with people of another sort, who by their understanding make the work of this column a pleasure. Such a letter with the "nicest" parts out out contains the following:

"Your articles always sound as if you've met the very situation you're discussing and that gives the rest of us confidence. I have an adorable curly head who will be three next month—Sally—and a very peppy rascal, aged 5 months, seventeen pounds, Jim.

"Add to that six rooms and no help and you'll see why I'm not a letter writer.

"But, is it fun? College, travel, nothing we've ever done can compare with being parents. We are collecting quite a Child Care library from suggestions you've had in your column from time to time. Books we have, but I never seem to have pamphlets, so will you send me. . . ."

Here let me take this opportunity to say that we've had lots of difficulty in mailing lately because of insufficient postage; and very small envelopes. If you could see us struggling sometimes to crowd a fat fold of "literature" into one delicate envelope, and even then to have to omit something requested you would be sorry for us. It is best to send one stamped, self-addressed envelope for each booklet you want.

Virginia Vilas Will Be Bride on Dec. 10th

Reception Will Follow the Ceremony.

a lot of parents will tell Mrs. Claus to order the children's Christmas wants from good old Mr. Claus. There will be a grand array of Christmas presents at the sale—toys of all sorts, some exquisite doll houses and furnishings brought back from New York by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, president of the exchange; clothing, novelties, and all the other lovely things which the shop sells for charity.

Silver Screen Ball Meeting.

Mrs. Hayden Harris has invited the members of the committee in charge of the Silver Screen ball to meet at her residence, 20 Cedar street, today, for a meeting and tea at 4 o'clock. The ball is to be given on Dec. 16 at the Drake hotel by the Association of Arts and Industries.

About 60 members of the debutante set will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanhope Bunting at a dinner dance this evening at the Drake hotel for their daughter, Miss Elisabeth Bunting. The affair will mark Miss Bunting's formal introduction in Chicago. She had several smaller parties in Lake Forest during the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner of Lake Forest have invited some of their friends to drop in at their house this evening to hear a program of spirituals by the Hampton Colored Quartet.

The Fortnightly club, which often finds programs given by its own members more interesting than those by professionals, announces that Mrs. Charles S. Dewey is to speak on "Adventures in Diplomacy" at the club's fourth regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Dewey's life in Washington and abroad has provided ample material for her subject and no doubt her listeners will find her an entertaining speaker. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon at 1:15 o'clock.

Announce Two Charity Events.

Mrs. Robert R. Fauntleroy will open her residence, Trystanholt, in Geneva, next Monday from 10 to 5 o'clock for a sale of articles made under the auspices of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. Assisting that day will be Mrs. John E. Kuhns, Mrs. George Overton, Mrs. Albert Newcombe, Mrs. Joy Morton II., Mrs. Nathan McClure, Mrs. David McDougal, Mrs. Sidney Castle, Mrs. Ralph Davis, Mrs. Charles Rockwood, Mrs. Arch Richards, and Mrs. John Van Nortwick.

Mrs. William J. Chalmers announces a sale of articles made by the children at the Home for Convalescent Crippled Children at Pride's Crossing—her pet philanthropy, by the way—next Wednesday at 700 North Michigan avenue. Hooked rugs, hand made toys, and various other sorts of handiwork will be among the articles.

On exhibition will be the most marvelous miniature farm set consisting of about 200 pieces, made by some of the older boys at the home for Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, to be used on a mirror plaque as a table decoration. Mrs. Armour saw the original collection, of wee animals, men, buildings, etc., in Holland and she was so entranced with it that she had pictures taken of it and from these and a minute description of the whole, those clever boys reproduced the Dutch antiques for her.

The articles will be exhibited on a mirror plaque in the window of the store where the sale will be held that day.

Mrs. Frank Granger Logan, who has been giving whole hearted support to the newly established United Exhibitors' galleries at 9 West Washington street, has sent out invitations to a tea to be held at the galleries next Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock.

Lecture By Dean Laing

The Woman's Athletic club has cards out for a lecture on "What Everybody Reads" by Dean Gordon J. Laing of the University of Chicago to be given on Thursday of next week at 11 o'clock. The program will be followed by luncheon as usual.

The Misses Peggy Glidden and Louise Ruffner announce that the following young women will model in a fashion show that will be a feature of the midnight entertainment to be staged at the Arden Shore ball on Dec. 10 at the Stevens hotel: The Misses Eleanor Page, Susan Badgerow, Helen Marie Castle, Elisabeth Bunting, Rosamond Baker, Marian Gordon, Ethel Dixon, Eleanor Litsinger, Suzanne Morris, Edna Doering, and Wethyan Harmon.

Mrs. Francis Johnson has enlisted as her aids in selling the boxes for the huge benefit concert for the Bohemians' relief fund some of the best workers in town, so it is practically certain that every one of the boxes at the old Auditorium will be occupied for this gala concert, which is to be given on Dec. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vyse have moved from 180 East Delaware place to the Pearson hotel. Mrs. Vyse spends quite a lot of time in Lake Forest, however, with her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Strotz.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lobdell of Hubbard Woods will return the end of the week from New Orleans, where they went to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lobdell's mother, Mrs. Reuben G. Bush. Mrs. Bush had many friends here, having visited her daughter often on the north shore and before that when the Lobdells lived in town.

Dicks Will Go South

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick will depart shortly after the holidays for their annual stay in Florida, where they have numerous house guests each winter aboard their yacht, the Chieftain. Their son, Sheldon Dick of Washington, who returned to the east last week from Europe, will come to Chicago for Christmas.

LeRoy Kramer Jr. will return from Lawrenceville on Dec. 17 to spend Christmas with his parents. His younger brother, Henry Kramer, will be at home on the following day.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins of 3214 Lake Shore drive, to Paul McNulty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McNulty of 803 Kenesaw terrace, will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, with Msgr. Joseph Casey officiating.

The only guests at the ceremony and at a dinner to follow at the Collins residence will be members of the immediate families. Miss Kathryn Collins, the bride's sister, will be her only attendant and the bridegroom's brother, Robert McNulty, will serve as best man.

Mr. McNulty and his bride will spend their honeymoon motoring on the west coast, returning in mid-January to reside in Chicago.

Parisiennes Do Their Walking in Chic Stripes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Striped suits and simple woolen frocks are the favorite run about costume of the fashionable woman in Paris this late fall. They wear these garments under their fur coats or jackets and trot around in them for their shopping and walks in the Bois.

Some of the most delightful looking women here are wearing Schiaparelli's yellow and gray striped frocks with her kneelength unclipped brown otter coats for such occasions. Others wear Molyneux's simple gray and white striped jacket ensemble, shown today under their coats of gray or black fur. Stripes, this winter, do not at all run to the wide convict variety. They are narrow and unpretentious bands of alternating color, something like those that make the trousers of the well dressed man's afternoon suit.

Molyneux's suit is, in fact, made of a man's wear woolen, in gray and white, and is very smooth and closely woven. Molyneux makes the jacket with the stripes running horizontal except on the pockets. The dress has its stripes worked in chevrons from a center front and back seam. The hem of the skirt is made of the material with the stripes worked vertically.

A tie of soft silk, in a beautiful shade of tomato red gives the jacket a flash of charming color that is so fashionable, and the suede belt on the frock is also in the same shade.

Mother Refuses to Take Place in Background

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mothers, mothers, how can you so completely forget your own girlhood days when you yearned for a little freedom, a little initiative of your own? When the last thing you wanted was your mother sitting in at every meeting between you and your suitor!

Have a heart, you older women! It's a tricky enough business getting young men of today into a matrimonial frame of mind. And your constant presence at the scene adds the menace of an ogre-ish mother-in-law to the general confusion.

When a girl reaches the age of 24, surely she can be trusted to conduct herself with perfect decorum. Surely, she's able to handle her young man. Mother is not needed. No matter what a good fellow she may appoint herself to be, there are occasions when a parent ought to let her daughter perform alone. Here, indeed, is where she might prove her goodfellowship by absenting herself.

It's curious with all the talk of the modern youth's secession from parental rule how certain mothers still manage to hold the whip hand over mature girls.

Take the case of "Mae," as it is offered today. The girl is 24: supports her mother. Has brains enough to earn the salary. Has initiative on her job. Enjoys the trust of a high-powered executive. But Mom feels her "little girl" ought never be away from her watchful eye.

She even manages to wangle herself into the theater engagement. Can't be lost on movie-tending evenings. Sits in on calling nights and orders bridge. Must be presiding hostess when "Mae's" girl friends come over for an evening's chatter. Well, the last suitor is showing signs of going the way of his predecessors. Too much Mamma for him, as for the others.

Fade out, Mamma! Give that girl of yours a chance! Face the fact that while you may have a place in the girl's life, it is not at her side every minute.

Liberty has the honor to announce that today it presents President-Elect Roosevelt's personal interpretation of the election. . . .

THE ELECTION

We are about to enter upon a new period of liberalism and of sane reform in the United States, and we shall require unity of purpose, if not of opinion, if we are to achieve permanent and practical results. The United States has become a great nation, and its economic life functions along national lines, where our political life still clings too much to the political machinery of the past. As President of the United States I shall do my utmost, in coöperation with the people and with their chosen representatives, to restore the balance of our economic interests and to simplify and vitalize our political institutions, so that as changes come they may be effected without injury to the proper rights of any individual and without conflict with the spirit of American institutions. With your help, I can do it.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Two goals in the third period gave the Ottawa Senators a 3 to 1 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks in a National Hockey league game tonight. The contest concluded the Hawks' road trip, on which they have had one tie and three defeats.

Frank Finnigan, playing with a broken rib protected by a heavy pad, ended a 1 to 1 deadlock with a solo effort with less than three minutes to play. A minute later Wally Kilrea added Ottawa's third goal.

Lois Couture, on an assist from Paul Thompson, put the Hawks in the lead in the first two minutes of the game. Cooney Weiland netted the equalizer half way through the second period.

It was wide open, speedy hockey. The Hawks were in difficulties in both the first and second periods through penalties, but all goals were scored with 12 men on the ice.

Gardiner Punts Out of Danger.

Thompson had the first shot of the game, letting go a long one from the blue line that Connell handled easily. A minute later Couture took a pass from Thompson and squirmed through the defense for the first goal.

Gardiner was knocked out within the first five minutes when Forslund crashed into him. His head struck the ice, but he was able to continue after minor repairs.

Graham was sent to the penalty box and Ottawa poured in two and three man rushes. Gardiner stopped the rain of rubber, knocking and kicking the puck out from all angles. Graham returned before any damage was done.

Ottawa had another opportunity to get the equalizer before the period closed. Abel tripped Heo Kilrea and while he was serving time Ottawa sent five men down the ice but without success. The blade of Gardiner's skate was broken by one of the shots. When Abel returned, the Hawks took the offensive. Cornell sprawled to rob Thompson of a goal and a minute later did the same thing to Ripley.

Hawks Wait for Breaks.

When the second period opened the Hawks laid back to wait for the breaks. Ottawa kept boring in and got the break when Graham went to the penalty bench for tripping. The Senators swarmed in on Gardiner, but he stopped pucks from every angle until Graham returned.

Welland scored the tying goal half way through the period. Taking a loose puck at his own defense, Weiland dodged through center ice, squirmed under Abel's outstretched arms, and beat Gardiner with an ankle high shot.

Bourgeault drew the first Senator penalty for using his stick like an ax. The Hawks sent five men up the ice, peppering Connell from all angles. It was wild hockey for two minutes, but no goals developed. Smith and Shields stood out on defense.

Graham Penalized Again.

Graham again went to the penalty box for tripping and play returned to the Hawks' end of the rink. The Senators gave Gardiner a taste of the same medicine Connell had swallowed a few minutes before, but could not score.

The teams were at full strength starting the third period and the fast pace continued. Forslund had an open net before him, but failed to get the puck past Gardiner. A minute later Ripley missed an easy one and Abel dubbed the rebound.

McFadyen and Holmes split the Senator defense, but the latter struck Connell's arm. McFadyen tried to net the rebound, but again Connell got his arm in the way.

Finnigan put Ottawa in the lead with a solo effort that brought the crowd to its feet. He grabbed the puck at his own defense, dodged through the Hawk wing line, faked a pass to Milks on the wing, and had Gardiner at his mercy.

A minute later Wally Kilrea clinched the game for Ottawa, taking a pass from Welland in front of the goal mouth and putting the puck past Gardiner.

HOCKEY CLUB TO QUIT COLISEUM FOR WEST SIDE

M'Laughlin Keeps Hockey Territorial Rights.

The Chicago Blackhawks will play the remaining games of their home schedule at the Chicago Stadium under terms of a two year agreement effected yesterday. The first game under the new lease will be played Sunday night, when the New York Rangers appear at the west side arena.

As a result of the signing of a compromise agreement by Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the hockey team, and Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Stadium, the Stadium will ask for dismissal of its $150,000 suit for breach of contract filed in Superior court on Nov. 15. Terms of the agreement were not divulged.

The compromise yesterday, effected after three weeks of secret negotiations by McLaughlin and Strotz, did not include surrender of territorial rights by McLaughlin, Strotz said. In earlier attempts to reach a settlement the Stadium sought permission to place a second National league team in Chicago.

Have Different Views.

The old lease, which the Stadium contended McLaughlin had broken when he moved the Hawks to the Coliseum for their first three home games this winter, called for a rental of $4,500. McLaughlin had maintained that he was denied dates to which he was entitled.

The Stadium then offered to draw a new lease on a percentage basis, provided McLaughlin sold his territorial rights to the Stadium corporation for $100,000. McLaughlin refused.

Return of the Blackhawks will enable the Stadium to continue operations throughout the winter, and also is expected to increase attendance at the Hawks' games. The switch, it was said at the Blackhawk offices, will not entail litigation with the Coliseum. The Wabash avenue rink had been rented on a night to night basis.

21 Games at Stadium.

The Hawks have 21 more games to play in Chicago this season. The Stanley cup playoffs also will be played at the Stadium in the event the Hawks qualify for the championship play.

Four games will be played at the Stadium next week. After the Ranger game on Sunday night the Ottawa Senators will be met on the west side Tuesday night; the Detroit Red Wings, with most of the stars of last year's Chicago Shamrock team, on Thursday, and the Montreal Maroons a week from Sunday.

Tickets for Sunday's game will be placed on sale at the Hub and at the Blackhawk offices, William Tobin, business manager of the hockey team, announced last night.

Reduce Ticket Prices.

Tobin also announced a general reduction of prices. Box seats, which were $3 at the Stadium last year and at the Coliseum, have been reduced to $2.50, plus 25 cents government tax. The first six rows in the mezzanine will be $2, including tax, a 50 per cent reduction from last year's price. The balance of the mezzanine will be $1.50, plus 15 cents federal tax. The first balcony will be $1.10, including tax, and the top balcony 55 cents, including tax.

Holders of season tickets for the Coliseum must exchange their tickets for the Stadium games.

LASKY KNOCKS OUT SEKYRA, 7; EVERETT WINS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Art Lasky, young Minneapolis heavyweight, knocked out Joe Sekyra of Dayton, O., 55 seconds after the opening of the seventh round in a fight scheduled for ten rounds here tonight. Lasky had piled up points with a vicious in-fighting attack and spiked Sekyra's best weapon, a stiff left. Lasky weighed 190 and Sekyra 178.

Buck Everett of Gary, Ind., 134, won a decision over Dick Daniels of Minneapolis, 135, in eight rounds. Frank Knaber, of Milwaukee, 150, won a decision over Harry Greb of Minneapolis, 152, in six rounds.

Oen, Lightest Big 10 Center, Most Valuable at Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—"One of the smartest boys I have ever coached and one of the smartest in the Big Ten conference."

That is Coach Bernie Bierman's tribute to Roy Oen, lightweight center whom the University of Minnesota football squad picked as the most valuable Gopher player for 1932. Oen also has been named captain of next year's eleven.

Oen will receive a white gold watch fob and becomes a candidate for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S ninth annual silver football trophy, which will be awarded the athlete who is adjudged the most valuable in the Western conference.

Weighing only 154 pounds, the lightest man at his position in the Big Ten, Oen was outstanding in each Gopher game. As a roving center of a six man line, Oen was uncanny in sizing up players and pass defense, and on offensive he was not charged with one bad pass.

Oen Out; Gophers Lose.

The defeat at Wisconsin came after Oen had been injured and removed from the game. Two inaccurate passes from center by his inexperienced successor paved the way for the Gophers' defeat, according to Minnesota coaches.

Oen came to Minnesota with a record as an all around high school athlete. Soft voiced to the point of extreme modesty, Oen was good enough and popular enough to be named captain of his high school teams in both football and basketball at Thief River Falls, Minn.

Center and Half Back.

Oen played three years at center in high school. The last year found him playing as a blocking half back, and he came to Minnesota as that. However, he was singled out as a center instead, and there he has remained for the last two years. He was a forward in basketball in high school, but has concentrated on football at the University of Minnesota.

Oen is a junior in the department of physical education. He intends to become a coach when he finishes school. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and is 23 years of age.

TRACY COX DROPS DUBLINSKY TWICE TO WIN DECISION

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, gave Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, a lacing in a ten round boxing contest here tonight. Cox dropped Dublinsky for the count of nine in the first round with a right to the chin and again in the tenth for no count.

A long argument preceded the start of the Cox-Dublinsky bout, the Chicago boxer demanding that the local pugilist remove part of the tape around his bandages. After that was done Dublinsky's manager protested against the referee, Jimmy Cooley, appointed by the state athletic commission, and ordered Dublinsky out of the ring. W. Elaine Patton, local sports writer, then was appointed to referee the bout.

NORTH CENTRAL VOTES ELEVENS MAY MEET TWICE

The athletic committee of the North Central conference, in the first session of its annual winter meeting at the Morrison hotel yesterday, voted to permit members to play each other twice a season in football.

The conference includes five members, North Dakota university, North Dakota State college, South Dakota university, South Dakota State college, and Morningside of Sioux City, Ia.

The football championship formally was awarded North Dakota State college, and the 1932 track and field title to South Dakota State.

Dr. O. O. Churchill of North Dakota State was elected president, Robert Van Horn of Morningside was named vice president, and H. C. Severin of South Dakota State was reelected secretary-treasurer.

WHY NOT PERMIT REDS, RED SOX TO USE 15 MEN?

Parity in Baseball Is Just an Idea.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Various suggestions are being received which have the object of equalizing the competition between the good clubs and the inferior teams in the major leagues of baseball. The Reds in the National league and the Red Sox in the American plainly cannot hope to compete with the first division teams for the very simple reason that they cannot play ball that well.

There is no magic formula by which they can be made to play ball any better nor is there any method, consistent with baseball morality, by which the superior clubs can be forced to take it easy, or bend a little, as the process of taking it easy is described in the prizefight business. The prizefighters are much more thoughtful of their customers and of the welfare of their profession than the ball players.

It is not at all uncommon for a pugilist to bend a little when boxing a business associate of inferior class. This creates an illusion of competition which enhances the customers' enjoyment of the act, giving them a better dollar's worth for their money, and has been known to result in one or more return matches in response to great popular demand, with spiritual profit to the patrons and financial benefit to the parties involved, a desireable effect all around.

Judge Would Just Laugh.

But it would be contrary to the ethics of baseball to lean a little and Judge K. M. Landis undoubtedly would rule out any one cynical enough to introduce such a proposal, unless of course the sponsor of the idea happened to be a magnate. In that case the judge could only reason with the erring brother and gently discard the idea as the magnates are his employers and an employé cannot fire the boss.

There is a current dispatch from London which tells of the discovery of a marvelous drug which makes guinea pigs fight like panthers and brings the look of eagles into the eyes of canaries. This might offer some hope for the weakling ball clubs, but for the fact that they are proportionately feeble in the box office. Thus for every pint of the marvelous London discovery bought by the proprietors of the Reds and the Red Sox, the William Wrigley estate, Inc., operators of the Cubs, and Col. Jake Ruppert, proprietor of the Yankees, could buy a keg.

While the Reds and the Red Sox were taking theirs with a medicine dropper, the Cubs and Yankees would be pouring it on their oatmeal and dipping their bread in the medicine that already has emboldened a London sheep to challenge a pack of wolves. So the marvelous London discovery is out, too.

Handicaps Are Out.

The artificial handicap is repugnant to genuine competition and, although it is recognized in many branches of sport, including all forms of racing, polo, prize fighting and golf, the fact remains in the end that one competitor was arbitrarily and falsely presumed to be so many yards, minutes, goals, pounds or strokes better than his actual merit. It is a form of make-believe and the baseball industry has always insisted that all clubs in a given league are necessarily of the same general class.

There would be merit in this idea if it were true but the contrast between the pennant winners and the trailers in the major leagues is now such that the pretense of parity becomes a make-believe itself and, moreover, a make-believe of a depressing kind. The kind of self-kidding involved in the handicap system is naturally optimistic in that it does not tend to make the superior player look less good than he is, but endeavors to make the second-rater look better.

The natural way of extending the handicap system to the baseball business would be to spot the Reds and

COLLEGE FINANCES.

COLLEGE athletic departments are being forced to retrench in expenditures. The reason is because football receipts are below normal. Naturally the sports affected are those which did not pay for themselves but had leaned on gridiron earnings. So far as they are concerned the situation is serious. Curtailment or elimination is in order.

There is nothing surprising about this development. It simply proves what the pro-football exponents have pointed out right along, i. e., that football earnings, large as they were in many instances, were not a menace to intercollegiate sport but a benefit by passing around the bounty to other pastimes less popular with the public or less appealing to its pocketbook.

This argument became so familiar it was akin to that of our needing race tracks to improve the breed of thoroughbreds for cavalry remounts, or the need of stock exchanges to maintain open markets for securities—arguments which in our hearts we knew were euphemisms to excuse the gambling of race tracks and stock exchanges.

Now comes football to prove itself. Other sports are really suffering because the depression has lowered football earnings. It may turn out a not unmixed blessing. Perhaps we shall hear less about the overemphasis of football and its so-called "commercialism." Certainly there has been less talk this fall—by the bunch addicted to that sort of stuff—of the necessity for "deflating football." Hard times have done the deflating and many persons who were leaning a bit toward deflation previously don't like it a bit.

A chap, seated in the rear of the grandstand which faced on 39th street good naturedly was giving a play by play description to hundreds of fans in the street below. These fans had been unable to gain admission to the grounds because all available space was filled.

This accommodation was appreciated and some one suggested the chap be rewarded with a few bottles of beer. A collection was taken and the beer purchased at a nearby saloon. The next problem was how to get it to him. He lowered a string and it was tied around the neck of one bottle at a time and the bottles then hoisted to the amused cheers of the crowd. The benefactor, now benefactee, continued his description until the end of the game. H. S. H.

DENSMORE SHUTE.

Shute survived hard going today to advance to first place. He fought a nip and tuck battle over the last 36 holes with John Revolta, 21 year old Menominee, Mich., dark horse, and Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., veteran of many golfing campaigns, before he finally scored his 291 to the 292 of Revolta and the 293 of Dudley.

Runyan Takes Fourth.

Paul Runyan of West Chester, N. Y., holding up the judges' final decision as to third place until darkness fell over the difficult Miami-Biltmore golf course, was in fourth place with a 294, while Gene Sarazen, unable to score his second Miami-Biltmore victory in succession, and Al Espinosa, of Akron, O., were in fifth place with 296 each.

Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn.; Al Watrous, Detroit, and Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, did their bit to divide the world's richest purse in 1932 golf as they scored 298s. IT'S ALL UP TO BIG TEN FACULTY COMMITTEE NOW

Sentiment Swings to Consent.

The University of Michigan's participation in the annual Tournament of Roses football game at Pasadena, Cal., on Jan. 2 was entirely up to the faculty committee of the Western conference as a result of developments yesterday.

Any question whether Michigan would receive an invitation was removed when Southern California officials let it be known that the Wolverines were the Trojans' first choice as an opponent. Southern California was selected officially as the west's representative by the Tournament of Roses committee last night.

Trojans Name Michigan.

After the committee's meeting the Trojan leaders said they would await the decision of the Big Ten faculty committee at its meeting here on Saturday, before extending an invitation to any other university. If the faculty representatives refuse to waive or amend the conference rule which prohibits post-season games, then Colgate or Pittsburgh probably would get the invitation, with Alabama Poly fourth choice.

At the same time Western conference alumni on the coast and the group of newspaper men who act in an unofficial capacity in arranging the Rose bowl game intimated none too gently that if the Big Ten decides against Michigan's going west this year there will be no cause for worrying about the problem in the future, because there won't be any future for conference teams at Pasadena. They want a quick decision and a favorable one in the Michigan case, as it is becoming increasingly embarrassing each year for the west coast groups to stall off other eastern teams while dickering with the Big Ten champions.

They fear that some year the second and third choices might develop a sensitiveness which has not been manifested heretofore and refuse an invitation which was extended only after it had been spurned by a conference eleven, thereby leaving the coast in the anomalous position of having on its hands a classic contest with only one contestant.

No Poll Taken.

Sentiment among conference athletic leaders was swinging toward sanction of Michigan's trip to the coast, but the attitude of the faculty representatives, who have the final say in the matter, was pretty much of a secret.

Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at Michigan, said he understood Prof. Thomas French of Ohio State, chairman of the faculty committee, was taking a poll to learn the committee's sentiment toward waiving the conference rule. He was explicit in stating, however, that the poll was not instituted by Michigan authorities but by some one outside of the conference official family.

Prof. French disclaimed any connection with a poll or any authority to take such action. The only thing he confessed to knowing was that the representatives of Big Ten alumni organizations on the coast had written to their respective faculty committee members suggesting that they notify French of the stand they would take when and if the question was opened at the Big Ten meeting here.

No One Votes.

This was regarded by Prof. French as an excellent method of ascertaining the sentiment of the Big Ten with only one flaw: The other faculty representatives neglected to inform him of their personal opinions. His opinion on the question, he said, has not been formed.

"I don't know how I will vote if the question comes up, as I suppose it will," he said. "I haven't thought much about it. I don't know how the other members of the committee will vote, of course. I only know that they were not in favor of letting Northwestern make the trip to the coast last year when it had an opportunity to go."

One thing which may militate against a favorable vote upon Michigan's participation is, perhaps paradoxically and perhaps not, the activity of Big Ten alumni in trying to persuade the professors to sanction the trip. Faculty men, it is understood, regard the pressure that has been exerted upon them as an interference with their freedom of thought and action, and their resentment may be reflected in their votes.

Michigan Is Willing.

Michigan authorities are all in favor of the trip, although they have indicated that they will not open the subject at Saturday's meeting but will wait for some other school to initiate the movement.

"I see no reason why the team should not go to the coast," Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university, said.

Mr. Yost has expressed his desire to have the team go, but said last night that he doubted if the Wolverines could muster enough votes among the faculty representatives to obtain permission. Michigan last year was one of those who opposed permission for Northwestern.

Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, maintained a noncommittal attitude toward the subject. He said he knew nothing of any poll among the faculty men but admitted that most of the athletic officials with whom he had talked were in favor of letting Michigan play on the coast.

Kincsen's score netted a $14,200 purse as well as a leg on a gigantic silver cup which must be won three times or twice consecutively, Trainer George Brook received a piece of silver plate.

Those in the crowd, which was the third largest of the meeting, who backed Kincsen received $35.20 straight, $14.20 second, and $8.00 third.

Pairbypair Is Victor.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's Pairbypair carried 121 pounds and won the fourth race, the Finale handicap, by a length. Mrs. J. Grossman's Merrily On was second by a head over Gold Step. Halcyon was fourth. Novelist set a fast pace to the stretch, when Pairbypair went to the front and ran six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. The winner paid $12.90.

The B. B. stable's Character won the third race in a close finish among three horses, going to the front at the sixteenth and getting a neck margin over Knight's Gal, with Marooned third, a head away.

RIP VAN WINKLE SETS RECORD.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Rip Van Winkle sprinted to a new track record of 1:11 3-5 here today to win the Pontchartrain handicap over six furlongs at Jefferson Park. The purse was $700.

The winner was trailing for a half mile, but pulled ahead in the stretch with a burst of speed which left Maloio behind. Pansy Walker finished third.

On $2 mutuel tickets Rip Van Winkle paid $27 to win, $10.60 to place, and $3.60 to show.

Why Not Let Reds, Red Sox Use 15 Men?

Red Sox a certain number of theoretical victories at the start of the season and award other imaginary victories to the other teams in diminishing ratio toward the top.

Home Run or Nothing.

However, this would cancel a large number of ball games right out of the schedule and no practical baseball magnate would wish to cancel any business dates even for theoretical victories as they may count upon some gate receipts even for games which their employés lose. They might object less to a handicap system which would spot the weaker teams a certain number of runs against certain rival firms or permit the weak clubs four outs per inning in certain innings. Or Babe Ruth could be handicapped on a basis of home run-or-nothing.

But the baseball industry likes to think of baseball as the national game and the game as a parallel of American life, offering equal opportunity to all. At that, they could be further wrong because the inequalities of opportunity in baseball are just about as sad as they are in other walks of American life at a time when luck is almost the sole factor in happiness or success.

Many great ball players of the most deserving character have never enjoyed the spiritual or material earnings of success merely because the accidents of club ownership bound them to hopeless failures. Similarly, there is many a sport writer who could have done this piece better than I have, but I happen to have the job.

M'MILLEN PINS KAMPFER TO END LONG STRUGGLE

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois athlete, defeated Hans Kampfer of Germany in the windup of the wrestling show at the Rainbo Fronton last night. McMillen gained a fall with a toe hold in one hour and 21 minutes. A crowd of 3,000 attended.

In the preliminaries Jim Clinkstock threw Lou Plummer in 17 minutes and 35 seconds; Stanley Lurik pinned Joe Ragachi in 12 minutes and 30 seconds, and Jack Smith won from Jack Shearon in 15 minutes and 20 seconds.

Neenan Gets Decision Over Chinski in Five Rounds

Danny Neenan, former member of the 1932 Chicago Golden Gloves team, won a decision over Eddie Chinski in the five round windup of the professional boxing show at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, last night. Other results:

Southland Has No Charms for This Kingfisher

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the jacksnipe, the awkward bitterns, and the long legged herons have left the swamps close to Chicago, the other day we found one lonesome, thoroughly chilled bird which had refused to leave a small stretch of open water and go south to warm days and easier hunting for food.

This bird was a kingfisher. He was perched on a branch of a dead tree overlooking a part of Nippersink creek, northwest of Chicago. We had to look twice to believe that this lone fisherman, appearing to be very uncomfortable as he sat in the chilly northwest wind, was really a kingfisher.

However, the kingfisher, one of the first birds to come into Chicagoland in the spring, has been known to stick it out in the north as long as he has open water for his fishing expeditions. He is likely to winter anywhere from the northern limit of freezing over of streams south to the West Indies and northern South America. When we saw this bird he was keeping a close watch on the open stream below him, waiting for the flash of a few minnows in the shallow creek, which at this particular point was flowing so rapidly that it had not frozen. All around the stream in the marsh we could see small pools of water frozen solid. On one of these two crows were walking as if they enjoyed the sensation of stepping on smooth ice.

The only company, besides the crows, for this hardy kingfisher as he maintained his vigil along the stream was a meadow lark which he saw some distance up the creek, and a few happy go lucky chicadees. Meadow larks also are late to check out of Chicagoland in the fall and a few may stay here all winter. Although we walked several miles through a part of a marsh along the Nippersink we saw just one lark. It soared high in the air and then alternately sailed and flew over a wheat field into a grassy meadow close to the stream.

We didn't have time to follow it and check on its choice of a refuge on this chilly morning because the hen and cock pheasants began to roar out of the weeds ahead of us to show us that by no means all of the ringnecks were killed during the open season. In less than 100 yards five hens and one cock flushed ahead of the springer spaniel which was quartering the cover to send out rabbits. On our way home we looked for the kingfisher on his perch. But he had gone, probably to another part of the creek which offered an occasional chance for a small fish.

MORTON DOWNEY GIVES "INSIDE TIP" ON NEW DODGE "6"

MORTON DOWNEY

New York, N. Y.—Morton Downey, star singer of the Columbia Broadcasting System, whose dulcet tenor songs hold millions of radio listeners enthralled, was given an advance showing here today of the new Dodge Six.

"I have an inside tip for America!" he exclaimed. "Wait for the new Dodge. Talk about a car! Wait till you see this one. It's as modern as television. With such looks, such performance, and such features, it will certainly occupy the spotlight next year."

The Dodge organization withholds official announcement of a new car, but it is reliably reported that there will be shortly presented to the public a Dodge Six whose quality and low price set a revolutionary standard for value in the field of motor cars.

Don Miller to Resign as Ohio Coach

Columbus, O., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Don Miller, back field coach at Ohio State university, will submit his resignation to university authorities tomorrow, he revealed today.

Miller, a member of the Four Horsemen back field at Notre Dame in 1924, has been attached to the Buckeye staff since 1929, coming from Georgia Tech, where he was an assistant coach. He has no immediate plans, but "is open to any acceptable coaching offer" that will allow him to remain near Cleveland, where he has a law office.

The Ohio State athletic board has no plans regarding a successor inasmuch as Miller's resignation had not reached them. One member of the board suggested that Wesley Fesler, end coach this year, might be assigned to the back field position.

Miller refused to comment on his resignation. It has been said, however, that he has been sought as head coach by John Carroll university in Cleveland.

Skate Officials to Hear Protest on Team Sunday

Chicago officials of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States will meet at the Midwest Athletic club Sunday to hear protests of O'Neill Farrell and Eddie Murphy, who assert they should have been named on the All-American team which will meet Norwegian skaters next January at Oslo, Norway. Both had been chosen as alternates for the original four men squad.

Farrell and Murphy were members of the 1928 and 1932 Olympic skating teams. They contend that their experience and ability should qualify them for the trip to Oslo.

"Farrell and Murphy started skating as kids with our association in Chicago and I will give them every consideration," said Frank Kalteux, president of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States.

C. Y. O. FINALISTS HAVE THEIR EYES ON PANAMA TRIP

32 Boxers Train for Bouts at Stadium Friday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirty-two amateur boxers, four semi-finalists in each of the eight weight divisions, continued preparations yesterday for the Catholic Youth Organization championship bouts which will be decided Friday night at the Chicago Stadium. Last year, at the first of the C. Y. O. tournaments, 16,000 saw the final matches. A capacity crowd of 22,000 is anticipated Friday night.

The boxers will be guests of Bishop B. J. Snell at an informal dinner tonight at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

While the 32 boys are seeking the individual titles which will determine the makeup of the team which will visit Panama to meet the champions of the Panama Canal Zone fleet, there is more than individual strife in Friday night's bouts. Four sections, each presenting a team of eight, also will be fighting for the division championship. Captains of the four sections were chosen yesterday.

Ketter Named Captain.

Oscar O'Hanion, C. Y. O. flyweight champion last year, will lead the North section team. O'Hanion lives in Waukegan and his south paw attack has long made him one of the leaders of the 112 pound amateur class.

Frank Ketter, whose progress to the heavyweight semi-finals has been marked by a series of knockouts, has been chosen captain of the west side boxers. Leo Rodak, who needs no introduction to Chicago boxing fans, will lead the south division team. Rodak now is fighting in the 126 pound division. Two years ago he won the Golden Gloves flyweight title, defeated his New York opponent and then whipped the champion of France in the first international Golden Gloves fights at Soldiers' field.

Last year Rodak won the 118 pound Golden Gloves title after he had been beaten in the C. Y. O. tournament. Now he is determined to win a C. Y. O. championship, but one of his opponents will be Joe Roman, captain of the Joliet team. Roman won the Golden Gloves featherweight crown in 1931 after three years in the tournament. With Rodak now fighting in his division and providing the draw brings them together, this battle promises to be one of the high lights of the meet.

McFarland to Referee.

Paddy Kane is in charge of the workouts at the Catholic Youth center where the boys of the north, west, and south side teams are drilling. He is assisted by George Haberski, another amateur boxing star from Waukegan, who, however, was defeated in the quarter finals this year by Jimmy Christy.

Packy McFarland of Joliet, head coach of the C. Y. O., and Marty Gleason, also of Joliet, are training the Joliet team. Gleason started amateur boxing in Joliet several years ago when he instituted the Illinois Steel tournament. Packy McFarland will referee all of Friday night's bouts. Packy also has officiated in all the preliminaries, establishing a record in the number of consecutive bouts handled.

There will be 16 semi-final matches Friday, followed by the eight championship fights. All bouts will be composed of three two minute rounds.

Parade Precedes Bouts.

A colorful program has been arranged to precede the bouts. The 32 boxers will march to the stadium ring to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner and then they will take the oath of allegience to the flag and repeat their Catholic Youth pledge of sportsmanship.

Boston College Refuses Stars Permission to Play

Newton, Mass., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Boston college authorities tonight denied Capt. Phil Couhig, a tackle, and Pete Chesnulevich, a half back, permission to accept invitations to play in the North-South charity football game at Baltimore Dec. 10. Both men are seniors and would have missed four days of class work if they made the trip.

Bears Drill on Passes to Meet Giant Air Game

The highly regarded passing attack of the New York Giants, who meet the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday, has led Coach Ralph Jones to devote the majority of the Bears' practice to aerial defense this week. Considerable time has been spent on the Bears' pass attack, also.

The Giants present the last hurdle in the path to a championship game for the Bears, and Doehring's passing may prove the margin of superiority.

The Giants lead the league in forward passing, having completed 76 out of 161 attempts. Red Flaherty, end, has received 19 of these for four touchdowns and a total gain of 305 yards.

Jack McBride is the chief passer, having completed 22 out of 43 attempts for a total gain of 275, mostly to Flaherty.

The Bears are second in aerial statistics, having completed 55 out of 138 attempts. Green Bay is third with 43 out of 139.

It will be Ladies' day and the women are instructed to write to the Ladies Day Ticket Office, Chicago Bears Football club, Wrigley Field, Chicago, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

Giants Release Mitchell, Hoyt as Free Agents

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Clarence Mitchell, last of the southpaw spitball pitchers, and Waite Hoyt, the boy wonder of 15 years ago, today were cast adrift by the New York Giants as a part of Manager Bill Terry's rebuilding program.

Given their unconditional release under the 10 year rule, the two veteran moundsmen will be free to negotiate with any club for their services.

Mitchell has pitched for six major league clubs since joining the Detroit Tigers in 1911. He spent this year coaching Giant pitchers.

Hoyt's major league career during the last two years had been one of ups and downs. Following ten years of brilliant pitching for the New York Yankees, during which he won six and lost three world series games, Hoyt was traded to the Tigers in May, 1930. A year later he was released to the Athletics on waivers in time to appear in his seventh world series.

After being given his unconditional release by the Athletics, Hoyt signed a contract with Brooklyn last spring and made unusual efforts to get back into condition. He reduced 30 pounds by dieting, but failed to recover his former effectiveness on the mound.

N. U. TO CURTAIL SCHEDULES 50% IN MINOR SPORTS

No Cut in Personnel Is Planned.

Reductions of 30 to 50 per cent in the schedules of all sports except football and basketball were ordered by the faculty athletic committee of Northwestern university last night in an effort to balance the athletic budget for the year.

In track, swimming, golf, wrestling, and tennis only a few dual meets will be scheduled against schools in the immediate vicinity. Teams will compete in all the conference championship meets.

Baseball will suffer the biggest schedule curtailment. Instead of playing the usual twelve conference games the committee announced the schedule would be trimmed in half.

Coaches Make Reports.

Intramural sports escaped trimming. This department is expected to be increased due to the curtailment of intercollegiate activity in other sports.

The head coaches of all eight varsity sports were interviewed by the committee, each coach submitting a report on proposed retrenchments. K. L. Wilson, athletic director, announced after the meeting that the committee was confident no reduction in the personnel of the athletic staff would be made this year.

Receipts Off $75,000.

Retrenchment was necessitated by a shrinking of over $75,000 in the football receipts for the 1932 season. The revenue from football is the sole support of all sports except basketball, which is self-sustaining.

Members of the committee who participated in the budget hearing were Profs. O. F. Long, F. J. Moulton, A. L. Kendall, F. B. Snyder, W. Smith, and W. Farquarson.

Avory and Oliff Defeat Brazilians in Net Matches

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The visiting British tennis stars, E. R. Avory and J. S. Oliff, defeated a pair of Brazilian rivals today in the international tennis tournament. Avory beat Amoraes in two love sets, while Oliff conquered Willemens, 6-2, 6-4.

Trojan Plays Leave Irish Slightly Dazed

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's football invalids reported with all hands present today for the first practice since the trip to the east for their health.

Today, Coach Hunk Anderson was out on the field confusing his players with Southern California's whirlwind huddle, single and double shift, and famous ten formations.

The third and fourth frosh teams went through the Trojan plays after a fashion today after working only ten days on what Coach Howard Jones has been drilling into his players for weeks. The frosh, however, were expert enough to befuddle the Notre Dame line and back field alike in dummy scrimmage.

There will be live scrimmage late in the week, by which time it is hoped the first and second frosh teams will have learned the U. S. C. offense formations and that the varsity will have mastered its defensive assignments.

The team will see pictures of last year's Southern California-Tulane game in slow motion tomorrow.

KETCHELL WHIPS ACE HUDKINS IN TEN ROUND BOUT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Wesley Ketchell, the Portland, Ore., southpaw mauler, hammered out a decisive ten round decision over Ace Hudkins of Nebraska in a light heavyweight bout tonight.

Although floored by a terrific left to the body for a nine count in the tenth, Hudkins was able to weather the storm and saved himself from what appeared for a moment to be the first battle he was ever to lose by a knockout.

Hudkins' trainers said he suffered two fractured ribs in one of the early rounds.

Rotary Club Honors Stagg at Luncheon

Tribute as "a representative of the essential genius of American life" was made yesterday to Coach A. A. Stagg by the Rotary club of Chicago in the first civic observance to be held in connection with his impending retirement as athletic director at the University of Chicago. Five hundred members of the club, a score of older "C" men and several Big Ten officials vigorously applauded the veteran Maroon coach at a luncheon at the Hotel Sherman which marked the club's "Amos Alonzo Stagg day."

"I read in the newspapers that I was on my last trail," Stagg told the assemblage after he had been introduced by Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, who served as chairman. "I want to tell you about the beginning of that trail.

"Back in October of 1890 I had a letter from Prof. William Rainey Harper of Yale, asking to see me in New York. We met at breakfast in the old Murray Hill hotel. 'I want you to come out west and help me build the University of Chicago,' he said. He offered me an instructorship at $1,500 a year. I pondered a moment, but Harper couldn't brook silences. He offered an assistant professorship at $2,000 a year. I said very little. He offered an associate professorship at $2,500 a year. Then my tongue found itself and I agreed to think it over.

"On Oct. 25 of that year I sent him a letter which began, 'After much thought and prayer I feel decided that my life can best be used in my Master's service by accepting the position you have offered.'

"That was the beginning. Now I'm at the end, so far as being professor of physical education and director of athletics at the university is concerned. But I'm far from being at the end as far as active service for my Master is concerned. I feel that I have a good many years left."

On behalf of the Rotary club Maj. Griffith presented Stagg with a handsome electric "banjo" clock—banjo in shape only, however, for it contains Westminster chimes—inscribed with the words: "To Amos Alonzo Stagg, a great leader of youth and exemplar of character, from the Rotary Club of Chicago, Nov. 29, 1932."

Lieut. Col. Henry E. Breckinridge, president of the National Amateur Athletic federation, former assistant secretary of war and captain of the American Olympic fencing team in 1928, who came from New York for the luncheon, gave the principal talk, on "The Way Stagg Looks to an Outsider."

TULSA TEAM MAY REJOIN AMERICAN HOCKEY LEAGUE

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Plans for including Minneapolis in the American Hockey association were abandoned tonight after a meeting of league officials, but there remained a possibility that Tulsa would return to the fold and that a Minneapolis team would be in the running next year.

President William F. Grant of Kansas City announced that negotiations were under way with the railroads, which, if successful, would provide special week-end excursion rates and make it possible for Tulsa to enter the league without traveling costs becoming prohibitive.

Attempts to procure the Minneapolis Arena as a homesite for a Minneapolis club met with failure today.

New rules adopted at the meeting provide that the puck may be kicked in any of the three playing zones at any time, although it must not be kicked into the goal.

It was also decided that no points would be allowed for tie games.

Kieckhefer and Thurnblad to Start Cue Series Today

U. of Detroit Squad of 26 Off for South Tomorrow

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Twenty-six members of the University of Detroit football squad will leave Thursday for New Orleans to play Loyola Saturday.

New Pro Golf Group Won't Oppose P. G. A.

Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Robert E. Harlow, manager of the newly organized Tournament Golfers' association, which plans to promote open meets in the United States, said the new group will not operate in opposition to the Professional Golfers' association.

"There is no such idea in the minds of any of the members. Many of them are members of the P. G. A. and intend to maintain their cordial relations with that body," Harlow said.

Among the members of the new association are Billy Burke, Wiffy Cox, Tom Creavy, Al Espinosa, Eddie Dudley, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Johnny Golden, Denny Shute, Paul Runyan, Walter Hagen, and Joe Kirkwood.

GATES O. K.'S PLAN

If the newly organized tournament bureau can promote a few more money shows, it's all right with Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers' association.

"Naturally, we believe it is better to have all golf tournaments, involving professionals, under one jurisdiction to eliminate confusion," Gates said. "That's why we have the P. G. A. tournament bureau.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—The slow decline of the last two weeks was checked today as better support came into the bond market. High grade issues were steady to firm on the broad front, and speculative rail and industrial liens gave a fair account of themselves with the aid of mild rallies.

Foreigns also explored the upside. United States government bonds were firm as fresh buying orders came into the market from those seeking high grade investments. The news of the day of interest to government security holders was the establishment of a new low record rate on the latest issue of ninety-one day bills. The rate of .13 per cent is the lowest recorded on any kind of United States treasury security.

Rail Issues Rally.

Speculative rail bonds moved in small volume today and, with liquidation absent, such orders were sufficient to produce minor rallies throughout the list. These included B. & O. 4½s, due 1960, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, due 1951, Erie Refunding 5s, New York Central General 3½s, and others.

Domestic bond traders had the foreign market almost entirely to themselves today, owing to the weakness of sterling exchange, which has curtailed buying from London. However, demand was sufficiently large to produce gains in Germans, Australians, and miscellaneous European bonds. British 5½s rallied a bit in the face of the decline of sterling.

German Liens Higher.

German bonds were held higher in such instances as City of Berlin Electric 6½s, Electric Power of Central Germany 6½s, German General Electric 7s, Prussia Free State 6½s, and others.

Municipal bond dealers reported a slight easing in the municipal market, which they accounted for chiefly on the score that preparation is being made in the street for the issue of $6,372,000 of St. Louis, Mo., 4 per cent bonds, to be offered at public sale tomorrow.

Can't Pay Taxes on Bungalow.

TO THE EDITOR: Three years ago I purchased a bungalow in Austin for $10,000, trading in a lot, which gave me an equity of $2,000; $3,000 due on contract, and a first mortgage of $4,500 expiring November, 1934. The terms of the contract called for a payment of $60 per month to apply on interest and principal. The party we purchased from holds the contract and deed to the property.

To date we have $2,600 paid in, making $2,000 due on contract. For the last ten months we have been unable to pay principal, but have paid interest to date. Due to unemployment, we have been unable to pay the 1930 taxes and the final assessment of $100 was due last January.

Last May we rented it out for $50 a month, moving into cheaper quarters, but this does not cover much more than the interest payment.

1. The holder of the first mortgage is now threatening foreclosure due to nonpayment of the taxes. He has received his interest to date. Is he within his rights in doing this?

2. The contract holder offers to cut the contract in half if we can raise $1,500 and pay him off. Have inquired about the Home Loan bank and learn that it will not handle second mortgages. Is this correct?

3. If we do not pay the assessment and taxes the contract holder will take the building back. What procedure is necessary for him to take possession and how long will it take to do this? The contract is recorded.

4. In view of the depreciation in real estate values, do you think it is advisable to try to pay up the expenses and keep the building. We have no assurance that we will not lose it at a later date if we cannot keep up the terms of the present contract.

Would appreciate an early reply, as I am being badly pressed about the payment of taxes and assessments—E. N.

ANSWER:

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. The contract holder can sue for possession. The time required is approximately thirty days. Many contracts are worded similar to promissory notes and in that case the holder can sue on the notes and secure a deficiency judgment against you. This is possible, but not probable. In cases where a substantial equity is represented, the court may uphold the owner and permit him to live out his equity.
4. Whether or not the property is worth the amount of the indebtedness must be determined by you. Real estate is generally considered to be worth 1-3 less than 1928 values.

Remember, you have two years in which to redeem delinquent taxes. If the property is sold for nonpayment of taxes this does not give absolute title, but places a cloud on the title of your property which must be removed at a later date.

HOG PRICES DIP TO EQUAL LOWEST LEVEL OF SEASON

Cattle Continue Advance; Lambs Steady.

Top light hogs dipped sharply yesterday, going down 25c to $3.20 before the break was halted. This price is on a par with the 1932 low and also equals the lowest top recorded at Chicago since December, 1878.

Hogs weighing under 200 lbs., which have been fetching premiums for several days, were first to decline yesterday. The general market for stronger weights showed 5@10c loss, with the average for the day off 5c at $3.20.

Trading dragged slowly during the first half of the session, but the market came suddenly to life with the appearance of larger packers in midsession. Closing rounds were active. All interests seemed eager for supplies. Apparently hogs "cut" worth the money at $3.30 and slightly below. Each time the market sinks to this level there is a sharp reaction in prices.

Receipts Are Heavy.

Less than a month ago the top price jumped from $3.30 to $4.00 in less than eight days after an almost steady decline that lasted several weeks. This fact has not escaped notice by the speculative element, which was decidedly more aggressive on closing rounds, in anticipation of a midweek reaction.

Yesterday's receipts at Chicago at 35,000 were 10,000 above the advance estimate. Supplies are largest since March, but much smaller than in 1931 and 1930. For instance, during the first two days of this week 81,600 arrived here, against 54,833 a week ago and 129,511 a year ago. In two days Armour, Swift, and Wilson slaughtered a combined total of about 42,000 head, the largest two day kill this fall. Eastern order buyers took out more than double the number bought by shippers the first two days of last week.

Cattle Continue Rise.

Supported by light receipts again yesterday, the cattle market continued its recovery and closed the session fully 50c above the low spot of last week. Instances of 75c and, in some cases, $1.00 gains were cited in various classes that took the brunt of last week's break.

Sellers are doing their utmost to goad the market into a steeper rise, but buyers are inclined to regard the position of the trade as being a trifle shaky, since wholesale beef prices have failed to respond as readily as the market for live cattle.

The trade is warning the country to load lightly in hopes of averting a relapse later in the week when the large number of show steers are auctioned off. These usually crowd out the regular market cattle for a short time, when most buyers representing railroads and hotels fill many of their orders at the auctions. Both yearlings and steers averaging in loads from 1,072 lbs to 1,305 lbs topped the market at $7.75 yesterday. Numerous loads sold at $7.00@7.25, with the bulk of all beef steers at $5.00@7.25.

Poorer grades ranged downward to $4.00, and thin, ill bred natives were sold as low as $3.00. Heifers were scarce and firm, but weakness was noted in the market for cows and plainer grades of butcher stock. Bulls held firm. Calves ruled strong to 25c higher.

Lambs in Demand.

Action was fairly good in the lamb market again yesterday, when only 10,000 head arrived. Prices maintained a fully steady to strong basis, with all houses out for numbers. City butchers hand picked a few natives up to $6.60, within 5c of the new top of $6.65 established late the previous session, while shippers and local packers bought fed western stock at $6.40 and below. Matured stock and yearlings were firm. Trading in the feeder division has come to life again. Replacement stock is scarce, and the bulge in the lamb market during the last few days has stirred up more country demand. Best grades of feeding lambs sold readily at $5.25@5.50.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 10,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 9,975 cattle, 21,456 hogs, and 12,472 sheep the previous Wednesday, and 12,954 cattle, 40,011 hogs, and 27,248 sheep a year ago.

PRICE OF WHEAT AGAIN REACHES ALL TIME LOW

Close for December Is 41⅞ Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Fears that millions of bushels of cash grain will be delivered on contracts tomorrow frightened speculators who have been long the December future for some time past and sent wheat down ⅝c at the opening yesterday to 41⅝c, or within ¼c of the all time record low in the local market. All deliveries of corn sold at a new low for the season, with December touching 23c, off 1c from the finish of the previous day. Oats equaled the lowest figures of the season.

Persistent liquidation of holders of the December future was in evidence, with cash interests buying the nearby month and selling the May to transfer hedges. Fresh speculative interest was lacking, and at no time did the markets show a tendency to rally.

Wheat closed ⅝c lower to ¼c higher, the latter on July, which was affected to some extent by distinctly unfavorable crop comments. December was 41⅞c at the last, the lowest close known on any delivery, while May was 46⅝@46⅞c, and July, 47⅛@47⅝c.

Expect Liberal Deliveries.

While the December-May wheat spread widened out to around 5c premium for the latter, against 4⅝c on Monday and 4¼c on Saturday, this is less than a full carrying charge difference, according to elevator interests. In some quarters it was believed that a liberal part of the 6,900,000 bu of contract grades in public elevators may be delivered on Thursday unless there is a further widening of the spread.

The continued decline in sterling exchange, with weakness developing in French francs, which dropped to within a fraction of the gold import price into this country, tended to create uneasiness on the part of holders, as there is no demand of consequence for American cash wheat from abroad. Current supplies available for export and for carryover in the United States are estimated at around 425,000,000 bu, after allowing for normal domestic requirements.

Not a single one of the world's leading wheat markets recorded an advance in prices yesterday. Liverpool finished ⅛@⅝c per bu lower, with December at 49⅛c, or 7¼c over the same future in Chicago. Winipeg was ⅛@⅛c lower, with December at 44⅝c in Canadian funds. Rotterdam lost ¼c and Buenos Aires was ⅝c lower.

Liquidation in Corn.

Liquidation was on in corn futures from the start, with commission houses selling December and May persistently. In many instances they took the July in return. Cash interests bought December and sold May to change over hedges. Closing trades were ⅛@1c lower, with December leading. The latter was 23c at the last, or 4⅞@5c under May, while July was 29⅝@29⅞c at the last. Current price of the December is the lowest since 1896, when it sold down to 20¾c in September.

December liquidation in oats carried prices steadily lower, with the inside figures of the day made at the close. Net losses were ½c, with December 14⅝@14⅝c, and May 17⅛@17⅝c. The December-May spread widened ⅜c. Rye was ⅞c lower to ¼c higher, with some selling against purchases of corn. December finished at 29¼c and May at 31½c. Rye was ¼c higher, with May at 32⅞c.

Persia Cancels Giant British Oil Concession

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Heavy losses took place in the oil market today on news that not only had the Persian government served notice on the Anglo-Persian Oil company that their present concession has been canceled but that the company's directors had decided not to declare an interim dividend.

SHAH RIZA KAHN.

The Anglo-Persian company has long been the center of a political feud involving the shah, Riza Khan Pahlevi, and indirectly the British government which holds a majority of the company's stock.

The concession itself dates from 1901 and is for 60 years. The British government entered the list of stockholders during the war to insure a fuel supply and is still holding its shares.

Persia Wants Revision.

The Persian government has been anxious to review the terms of its concession for years. An inspired campaign recently broke out in the Teheran press agitating for cancellation.

The Anglo-Persian company's answer to the shah so far has been confined to the bare statement that the concession contains no clauses either for revision or cancellation.

Under the concession's terms the Persian government receives 16 per cent of the company's net profits as royalty. The shah wants 25 per cent. He demands that the Persian state control the company's accounts and have the right to tax the company's profits at the point where they arise instead of in England where Burma, Shell, Mexican and British petroleum and oil companies, which are big holders in the concession, pay an income tax to the British government and where their refineries are situated.

In recent years the value of the Persian royalties has dropped from $6,500,000 to $2,500,000 annually. The concession covers half a million square miles of Persia's territory and in normal times produced almost six million tons of oil yearly.

Hope for Peace.

The decision to annul the concession was taken by the council of ministers at a meeting over which the shah presided. It was announced in a special edition of the newspaper Ettelat, which proclaimed it as an occasion for great national rejoicing since the "last foothold of foreigners on Persia's soil" was finally removed.

Official circles are still hopeful the Anglo-Persian company can induce the shah's government to rescind the annulment without diplomatic intervention, but realize this is not an ordinary business dispute, but an outburst of Persian nationalism.

From an official of the Persian government in London it was learned today that Persia has ordered quantities of munitions in the United States and that the shah's government is on the point of granting a virtual monopoly in the Persian automobile and rubber trade to the General Motors and Firestone interests directly over the heads of British competitors.

It is intimated that the French and Germans are anxious to gain the concession, but some hope that Americans will take over the fields.

Illinois Rates on Robbery Insurance Up

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 29.—[Special.]—Illinois is among those states which hereafter will have to pay top prices for holdup insurance, according to a new schedule of premium rates adopted by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. Danger of bank robberies in Illinois and the other states in its group is ten times greater than in those states in the preferred group.

Chicago and other large cities in the state, however, will suffer less by the new rates than rural communities. The bureau has found that likelihood of bank robbery losses in small towns is greater than in metropolitan centers, due to greater police efficiency in the big cities.

No Discount for Defense.

All companies in the holdup insurance business are members of the bureau, which promulgates a uniform rate schedule on the basis of the experience of its member companies. The new schedule does not allow discounts for special protection installations, such as tear gas bombs.

Residents of Illinois communities with 10,000 or less population now must pay twenty dollars per thousand for up to ten thousand dollars worth of holdup insurance; thereafter ten dollars per thousand.

Places of from 10,00 to 25,000 thousand persons will pay twenty dollars per thousand up to ten thousand; eight dollars per thousand thereafter. Larger cities will pay twenty dollars per thousand up to ten thousand; six per thousand thereafter. These rates represent material increases over the old ones.

Other High Rate States.

Other states considered equally as bad bank robbery risks as Illinois are Arkansas, Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Each of the other three groups of states has considerably lower rates. Residents in those states in the most highly preferred group must pay only two dollars per thousand for holdup insurance up to ten thousand; one dollar per thousand thereafter.

ROXY THEATER, OPEN, LOSES $2,500 A WEEK; CLOSED LOSS IS $4,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—The Roxy theater situation, as viewed by its receiver, is just a question of going from bad to worse. Although the big movie palace in the upper reaches of the Rialto has been losing an average of $2,500 a week while operating, it would cost $4,000 a week if it were closed, according to a report submitted by the receiver, Harry G. Kosch, to Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Judge Caffey today ordered a meeting of stock and bond holders and creditors on Dec. 9 to consider three suggestions for the theater's future—that it continue as at present on a modified scale, that it eliminate the orchestra and stage performances, and that it become a vaudeville house.

The report disclosed that "a disconcerting problem has arisen" through the contemplated opening of Samuel [Roxy] Rothafel's new playhouse in Rockefeller Center.

Pennsylvania Road Assets as of Sept. 30 Ahead of '31

The Pennsylvania railroad's Sept. 30 balance sheet shows total assets of $2,191,991,525, against $2,177,592,569 on Sept. 30, 1931. Profit and loss surplus was $204,610,535, compared with $221,782,737 a year ago.

Aviation Corp. Battle Ends with Election

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Under the compromise arranged two weeks ago by E. L. Cord and the management of the Aviation corporation, after a struggle for control of the company, a new board of directors consisting of 16 members was elected today, succeeding one of 35.

The new board was announced tonight by the Aviation corporation after representatives of the rival factions had been engaged in a long conference.

The statement issued by the company listed the new board as follows: Carl C. Conway, New York City; M. C. Meigs, Chicago; M. S. Sloan, New York; George R. Hann, Pittsburgh; Lyndol L. Young, Los Angeles; R. S. Pruitt, Chicago; Lindley C. Morton, Birmingham, Ala.; Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth; Richard F. Hoyt, New York; LaMotte T. Cohu, New York; W. A. Harriman, New York; Frank A. Vanderlip, New York; Robert Lehman, New York; E. L. Cord, Chicago; L. B. Manning, Chicago; Charles Lanier Lawrence, New York.

Only eight members of the old board were reelected.

STERLING DROPS TO NEW RECORD LOW OF $3.14½

Franc Breaks; Yen at All-Time Bottom.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Wilting under the continued uncertainty of whether Britain will be compelled to remit payment of $95,550,000 on the war debt next month, the pound sterling sagged again today to a new low record at $3.14½, recovering only slightly later in the day to close at $3.15⅝, off 2⅝ cents on the day.

European gold standard exchanges, which have hitherto resisted the weakening effects of the fall of sterling, also yielded today to the dominance of the dollar in the foreign exchange market. French francs fell to 3.90¾ cents, off ¼ point and within ½ point of the price at which gold could be shipped here from France. Belgian belgas dropped to the gold import point at 13.34½ cents but rallied and closed unchanged at 13.85 cents. Dutch guilders were down a point to 40.19 cents and Swiss francs lost ½ point to 19.22½ cents.

Yen at Record Low.

At the same time Japanese exchange broke badly again, to an all time low record slightly under 20 cents for checks, and when silver metal touched a record low in the New York market [though it rose in sterling value slightly in London], Chinese currencies were severely affected, the Hongkong dollar falling 25 points and the Shanghai tael 15, both establishing new lows.

From London came reports that there has developed a sudden scarcity of available dollars in the world markets that Britain may purchase to pay the United States. The evidence is that American currency has been bought up in France and elsewhere by exchange brokers as part of a scheme to depress the pound for the benefit of bears on sterling.

Britain Shipping Gold to U. S.

This situation strengthens the belief that Britain is making preparations to pay in gold. It was reported tonight that the Bank of England, acting on instructions from the treasury, was preparing to ship £30,000,000 of gold to New York prior to Dec. 15. This is supposed to be only a precaution in case the United States congress demands full payment not only of the interest but of the principal due that day. There is no official confirmation of this report of prospective gold

Africa Copper Firm Perils Output Curb

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—The international copper conference called to discuss production, marketing, and some problems of the industry held its first session today at the Waldorf-Astoria. The meeting, presided over by Francis H. Brownell, president of the Copper Institute, was attended by the leading executives of the large copper companies.

With the exception of representatives of the Roan Antelope Copper Mines, Ltd., it is understood that all at the conference appeared sympathetic toward the proposal to extend the present production agreement, which expires at the end of this year, through 1933.

Roan Antelope Wants Increase.

Roan Antelope, which operates in Northern Rhodesia, is reported asking for an increase of approximately 30 per cent from the production quota received in the conference last spring. The sentiment of the conference is said to be opposed to the granting of any increase to Roan Antelope and the feeling is that if Roan Antelope should insist, an agreement on production for next year will be virtually out of the question.

During the last few months Roan Antelope is understood to have increased its output of copper by about 50 per cent. It is estimated that its current production is approximately 3,100 long tons a month, which is the output asked for next year. The agreement last spring fixed Roan Antelope's quota at 23,379 short tons a year, or a little less than 2,000 short tons a month.

Low Cost Producer.

Although Roan Antelope is among the low cost copper producers, it is understood that there are several companies that can produce copper as cheap, if not cheaper, than Roan Antelope. The consensus is that these low cost producers will not continue operations at 20 per cent of capacity while Roan Antelope is producing at or near capacity.

At the conference about a year ago the representatives of Union Minere du Haut Katanga were the chief objectors to the curtailment plan as finally adopted.

Everything at the meeting was described as "quite harmonious" excepting the request of Roan Antelope. The question of marketing was not discussed, but will probably come up within the next few days. It is understood that Ferdinand Pisart, an executive of Katanga, has been working out a marketing scheme which he will probably submit to the conference soon for consideration.

The strictly domestic copper producers were not present at the conference today. However, domestic corporations with production abroad had representatives there.

BRITAIN PAYS ONLY ONE-FIFTH OF DEBT IN CASH

Balance in U.S. Bonds Bought at Discount.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Of the $1,351,720,000 of principal and interest which Great Britain has paid to this country on her war debt, since the deft funding agreement of 1923, only $276,547,164 has been in actual cash. The remaining $1,071,163,600 has been in the form of United States government securities and the accrued interest thereon, purchased at a discount in the market.

The present discussion of a possible shipment of some 15 tons of gold to this country as Britain's only means of meeting the payment of $95,550,000 due on Dec. 15 has raised the question of how that country was able in the past to remit promptly the payments due without having recourse to gold shipments and in what fashion the various payments were made.

Offered No Gold in Past.

In no case was gold tendered in the past, although it often occurred that gold shipments from Great Britain to this country were made during the latter part of the year to settle Britain's adverse balance of payments and of course the necessity of paying the war debt was an important factor in turning the balance against the United Kingdom.

Under normal conditions, however, British citizens acquire title to dollar balances in substantial amounts each year through the sale in this market of British-made goods. For example, in 1923, they sold us £61,000,000 worth of goods while the war debts payment for that year amounted to only £33,000,000.

The difficulty at present is that British merchants have not for some time sold us much goods. In 1931 they sold us only £17,000,000 worth and in the first half of this year only £8,750,000 worth.

Bought Bonds to Pay.

In the past it was the practice of the British treasury to maintain on deposit with J. P. Morgan & Co. a dollar balance equal, roughly, to about one installment on the war debt payment. From time to time as the opportunity offered, Morgan & Co., acting as fiscal agents for the British government, would purchase United States government securities that were selling at less than par and when the

December Bond Maturities Computed at 95 Millions

Bonds and notes falling due next month are computed at $95,492,020, of which $86,029,020 are domestic corporation securities and $9,463,000 are foreign loans. This compares with maturities of $109,003,030 in Dec., 1931.

DAVIS CONFIRMED AS RECEIVER OF ILLINOIS LIFE

The Greyhound Corporation

2600 Board of Trade Building
Chicago, Illinois

To the Holders of Three-Year 6% Collateral Trust Gold Notes of The Greyhound Corporation

THE above described Notes will mature March 1, 1933. The original issue was $4,000,000, of which more than $2,400,000 have been exchanged for the New Notes mentioned below.

The Corporation is without funds for the payment of its Three-Year 6% Collateral Trust Gold Notes. Because of prevailing abnormal financial conditions, it has been unable to arrange for refinancing, and it does not seem probable that such refinancing can be arranged at or before the maturity of the Notes.

The Corporation has, therefore, offered to exchange the outstanding Notes for New Notes. The exchange is being recommended by the investment banking houses which handled the original issue, inasmuch as the Noteholders' position will be materially improved by making the exchange.

Complete information as to the terms and conditions of this offer will be furnished upon request at the above address or at the Corporate Trust Department of First Union Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Illinois, or at The Minnesota Loan and Trust Company, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Prompt action is desirable, as certain inducements in the form of prepayment of interest and a cash bonus have been offered to Noteholders who exchange prior to January 1, 1933.

CREDIT WEAVES
ITS INVISIBLE THREAD
IN THE PATTERN OF COTTON PRODUCTION

FROM COTTON FIELD to finished goods, through all the processes of production, manufacture and distribution, credit weaves an unseen but indispensable thread.

Planting, ginning, shipping, spinning, weaving, manufacturing, wholesaling, and retailing—at each step, money is borrowed from banks and returned when the step is completed. Thus credit flows from bank to industry and back again, in an ever moving stream, as season follows season, as demand for credit diminishes here, increases there.

In every industry affecting the daily life of the nation, commercial banking plays an essential part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank, strategically located, is an important factor in mobilizing credit to serve American business.

STOCKS DRIFT A LITTLE LOWER; TRADE LANGUID

Gold Mining Group Shares Show Some Gains.

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 29.—Stock movements on the New York exchange were languid today. Some fifteen issues, including American Can, American Telephone, United Aircraft, Chrysler, Case, Du Pont, Westinghouse, Seaboard Oil, General Electric, United States Steel, and General Motors, accounted for about one-third of the total turnover, and up to the final hour of trading only two of these had run up a total of as much as 10,000 shares.

The grand total for the day was only about 500,000, which made it about the dullest session since the big "push" started back in the first week of July.

Prices Ease Lower.

Price tendencies were generally toward easier levels, but most changes were too inconsequential to carry any weight with sentiment either way.

A fresh break in the pound sterling, dropping the price to new record low levels, and a heavy tone of commodity markets, due in part to the exchange's weakness, served to restrain any public participation that might have developed in the market, and the professional element seemed even more cagey than usual in their routine endeavors.

Gold Mining Group.

The gold mining group attracted as much attention as any other, with Homestake moving ahead for another two points and Alaska Juneau adding a point to the gains it has been running up for the last few days. McIntyre was fairly active, but finished a fractional loser on the day, and Noranda made some pretense of joining in the procession. The group has been gradually working higher for several weeks.

A conspicuous soft spot was International Business Machine, which tumbled about 4 points on omission of the stock dividend usually declared about this time. The directors of the concern declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, however.

Railroad shares showed a somewhat firmer tone and commentators guessed that the improvement was due to the autumn traffic gains of the roads so far reporting. Hopes that the non-partisan Coolidge committee may recommend some legislation calculated to help the struggling carriers at the forthcoming session of congress was another count in the division's favor.

Off Day for Preferreds.

Preferred stocks had one of their off days, and losses of from 2 to 7 points were recorded in those of American Can, American Smelting, Anchor Cap, Standard Gas, Florsheim, and others.

Seaboard Oil featured what little activity there was in the oil group and rose nearly a point to within a fraction of its high for the year.

Tobacco shares were sluggish as usual. American Tobacco B dropped nearly 2 points under another minor selling drive.

About the only modicum of comfort the bull element was able to extract from the day's business was the absence of any important selling pressure. Lack of demand rather than any hurry to liquidate was the drag that carried the averages lower.

Form Investment Trust to Purchase Bonds Only

Organization of an investment trust in which bonds, rather than stocks, will form the investment channel was announced today by Distributors Group, Inc. The new trust will be known as the North American Bond Trust. Certificates will be offered for sale through a nationwide group of dealers, Hugh W. Long, president of Distributors Group, said. Approximately 80 per cent of the portfolio were said to include obligations of operating companies.

BRITAIN HAS PAID ONLY A FIFTH OF U. S. DEBT IN CASH

Balance Covered by U. S. Bonds Got at Discount.

time for the war debt payments arrived these securities would be tendered to the treasury at par, in accordance with the terms of the war debt agreements.

Thus, on a number of occasions, only a few dollars in cash [in one case only 37 cents] was needed to make up the exact difference between the securities tendered and the total amount of the payment. It was not until June, 1930, that a payment entirely in cash was necessary because no "governments" were available in the market at less than par. The two succeeding payments, those of December, 1930, and June, 1931 likewise had to be made in cash.

Summary of Payments.

Following is a summary of the payments made by Great Britain and the manner in which they were made:

1923, June: $69,000,000 paid entirely in liberty bonds. December, $92,000,000 also paid in liberty bonds, including accrued interest on the bonds.

1924, June: $69,000,000 of which $50,000,000 was in cash and $19,000,000 in treasury certificates of indebtedness. December: $92,000,000 of which $141,937 was in cash and the remainder in various United States government securities.

1925, June: $68,000,000 of which $76 was in cash and the remainder in treasury 2½ per cent notes. December: $92,000,000 in various government securities.

1926, June: $68,000,000 paid entirely in securities, $62,000,000 being 3½ per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness and $6,000,000 3 per cen certificates of indebtedness. December: $93,000,000 in various government securities plus interest.

1927, June: $68,000,000 of which $37 was in cash and the remainder in various government securities. December: $93,000,000 paid in treasury 4½ per cent notes due on the date of the payment.

37 Cents in Cash.

1928, June: $67,000,000, of which 37 cents was paid in cash and the remainder in 3½ per cent treasury notes plus accrued interest thereon. December; $94,000,000, of which $29 was paid in cash and the remainder in 3½ per cent treasury notes.

1929, June: $67,000,000, of which $13.50 was paid in cash and the rest in 3½ per cent notes. December: $94,000,000, of which $21 was in cash and the rest in various government securities.

1931, June: $66,000,000, paid entirely in cash.

The payments, whether in cash or in securities, were made by Morgan & Co. through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Where cash was paid it was in the form of a check in New York funds made out to the Federal Reserve bank of New York for the account of the United States treasury, and where United States government securities were presented title to them was transferred to the reserve bank for the account of the treasury.

At present, payment, if it is to be made, will not be in cash for United States securities are available, in the case of the low coupon issues at two to three points under par, making possible a substantial saving, if the British treasury decides to ship gold to buy dollars from the federal reserve bank and use the dollars in turn to buy United States treasury 3s or 3½s which are selling below par.

Republic Steel.

Please give me information on Republic Steel. I want to buy 20 shares.—Mrs. M. A.

Republic Steel corporation was incorporated in March, 1930, as a consolidation of eight steel companies. It now ranks as the third largest in the industry.

The company is completely integrated. About half its equipment is devoted to the manufacture of bars, about 15 per cent to strips, 13 per cent to pipes and tubes and 10 per cent to sheets. Rate of operations is dependent primarily on rate of activity in the automobile industry. About 25 per cent of output is taken by automobile manufacturers, 12 per cent by building and oil trades and 8 per cent by gas and water trades.

Percentage of output produced in finished form is high. The company does not manufacture rails or structural shapes. Iron ore reserves are estimated to be sufficient for 60 years and coal reserves are estimated to be sufficient to last 80 years.

The company was formed when none of the leading companies were operating on a satisfactory basis. Conditions steadily became worse and Republic Steel's operating results followed the trend of the industry.

Net loss for the first nine months of 1932 was $8,640,000, against loss of $5,513,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. Net loss for 1931 was $9,034,000, against net loss of $4,921,000 for the nine months to Dec. 31, 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $47,297,000 and current liabilities were $11,606,000. Unsecured notes payable were $3,000,000 and secured notes payable were $3,200,000. Working capital was $35,691,000, against $41,381,000 the year before.

Cash assets on Sept. 30, 1932, were $9,151,000. Funded debt totals $48,536,000. Guaranteed preferred stock of subsidiaries totals $5,000,000. There are outstanding 595,603 shares of 6 per cent cumulative, convertible preferred [par $100] and 1,953,920 shares of no par common.

At the close of 1931 funded debt and guaranteed preferred stock totaled 26 per cent of net property value and Republic Steel preferred an additional 27 per cent.

Results indicate that operations must average about 45 per cent of capacity to show a profit. Operations for the week ended Nov. 7, 1932, were about 18 per cent.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Oct. 1, 1930. Both the preferred and the common are speculative.

WE WILL SIGN UP A FEW AD-DITIONAL MEN IMMEDIATELY AT OUR CHICAGO BRANCH WHO WILL UNDERTAKE FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS AT $51 PER WEEK WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFITS IN SAVINGS FOR THE FIVE-YEAR PERIOD OF $1,500.

This program of earnings and savings is scientific and entirely new. It is a definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week and save a substantial additional profit. It is to such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes they must maintain. This is a permanent arrangement and we are not looking for the man who is not serious-minded about his future and not concerned about getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

You cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding and following instructions and if you are the man who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker, willing to pay a worthwhile price for success, we recommend that you come in Wednesday for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training will be furnish full employment with no deposit required. There is no expense.

We require men to be of good reputation, active and alert. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. Write us briefly to state the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed. SOLUTION TO A REVENGEFUL ATTEMPT

It was obviously a case of suicide. The door, with stuffing at the bottom on the INSIDE was locked on the OUTSIDE. The windows with cracks stuffed were also locked. Therefore no one could possibly have left the room. Duval, with an intense hatred for Olson, had locked the door on the outside, gone around and entered the study through a window, made his preparations, written the note hoping to incriminate his enemy, and killed himself.
